An Important Meeting
One War Scare Dies
Crawling Is Recommended
Our Old, Unsettled Earth

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini met today for a talk, each flying to meet the other near Venice, Hitler from Berlin, Mussolini from Rome. It will be as interesting a meeting as any that has happened since Francis the First of France went to meet Henry the Eighth of England on the "field of the cloth of gold," on the French side of the channel, and more important than that meeting.

Henry and Francis are said to have indulged in wrestling bouts. Hitler and Mussolini will do the same, only mental, not physical wrestling.

The French and the English governments would like to know exactly what the two dictators, the original and the copy, say to each other.

The meeting may be historical and in its results as important as the meeting between Attila and the Pope, Leo the First, nearly 1500 years ago, when the Pope persuaded the Asiatic barbarian to cross the Alps and leave Rome in peace.

The Japanese vice consul at Nanking disappeared mysteriously, was sought in vain. Japan decided that China had murdered him for political reasons, made threats, searched Chinese homes, sent war tanks rumbling through Shanghai streets and sent warships as a "warning without words." The vice consul had vanished, and, of course, he must be murdered.

Yesterday the vice consul, Eimei Kuramoto, was found in a graveyard, sitting beside an ancient tomb of the Ming dynasty, hungry, unkempt, gloomy. Chinese authorities say he told them that he had gone to the cemetery to commit suicide "because he had failed to achieve promotion in the Japanese consular service." He hoped wolves would eat him, but they did not, although he saw wolves amid the dismal tombs.

He changed his mind about committing suicide when he became very hungry. That gave him an interest in life.

One war scare is averted. Kuramoto, of the Ming tombs, will probably apologize to China for causing so much trouble. The sensitive Japanese do not like to be made ridiculous.

Perfectly solemn doctors, in Cleveland, say "prospective mothers" can escape one of the evils of childbirth, "infection of the tract below the kidneys" by "spending about an hour a day on their hands and knees. Crawling instead of walking from one place to another."

According to evolutionists, there is nothing surprising about this. Man was originally a creature walking on his hands and knees, his ribs arranged to hold up his interior apparatus, heart, liver, etc., the strong muscles of his abdomen planned to hold up the intestines. Now, "artificially" he walks on two legs, and everything sags down, which is harmful, especially for "prospective mothers."

Our old earth seems unable to "settle down" definitely. Earthquakes were felt over a territory of 47,000 square miles in the Argentine, with hail and rain storms of violence unprecedented. In one place 25 inches of rain fell in 24 hours, more rain in one day than falls in many of our states in a whole year.

Wonderful is the universe with its forces and counter-forces balancing each other. For instance, the power of gravitation which would draw all matter into one solid lump is offset by radio-activity, which disrupts atoms, throwing electrons into infinite space. Doctors tell you now that the hormones, strange product of your body's mysterious glands, "chemical messengers" flying through your body, regulating and stimulating every function up to the minute of your death, are controlled, held in check, by "anti-hormones," which act as "stabilizers," controlling the intense activity of the "rushing hormones."

Berlin Bars Pay on Foreign Debts

WORLD CRISIS SEEN BY U. S. BANK HEADS

Hundreds of Millions Owed to Americans; France May Act

BULLETIN

By International News Service

London, June 14 — German bonds, particularly the Dawes and Young plans issues, fell off sharply and closed lower on the London exchange today, influenced by Germany's moratorium.

Kreuger Potash six and a half per cent bonds dropped five points. The German seven per cent issue and the five and a half per cent issue, fell two and a half points. The market was irregular at the close.

By Associated Press

Berlin, June 14—The Reichsbank today declared a six months' moratorium on its foreign obligations, including the Young and Dawes loans. No cash transfers will be made from July 1, 1934, to Dec. 31, 1934.

The moratorium affects all medium and long-term foreign obligations.

By the one stroke, Germany will save herself approximately 400,000,000 marks (about $160,000,000) in foreign exchange for the second half of 1934.

There is no direct mention of either the Young or Dawes loan in the 10-page communique, since such loans are a government affair, but it was reliably reported:

"There will be no exchange available for servicing such loans."

World Crisis Looms; Millions in Loans Here

By Associated Press

New York, June 14—The Reichsbank's declaration of a six-month moratorium on all foreign obligations, including the Young and Dawes loans, was regarded in international banking quarters here as likely to lead to a sharp international controversy uness the order is modified.

Some financial quarters here suggested that France, particularly, as

SOX-TIGERS GAME OFF

Rain today caused the postponement of the Detroit Tigers-Red Sox game, the third of the present series at Fenway Park. The game will be played later in the season as part of a doubleheader. Mickey Cochrane's Tigers are scheduled to meet the Sox in the fina game tomorrow afternoon at Fenway.

Lindbergh Tests Big Flying Boat

Bridgeport, Conn., June 13 (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here today to make his second test flight of the huge Sikorsky flying boat, S-42.

The S142 probably will be ready for delivery to the Pan-American Airways in two weeks, officials said, after automatic pilots and other mechanical refinements have been installed.

Jimmie Safe With Safety Pin

MRS. WEAVER JIMMIE WEAVER

To swallow an open safety pin may cause some harm but if its a closed one then it isn't so bad. That's what an X-ray revealed in the Cambridge City Hospital after a frightened mother rushed two-year-old Jimmie Weaver there yesterday after he swallowed a closed safety pin. Jimmie is back home with his mother today a little bit scared but otherwise unharmed. (Picture by Boston American Staff Photographer.)

JIM'S PIN MAY BE GONE NOW

James Weaver, who is two years and some months old, today may have a safety pin within him for all the world knows, and again, James may not have that safety pin in him. It is or was a closed safety pin. Anyway, he swallowed one.

It was like this. The parents of James, who live in Pleasant street, Cambridge, rushed him to Cambridge City hospital. Physicians took an X-ray and found that the pin was there and there was nothing really to worry about.

So James was sent home with advice that will undoubtedy relieve him of the pin without surgical aid.

Girl Lured by Stage Disappears Again

Police throughout the state have been requested to look for Angel Baharvian, 15, daughter of Mrs. Zaroohi Baharvian, of 51 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, who, for the second time within a month, ran away June 5 to become a dancer, according to her mother.

The girl disappeared without money and with only the clotnes she had on, after telling her aunt that she had to do an errand and would be right back. Scarcely two weeks ago she ran away to try to get a job dancing in a theater.

Man Missing in Double Killing at Lowell

By JAMES J. SMITH
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Lowell, June 14 — A prominent man, living within 10 miles of the Caouette farm where Paul Caouette and his attractive young wife were slain last Friday, has been missing since Monday, the Boston Evening American learned today.

The man in question has been a frequent visitor at the Caouette farm and was known to be friendly with both the slain man and his wife.

Police uncovered this fact today shortly after a report that the identity of the slayer was known to them and that an arrest could be expected within a few days.

The missing man is known to have been at the murder scene on

CARNEY VOTES TO BE THROWN TO CURLEY

ERA Head to Toss His Support to Ex-Mayor in Surprise Move

Other Stories on Page 6

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Convention Hall, Worcester, June 14—Joseph P. Carney of Gardner, internal revenue collector and head of the ERA in Massachusetts, will throw his support to James M. Curley, former mayor of Boston, for governor on the first ballot.

This disclosure today, shortly after the pre-primary convention opened, caused a furore among delegates.

Carney was hailed as a candidate to block Curley only 24 hours ago. His candidacy yesterday was taken by many to mean the Roosevelt administration did not favor Curley.

But now his indicated support of the former Boston mayor appears to place the Washington administration squarely behind Curley despite the neutrality of James Roosevelt. Many of the delegates were dumbfounded.

Carney is said to control 60 votes. Curley will display his greatest strength on the first ballot and hopes to win then and there, according to his managers.

With Governor Ely and Senator David I. Walsh backing General Charles H. Cole of Boston, the situation was becoming more tense every minute as the time for voting—scheduled for later today—drew near.

Representative William P. Doyle of Malden withdrew from the race for lieutenant-governor in favor of

HANFSTAENGEL IN BLAST GRILL

By Associated Press

New York, June 14.—The New York World Telegram says today it has learned on official authority that Dr. Ernst F. Sedgwick Hanfstaengel, Hitler's trusted lieutenant, will be subpoenaed to testify about the Black Tom explosion case and Nazi propaganda. He will land here Saturday on the Europa to attend a reunion of his class at Harvard.

The World Telegram says the accusation that he was concerned in the Black Tom case is contained in an affidavit now in the State Department in Washington. He is accused, the World Telegram says, by James Larkin, deported Irish radical.

The congressional committee investigating Nazi propaganda, before which Hanfstaengel will be called, is particularly concerned, the World Telegram states, over his alleged sabotage, because of the charges sworn by Larkin.

The Black Tom disaster occurred July 30, 1916, when tons of munitions were exploded at the Jersey City terminal.

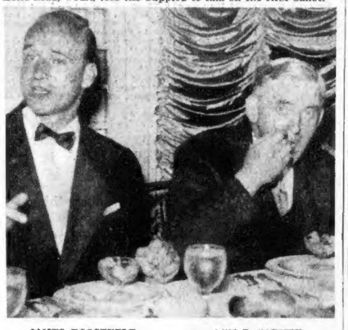
Lull Before the Storm at Worcester

DR. HELEN I. D. McGILLICUDDY EX-MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY

Former Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, original champion of the Roosevelt campaign for Prseident in Massachusetts and a leader in the fight for the Democratic nomination, is shown with Dr. Helen I. D. McGillicuddy, a convention delegate, at the banquet table last night. Today the ex-Mayor was given unexpected support by the announcement that Joseph P. Carney, ERA head, would toss his support to him on the first ballot.



JAMES ROOSEVELT JOSEPH P. CARNEY

James Roosevelt, son of the President, shown with Joseph P. Carney, a candidate for a time for the leading post on the Democratic ticket, are shown at the banquet table. Young Roosevelt was accorded a huge demonstration by the delegates when he was introduced. Carney's action in favor of Curley stunned the convention delegates and was taken by many to be the official Washington stamp on Curley's candidacy. (Pictures by Boston American Staff Photographer.)

Parents of Dog Bite Victim Rap Doctors and Police

Two doctors, now under investigation by the State Department of Health, and State police were criticized today by Mr. and Mrs. Merle G. Brewer of Marion street, in connection with the death of their only child, Norma, 7, who succumbed to hydrophobia. The parents announced they approved the action of Dr. James A. Dumas, Lynn health commissioner, in bringing charges against the two doctors.

State police were criticised by the parents for their failure to find the dog, which bit their daughter in Middleton five weeks ago. They also charged police did not report the matter to health authorities.

Mayor J. Fred Manning, who offered his sympathy to the parents, said he was not informed on the details of the case. He said he had full confidence in Dr. Dumas, and approved of his action in bringing charges against the doctors.

The father and mother declared today that their daughter would be alive today if she had received the Pasteur treatment. They said it was their understanding that this should have been done. They expressed confidence in Dr. Dumas.

They said their daughter was bitten by a white Spitz dog in Middleton five weeks ago. The matter was reported to State police within an hour. However, they claim, police did not find the dog and failed to report the incident to health officials.

The dog has not yet been found, and police admitted that they have not even learned the identity of the owner.

PRIMO TIPS 263 1-4, MAX 210 FOR BIG GO

Conway Picks Italian to Win, and He Is 10 to 8 Choice

By JACK CONWAY,
Sports Editor, Boston Evening American.

New York, June 14—Primo Carnera will carry a 53¼-pound weight advantage into the ring with him tonight when he defends his heavyweight championship against Max Baer.

When the rival behemoths weighed in at the offices of the boxing commission today, Primo made the scale tremble at 263¼ pounds. Baer weighed 210 pounds.

Ancil Hoffman, manager of Baer, asked the boxing fathers to instruct tonight's referee not to permit the giant Primo to hold with his left hand and club with his right.

Hoffman declared Carnera drives his right to the base of an opponent's brain. The punch is similar to the "rabbit" blow which has been barred from boxing.

$400,000 GATE LOOMS

Broadway felt that Hoffman wanted to shift the burden of rough fighting to Carnera. It has been openly stated that Baer planned to hit low and pull other rough tactics.

The weather man has promised clear weather for the fight although the sky was overcast.

It is expected that 50,000 will attend the championship test. The gate will probably reach $400,000, with a late ticket rush swelling the take. Choice ringside seats are bringing $200 a pair from the specs

GANG KIDNAPS OFFICER

By Associated Press

Davenport, Ia., June 14—Elmer Schlueter, Davenport police officer, and Al Schultze, secretary of the Davenport Western League baseball club, were kidnaped by bandits near the Union Station today.

Schleuter and Schultze walked up to several men in a car whom they suspected of trying to steal another machine at the station. Suddenly the men drew guns and covered the par, ordered them into the car and drove rapidly away.

Ely Auto Plate Stolen

One of the number S-1 registration plates on Governor Ely's car, parked before the Bancroft hotel, Worcester, was stolen last night. Police were in doubt as to whether this was a genuine robbery or the work of a souvenir hunter.

Police of all Massachusetts cities and towns, including Boston, are on the lookout for the missing S-1.

Liquor Plea Denied

The Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission today announced that it had denied the appeal of the Davis Square Social Club, Inc., of Somerville, to have its liquor license reinstated.

HITLER NERVOUS AS DUCE GREETS HIM AMID BRISTLING GUNS

MUSSOLINI AT EASE, SMILES AT GERMAN'S DISCOMFORT

Copyright, 1934, by International News Service.

Venice, June 14 (INS)—Adolph Hitler, chancellor of Germany, stepped out of a tri-motored Junkers plane into the blinding sunshine at the Lido Airport here today. Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy shot forth his hand in a stiff-armed salute. Hitler lifted his hand in his characteristic limp gesture.

They shook hands. Hitler smiled faintly, a trifle nervous. Mussolini gavely spoke a few words in German, then smiled broadly at ease.

The two dictators had met.

DUCE AS CORPORAL

Mussolini wore the green uniform of an honorary corporal of the Fascist militia. Hitler wore a black, double-breasted business suit and a gray raincoat. This has been his invariable attire for the past 15 years. New was his brown velour hat. Mussolini wore a black fez with a tassel.

From the Fascist side the reception was strictly military. From the German side it was as strictly civilian.

For this event of prime importance for Italy, Germany, Austria and Europe as a whole, the police allowed none of the public to be present.

Hitler appeared not quite at ease. Mussolini was perfectly composed.

Holding his hat in his hand while Mussolini retained his cap, Hitler, walking side by side with Il Duce, inspected the guard of honor and then went to a motorboat flying a Nazi flag.

ALL BOATS BARRED

The Lido Airport is an ideal place to receive a guest whom police wish to guard. It can only be reached by boat, and no boat was allowed to cross the lagoon. Probably no such event has been witnessed by so few persons.

Speeding over the pale blue waves into the Grand Canal, Mussolini's motorboat took Hitler past a chain of 13 Italian destroyers. As they landed, sunshine gleamed on a torpedo's snout and gave a certain menacing background to the reception of the Nazi leader.

Behind the cordiality of the two dictators today lay the consciousness that just over the northern border a few miles from here Austria is suffering anew from a wave of Nazist terror. Together for the first time today are the man who wants that terrorism stopped and the man who could stop it if he would.

TERROR IN AUSTRIA

The bomb terrorism, the sabotage of railways, is an Austrian Nazi effort to intimidate and demoralize Chancellor Dollfuss, Austria's fighting "vest-pocket" dictator.

To Hitler, Austria is "German" and he wants to control it indirectly, if not directly. Mussolini pledged Austria's independence in the triple Italian-Austrian-Hungarian pact signed in Rome last March.

That is but one aspect of the Mussolini-Hitler meeting. Will Austria be sacrificed on the altar to make peace between Mussolini and Hitler and bring about a new lineup in Central Europe of Germany, Italy, Austria, Hungary, and possibly Poland?

BULLETIN

Venice, June 14—After greeting Hitler, Mussolini went to the Piazzale Roma by motorboat, then started through ranks of police toward his automobile. A small boy, disregarding uniformed authority, broke through the police line and begged Il Duce to sign his Facist card. Mussolini obliged.

Then the crowd went wild, tossed the police aside, surged around the Premier and, cheering, carried him on their shoulders to his automobile.

Stalin and Kemal Pasha to Confer, London Hears

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service, Inc.

London, June 14—Josef Stalin, Russia's "Iron Man," and Mustapha Kemal Pasha, dictator of Turkey, will meet in a secret conference in Moscow this September, according to information reaching diplomatic circles in London from Istanbul.

Following the Venetian meeting being staged by Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Premier Mussolini of Italy, the talks between Turkey's "Ghazi" and the Red ruler of the Soviets will start a counter-move in the maneuvers of dictators on the complicated chessboard of European diplomacy.

Both Kemal Pasha and Stalin are watching with closest attention the meeting of the Fascist and Nazi dictators. According to the Istanbul reports, Kemal will leave for Moscow toward the end of September, after the Turkish army has held extensive maneuvers.

Grand Jury Gets Continental Case

United States Attorney Francis J. W. Ford and his assistant, John A. Canavan, were before the grand jury in connection with the affairs of the closed Boston-Continental National Bank today.

At least five former officials of the closed bank are under investigation for alleged misapplication of funds of the institution, it was learned. It is expected that an indictment will be returned against one of the men in a special report to be made to Judge Hugh D. McLellan. Four others will be indicted later, it was learned.

Baby Saved By Sophie Tucker

By International News Service

London, June 14—Sophie Tucker, famous American vaudeville actress, played the role of baby heroine today, rescuing a child from under the wheels of an automobile and narrowly escaping serious injury herself.

Sophie Tucker

The incident happened in High street, Brentford, and Miss Tucker pulled the child out of the way just in time to prevent it being run down by the car. Miss Tucker's leg was slightly bruised but the child was unhurt.

Miss Tucker continued to the yacht in the Thames river where she is being filmed for a movie.

FLOOD OF 'BAD MONEY' HERE

Spurious $1, $5, $10 and $20-bills, said to be the product of a Boston counterfeit ring, are being put in circulation by agents of the ring, it was said at the Federal Building today.

Department of Justice agents are co-operating with police of Boston and neighboring cities and towns in rounding up a gang of passers of the money. The gang's hideout is sought.

Carefull scrutiny of the bills will disclose defects in the photographs on each, especially near the eyes, which are somewhat blurred.

The bills are sold to passers at the rate of $3 for $10 worth.

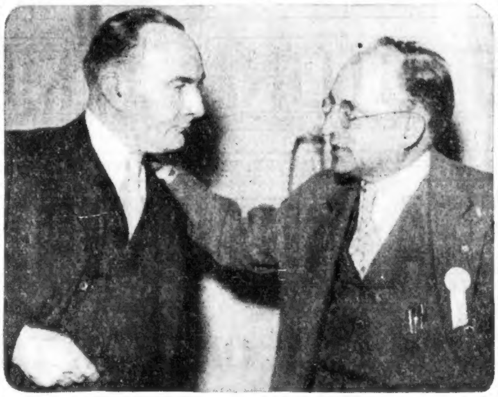
Summons Out for Reception

In a novel form of invitation, couched in legal terms and having the semblance of a sheriff's writ, friends of Attorney Samuel G. Thorner, a recent benedict, are summoned to gather next Tuesday night at the Lido for a reception to the attorney and his bride.

The lawyer and his bride, the former Miss Tilly Dorothy Gersin of 44 Church street, Wakefield, were married June 3 at the Gardner Manor, Brookline, and will return next week from a honeymoon trip to Bermuda and Nassau.

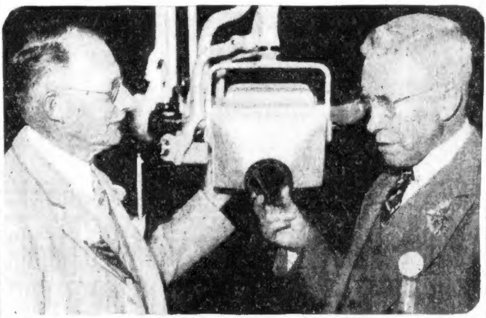
Among those upon whom "summonses" have been served, District Attorney William J. Foley, Police Commissioner Hultman, William M. Prendible, clerk of superior court; Police Commissioner Hultman, Commissioner of Corrections Frederick J. Dillon, Judge Elijah Adlow, Judge Joseph Donovan, Judge Michael J. Murray.

Candid Beats X-Ray at Own Game



The Candid Camera dropped in at the annual convention of the Northeastern Dental Society at New Ocean House, Swampscott, and caught Dr. E. W. Hornan, Lynn, right, past president of the association, giving a few pointers to his successor, Dr. Mark J. Rice, Somerville.

There were no rainbows at the 21st annual meeting of the N. E. D. S., but the pot of gold was really there. Horace Wood shows Miss Alice O'Brien a bowl of pure gold used for filling teeth. The theme song has been changed to "Every tooth has its golden lining."



It isn't human, but it can look right through you. The Candid Camera snapped Dr. H. B. Osgood, Lexington, vice-president, and Dr. Henry Yale, Peabody, secretary, discussing the newest type X-ray machine at the yearly gathering of the N. E. D. S. Well, here's looking at—or is it through—you! (Photo by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

GERMANY STOPS ALL DEBTS BY MORATORIUM

a large holder of the Young plan bonds, might be expected to make strong representations.

While definite information as to the amount of the two loans now held by American investors was unavailable, it is estimated that the total is now somewhere around $100,000,000.

Issues were offered in France, Holland, Switzerland, Sweden, Italy and Great Britain, as well as in the United States. The total amount of the Dawes plan issue offered in all countries was approximately $275,000,000 (at the old dollar parity) and of the Young plan, $350,000,000.

By far the larger part of the German obligations held in the United States, however, is not in the Dawes and Young issues, but in the bonds of German municipalities and other governmental subdivisions, and of German corporations. The heavy repatriation of these issues in recent years has made estimates as to the total amount now held by Americans difficult, but the figure is believed to be somewhere around $600,000,000.

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 14—Germany's moratorium of foreign obligations met with no immediate comment today by administration officials. The seriousness of financial conditions in Germany has been known by officials, however, and the moratorium came as no surprise.

Washington, June 14 (INS)—Europe will not be permitted to flood the United States with competitive goods in order to obtain cash with which to pay the 10 billion dollars owed American taxpayers.

This was made plain today in authoritative quarters, where it was said America's willingness to consider part payment in goods and services does not mean this government intends to open American markets to foreign competitive goods.

That, it was pointed out, would be merely a back-door method of having American consumers give Europe the money with which to pay its debts to this country.

DEACON SPURNS SWEEPS CASH

Portsmouth, N. H., June 14—Having won $2572 in the Irish Sweepstakes, Cedric L. Wood, trucking contractor and Seventh Day Adventist Church deacon, now will give back the money, the deacon admitted today.

It is all because the laws of his church forbid profiting through games of chance.

Wood, who operates the Wood Trucking & Express Co. in State street, bought a ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes. His ticket drew the horse Quai D'Orsay and because it drew a horse $2572 accrued.

Freeman O. Emerson, 30 years treasurer of the Boston Industrial Home, and vice-president of the Hillside School for Boys in Marlborough, was elected a member of the corporation of the Charlestown Five Cent Savings Bank at the annual meeting of the directors.

Mr. Emerson is the oldest officer in point of service of the Boston Industrial Home, which institution, in the past 57 years, has cared for the needs of more than 120,000 men and women.

HOLC DELAYED BY OWNERS' ANXIETY

75 P. C. of Questions Are Useless, Says Manager LeHand

Persons who are either too worried or too impatient to permit the Massachusetts agency of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation to make the required investigations of their loan applications keep the agency staff busy six hours out of every eight answering unnecessary questions.

That statement was made today by State Manager Daniel LeHand, a brother of Margaret LeHand, confidential secretary of President Roosevelt.

9961 LOANS MADE

"They occupy 75 per cent of our time with useless questions," he said. "We realize that they are in anxious circumstances, and every effort is made to complete refinancing.

"Whenever we encounter an obstacle, we communicate with the applicant or mortgagee. No other contacts are necessary. Consequently, I earnestly plead for the co-operation of all by avoiding these interruptions to their own interest."

At the close of business on Saturday, the state agency had closed 9961 loans, Le Hand reported, with a volume of $44,139,539. Of this total, $2,623,721 went directly to cities and towns for delinquent taxes. The average loan was $4431.

MORTGAGE HOLDERS HELP

To date, 39,211 applications for a total of $177,902,992 have been received.

The readiness of mortgage holders to do their part in permitting borrowers to retain their homes is indicated by the fact that of the 39,211 cases before the agency the mortgagees' consent to take Home Loan bonds was obtained in 32,338 cases.

Barbara Nichols, 17 Weds Park Leslie

Miss Barbara R. Nichols, 17, of 15 Edson street, Dorchester, and W. Park Leslie of Abbott road, Wellesley Hills, were married privately yesterday by Rev. Dr. Norman Hutton of Wellesley, in the presence of a few members of the two families at Longwood Towers, it was learned today.

Miss Nichols is the daughter of John H. Nichols, wealthy Boston wool merchant. The bride was graduated from the Misses Allen's exclusive Newton school this month, and the bridegroom has attended the Berkshire and Beacon schools. The couple plan to spend the summer at Wiscasset.

H. D. Goodenough Dies in Brighton

Harold D. Goodenough, of 104 Foster street, Brighton, died from a heart attack, while talking with friends near Parsons street, Brighton, last night. He was well known in the market district, and as the donor of Rogers Park. He is survived by his widow and one son, Tappan ("Taps") Goodenough, Boston Evening American staff artist.

Woman, 80, Gives Birthday Recital

Three Father Day Services in Church

Fathers' Day will be observed at the Ruggles Street Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev. J. T. Rider, will preach at the 10:30 a. m. service on the theme, "Peace and War." At noon he will speak to the men on the lesson subject, "The Conquering Christ." In the evening his topic will be, "The Job of Being a Dad."

ICKES PROBES LAND VALUES

Washington, June 14—Secretary Ickes conducted a searching examination today to determine if land values for housing projects aided by the government had been "watered." The inquiry in the Public Works Administrations, Housing Division, became known yesterday after Robert D. Kohn, of Ossining, N. Y., former president of the American Institute of Architects, handed Ickes his resignation as director of the division. The Secretary of the Interior is PWA administrator.

High officials said no question of honesty or integrity is involved. Ickes was said to have thought there was a tendency to accept, without a careful check, the land valuations named by borrowers of government money. He also wants to learn whether fees were inflated.

THORP, UNRUFFLED, AWAITS FINAL RULING BY WINANT

GOVERNOR TO ACT ON CASE LATE TODAY

Statement Settling the Prisoner's Fate Due This Afternoon

Concord, N. H., June 14—Apparently unruffled over the possibility he will be hanged Saturday for the slaying of Joseph Trudeau, Sydney Thorp today awaited an announcement from Governor Winant which may bring a commutation of his sentence.

At noon today, after a two-hour conference with Attorney-General Francis Johnston, the governor siad he would make a statement on the case late this afternoon.

While Thorp read calmly in his cell, the governor and attorney-general reviewed final evidence in the case. At the same time, Thorp's counsel, Stewart Rowe, was hurrying here from Portsmouth with two witnesses he found overnight. An audience with the governor will be sought.

Thorp was expected to be visited by members of his family. It is possible his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Thorp, of Biddeford, Me., who once offered to take his place on the scaffold, may visit him. She was reported, however, as being near collapse at her home.

Intense excitement over the doomed man's fate followed, as a dramatic reaction to disapproval of three governor's councillors to capital punishment. The governor also is an opponent of the death penalty, having waged a legislative fight against it.

The other two of the five councillors believe in the death penalty and are firm in their stand for the execution of Thorp Saturday morning.

At the close of the council meeting yesterday, Governor Winant told a Boston Evening American reporter:

"I am personally opposed to capital punishment. But when we take office, we take oath to uphold every law in the statute books. Capital punishment is one of our laws."

16 Twin 'Grads' in Medford

Eight pairs of twins were among the 598 graduates of Medford High school. This is believed to be a record for a graduating class of this size.

The twins are David C. and Katherine C. Baker, Barbara K. and Marion F. Broderick, Edward F. and James P. Doyle, Hazel V. and Inez H. Golding, Barbara P. and Phillis W. Johnson, Earl A. and Robert L. Lynde, Eileen V. and Elaine V. MacNeil, and Vernon H. and Virginia H. Sherman.

Of the twins, three were among six students to make highest honors, both the Golding twins and Barbara K. Broderick being on the list. Miss Inez Golding held second highest class honors.

Mayor Roche's Son Improving

Gilbert Roche, 8, son of Mayor James A. Roche of Everett, who is at the Whidden Memorial hospital, Everett, with an attack of pneumonia, was reported as very much improved this morning by hospital authorities.

Young Roche was given oxygen two days ago and since the treatment he has been showing improvement.

Slain Dillinger Gangster's Girl Ill

Jean Compton, who was the sweetheart of Tommy Carroll, one of the Dillinger gang, and was shot to death in the fight at Waterloo, Ill., is desperately sick in her prison cell at Madison, Wis. She told the prison doctors she is suffering from an illegal operation performed in Chicago. Prison officials say she is also suffering from the shock of seeing her sweetheart killed. The young woman was employed at Little Bohemia when Dillinger made his escape from a trap. She was placed on probation for a year; and later sentenced to serve a year in prison. East Boston Tunnel Toll Approval Is Sought

Approval of a schedule of tolls for vehicles using the new East Boston tunnel to meet the annual operating expense of $1,245,750 for the tunnel was sought today before the State Public Utilities Commission by H. Murray Pakulski, assistant corporation counsel of Boston.

Under this schedule the toll for passenger vehicles and trucks up to two tons will be 25 cents; for trucks in excess of two tons, 50 cents, and 65 cents for buses of the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Company.

It was estimated that 11,800 passenger cars and two ton trucks would have to use the tunnel daily to raise a million dollars in revenue from this class of vehicles.

The Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway is expected to provide ten-minute bus service through the tunnel. Arthur G. Wadleigh, Chairman of the Board of Public Trustees for this Company declared that the proposed 65 cent bus toll was prohibitive.

W. L. O'Brien, representing the Revere Chamber of Commerce, argued that the residents of Revere could not afford the 25 cent auto toll and would bear with the present difficult way rather than pay such a charge.

He felt that cars from out of state should be charged a higher rate and even advocated a graduated scale for those cars coming from outside the metropolitan district.

Pakulski closed the hearing by reminding the delegation from Revere that any loss in operating the tunnel would have to be born by the taxpayers of Boston, and consequently a lower rate would be unfair to them.

HULTMAN CAR HITS TRUCK

Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman narrowly escaped injury today, when the auto in which he was riding from his summer home in Duxbury to Boston, crashed into the rear of a truck in Washington street, Weymouth.

The accident occurred when the truck driver misunderstood the signal of Traffic Officer Paul Humphrey, and came to a stop instead of proceeding. Hultman's machine, directly behind, crashed into the rear of the truck.

MYSTERY GIRL FOUND IN COMA

Winthrop police today kept secret the name of a well-dressed young woman, found in a semi-conscious condition early this morning near the Revere Street bridge in Winthrop Highlands.

Three youths who discovered her took her to Winthrop Community Hospital, where she was given first aid for a lacerated eye and bruised arms and legs. A relative called for her at the hospital and drove her home.

Blaze In Malden Laid to Children

Children and matches are alleged to have been responsible for a serious fire in Malden late yesterday, which for a time threatened the Mount section of the city. A large shed was destroyed and the fire spread to a barn at 11 Montrose street.

Firemen formed a water curtain and prevented the flames spreading to the house. The property, which was unoccupied, is owned by the Malden Savings Bank. Damage was about $5000.

Medford Girl Held In Forgery

Arraigned on a charge of forgery in Malden court, Miss Daisy Pollock, 21, of Prescott street, Medford, a member of one of the city's oldest families, pleaded guilty and was held in $300 bonds for the grand jury. Bail was promptly furnished by relatives.

Ex-Mayor Cliff of Somerville Is Dead

A victim of appendicitis, former Mayor Zebedee E. Cliff, of Somerville, died last night at the Baker Memorial hospital after an operation. He is survived by three sons and two brothers.

DAILY 2 NAZI FOES SEIZED

The police today put a quick stop to the fourth consecutive noonday anti-Nazi demonstration in front of the German consulate at 131 State street, arresting two more pickets for carrying placards without permission.

A dozen of their companions, not between sandwich boards, were not taken, but followed voluntarily to Station 2 and had to be barred out by officers.

Those arrested today were Paul Yureck, 24, of Fottler road, Mattapan, and Henry Gilman of Hollander street, Roxbury. They make the total apprehended eight in four days.

The six who were arrested on previous days, a woman amongst them, were found not guilty of sauntering and loitering earlier in municipal court, and after a finding of guilty on the charge of carrying placards without a permit, the cases were filed.

Placards displayed today read:

"Stop Hitler Murder Plans—Save Thaelmann, Anti-Fascist German Workers League Leader."

"Under Hitler 3000 People Murdered; 119,682 Crippled for Life! 174,000 in Prison Camps. Jewish People Outlawed—Jewish Workers Club."

'TEETH' STORY IS DENIED

Testimony that the teeth Mrs. Viola Martin of Sudbury claims were knocked out by her employer, when she prevented an incendiary fire in a Sudbury bungalow in 1931, were missing two years before the incident were offered in Middlesex Court today by Frederick Scribner of Hyde Park.

He was testifying in the trial of Mrs. Martin's employer, William A. Lockhart, the latter's sons, Bertram and Chester, and Mrs. Annie Fencer, all of Edenfield avenue, Watertown. Lockhart is charged with setting fire to the bungalow with intent to defraud an insurance company, and the others with aiding in the fire.

Scribner testified he met Mrs. Martin five years ago and that he noticed she had teeth missing when she smiled. It was these teeth Mrs. Martin claims were knocked out by Lockhart in November, 1931.

Crimeless Town Found in Texas

Van Horn, Texas, June 14—A Texas town where there hasn't been a crime committed or a bank robbed since January, 1934, has been found by District Attorney Roy Jackson.

Jackson went to Van Horn to empanel a grand jury to investigate pending cases.

"We empanelled the grand jury, but there were so cases to take up, so the jury was dismissed," he reported.

QUINTUPLETS' MOTHER IS IMPROVING

By Associated Press

Corbeil, Ont., June 14—Mrs. Ovila Dionne, 24-year-old mother of Canada's celebrated quintuplets, was abed today, but Dr. A. R. Dafoe said alarm was not felt for her condition. He described her recovery since birth of the five girl babies as remarkable.

The family physician explained that rest was necessary for Mrs. Dionne and that she probably would remain in bed for a week or two.

She has borne 11 children, 10 of whom are living.

The five little sisters continued to improve, registering another gain in weight. They now weigh 11 pounds ¼ ounces, 15 ounces more than they did ten days ago.

Yvonne, at 42 ounces, is the heaviest of the lot, while Marie, who weighs 29½ ounces, is the lightest.

Daddy in Salem Jail, While 7 Children Go Hungry

A Salem mother and her seven small children were revealed to be in a desperate plight today, while the husband and father is serving a one-year sentence in jail.

The father, Lionel Lussier, of Curtis street, started his sentence last October for violating the liquor law. It was the eighth time he had been charged with this offense since September, 1928, and his first conviction, police records reveal.

Since the father has been in jail the mother and her children have had a hard battle for sufficient food. She receives $8 weekly from the city as a food order, but finds it hard to get enough nourishment from this for herself and the children.

Two of the children, Richard, 9, and Jeanne, 7, attend the Bentley School in Salem, and it was through them that the desperate straits of the family were revealed. Their haggard appearance finally attracted the attention of Miss Mary A. Barry, the principal. After talking to them she sent a janitor out for crackers and milk, and started a movement to secure aid for the family. The other children are Lorraine, 6, Dennis, 4, Nancy, 3, Leonard, 1½, and Robert, 4 months.

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children has been notified, and is expected to take action within the next few days.

Pair to Wed in Lion's Cage

By International News Service

Northampton, Mass, June 14—A pair of husky circus lions will be witnesses to the marriage tomorrow of James Duplissy, 21, and Miss Secelia A. Tessier, 22, who have secured a waiver of the five-day law in order that they may be married in the lions' cage before the circus leaves town.

The time of the ceremony will depend upon the temper of the lions.

HUNDREDS SEE PAIR RESCUED IN HARBOR

Two East Boston men in a leaking launch were rescued off Deer Island today by the Nantasket steamer, Mayflower, and towed into Boston as hundreds of passengers, en route to this city, watched the rescue.

The two men, Joseph Barry and Ralph Kearney, of East Boston, were in an electric welding launch, owned by the C. M. Parker Company. While heading for Boston the craft started to leak as they were passing Deer Island.

At the same time they saw the Mayflower, and their frantic hand-waving attracted the attention of Captain Nickerson and his crew aboard the Nantasket boat. The Mayflower's crew threw a hawser to the two men, and towed them to Rowe's Wharf.

NAVY OFFICERS SEIZE PLANE EXPLOSIVES

Livingston Manor, N. Y., June 14—All documents and chemical samples carried by William Bader, a passenger aboard the American Airways "luxury liner" which crashed against a Catskill peak with a loss of seven lives, were seized here by naval authorities.

As a result of the Navy Department's entrance into the investigation, the inquest was postponed until today in Liberty.

Coroner Victor Bourke, who previously had indicated his intention of making Bader's possession of suspected explosives a major issue in the inquest, declared he had been forbidden by the Navy Department to discuss the explosives angle of the crash inquiry with anyone.

FORBIDDEN TO TALK

"Not only did they question my right to hold the papers, but they questioned my right to divulge any information concerning them. I will not answer any questions concerning the persons or the documents involved," he said.

"The Navy Department representative came here with the proper authority, which supersedes that of a state official."

The conference between Coroner Bourke and the representative of the Naval Intelligence Department lasted three hours. Before the naval officer's arrival, Bourke talked freely with reporters about the papers and chemicals found in the luggage of Bader, Buffalo research chemist employed by the Semet-Solvay Co. of New York.

FORMULA IN PAPERS

In Washington, spokesmen for the Navy Department said naval intelligence officers had been ordered to obtain the papers if they were navy property or contained naval secrets.

It had been known since the finding of the plane wreckage Monday that Bader's luggage contained, among other papers, a document described as "formula for explosive D," and it was understood that Bader's company was a bidder for the contract to manufacture the explosive.

Nazi Refugee Arrives

Love Talk 'Out,' Says Rudy

Alice Fay may or may not be in the mind of Rudy Vallee when (and if) he thinks of getting married again. Asked whether he would marry the singer of "You Nasty Man" when he received a divorce from Fay Webb Vallee, Rudy declared: "That's taboo. I don't care to answer." But Alice, in this picture, looks mighty unconcerned about the whole business. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

492 AT B. C. GET DEGREES FROM CARDINAL

Cardinal O'Connell presented 492 diplomas to graduates of Boston College in the 57th annual commencement exercises at Symphony Hall yesterday.

Honorary LL. D. degrees were awarded Rev. Francis L. Phelan, chancellor of the archdiocese of Boston and former secretary to the cardinal; Francis T. Herlihy, Cambridge, former state supervisor of adult alien education and principal of the State Teachers' College; Charles A. Birmingham, former president of the Boston College Alumni Association and member of the executive committee of the Home Loan Board, and John A. Matthews of New Jersey.

Cardinal O'Connell praised Mr. Matthews and two student speakers, who stressed the need of "Catholic action" in their addresses. The two student speakers were James G. Fay of Brighton and William D. Donahue of Dorchester.

Rev. Fr. Louis J. Gallagher, president of the college, introduced the Cardinal.

Cardinal O'Connell, touched by tributes paid him, said:

"Catholics of Boston should have great devotions to their former bishops. They were the ones who planted the seed through long and difficult years. They created our spiritual life by their continuous labor."

Campaign of Terror Bombs Alarms Paris Officials

By Associated Press

Paris, June 14—At least three bombs, two of which failed to explode, have been dispatched through the mails by fantastic terrorists who call themselves "the three judges of hell," police revealed today.

The possibility that more bombs were sent, and that the "three judges" may try to carry out their threats against the lives of the President, Premier and other officials, caused concern in governmental circles and business offices.

The latest bomb was received at the government broadcasting station today. It was a glass cylinder containing a quarter of a pound of powder, arranged to explode on removal of a rubber band. Its nature was detected before it was opened.

One bomb exploded yesterday in a post office, injuring three clerks. Another infernal machine was delivered to "Tokalon," a large American firm controlled by E. Virgil Neal.

The letters contained the following fantastic warning:

"We will strike the French people without distinction as to age, sex or rank until they realize their cowardice before the great pirates deprives them of the right to be severe towards ordinary criminals and stealers of handkerchiefs. Signed, the Three Judges of Hell."

TUFTS DEGREE WAITS ICKES

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and President James B. Conant of Harvard are to be awarded honorary degrees at the 78th commencement exercises at Tufts College Monday. Secretary Ickes will be the principal speaker at the exercises. The degree of doctor of laws will be conferred on Secretary Ickes, while Dr. Conant will receive the ward of doctor of science.

Other honorary degrees are to be granted to Adelbert H. Morrison, headmaster of Mechanics Arts high school; Professor Gordon Thayer of Harvard, Mrs. Carrie Bullard Lewis, Professor Carroll R. Gallas of the University of Amsterdam and the Rev. Asa M. Bradley of Kingston, N. H.

Tufts commencement festivities get under way this evening with Class Day tomorrow and Alumni Day Saturday.

2543 Families Quit Dole List

There were 2543 former welfare department recipients off the roll today, at a saving to the city of $21,777, according to a report made by Mayor Mansfield. There were 152 former welfare recipients dropped in the last three days. A total of 29,453 cases was left on the relief rolls.

Girl Sues Her Dad's Bride

By Associated Press

Atlanta, Ga., June 14—A bride is being sued for $10,000 by her stepdaughter of less than a week on charges of alienating the affection of the 11-year-old child's father.

Martha Bridwell, the girl, brought the action through representatives and papers were served on the stepmother, formerly Miss Justice Mitchell, at the home of her mother last night.

The petition alleges that until the time of Max M. Bridwell's marriage to Miss Mitchell, he had contributed to the support of his daughter, but that now he would not do so.

S. Boston Man, Hit by Engine, Dying

Domenic McHugh, 64, of 263 Broadway, South Boston, is dying at the City Hospital. He has a fracture of the hip and internal injuries, suffered this morning, while crossing the Boston & Albany tracks at Kneeland street, near South Station. He was struck by a shifting engine and thrown 100 feet.

Mrs. Zukor Robbed

Chicago, June 14 (INS—Mrs. Zukor, wife of the motion picture producer, reported to police today she had been robbed of jewelry and cash amounting to 86,075. The robbery, she said, was staged while she was asleep between last midnight and 4 o'clock this morning in a Chicago hotel suite.

COBINA WRIGHT WILL FIGHT

New York, June 14—Cobina Wright, dainty smart set leader, took one on the chin yesterday like a gentlewoman, and came up smiling. But a return bout is on the fire.

She was notified that her broker-husband, William Mays Wright, head of the former stock exchange firm of Wright, Slade & Co., had obtained a divorce secretly in Taos, N. M., a few days ago.

What added insult to injury was the fact that Wright had stolen Cobina's own thunder. Last April, the Park avenue matron opened the marital hostilities when she began suit for divorce and named as co-respondent Myrtle Gardner, an artist's model.

SOUTH END MAN BEATEN, DYING

Robert Heffernan, 28, of Hanson street, South End, is dying at the City Hospital of a fracture of the skull received this morning when he was beaten by a stranger during an altercation at Shawmut avenue and Waltham streets, South End.

According to police, Heffernan, with his brother, Gerald Heffernan, 27, of 14 Garden street, Cambridge, was walking along Shawmut avenue, when they met the stranger.

CLAIMS NIECE GIVEN ESTATE

A mystery suit for $50,000 against her former friend and companion over the estate of Michael S. McMahon, former Hopkinton selectman, has been brought by Celia D. McManus, 26, pretty Hopkinton secretary, it was revealed yesterday.

Ruth Johnson, 28, of Providence, niece and sole heiress of the late McMahon is the object of the mystery suit. Miss McManus charges her with breach of contract and Judge John C. Lynch, administrator of the estate, has been notified of the action against her prospective legacy.

McMahon died April 12. He was 65. In his will McMahon had left all to his sister Mary E. McMahon, making a note that he was purposely omitting his sisters, Annie V. McMahon, Mrs. Rose Johnson and a brother, Christopher.

Then last week Miss McManus brought the suit against Miss Johnson, McMahon's niece, who, because of the death of others named in his will, is the sole beneficiary.

Firecrackers Land 2 in Hospital

Exploding firecrackers injured a boy and a girl, who were treated at the Haymarket Relief station. They are Philip Campa, ten, of 39 Cross street, North End, and Josephine Coorao four, of 44 Wall street, West End.

The boy held a cracker in his hand too long and the girl had a firecracker thrown in her face.

SLAYER ARREST SEEN NEAR IN LOWELL

Monday afternoon. He has not been seen since and police learned for the first time today that he has not returned to his home.

Three persons, who heard three shots and one of whom saw two men, speeding in an automobile in the vicinity of the Caouette farm on the day the couple were slain, gave poice another clue.

Lawrence D. Rogers, of Lowell, told poice that on the day the couple was found shot and beaten to death, he was building a camp in the woods, near the farm. He said he heard three shots and placed the time at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Cummings, who reside near the Caouette place, also reported hearing three shots the day of the killings, but saw no one in the vicinity who they suspected of the crime. They did, however, tell police that chicken thieves had been active.

BOY KILLER TO DIE IN CHAIR

Huntsville, Tex., June 14—Raymond Hamilton, dapper one-time companion in crime of the late Clyde Barrow, notorious Southwest gunman, faces death in the electric chair on recommendation of a jury headed by a minister.

The boy-bandit killer, who has gathered 365 years in prison sentences, slumped in his chair and scowled as the Rev. George C. Montgomery, Baptist minister and foreman of the jury, announced Hamilton had been convicted of slaying Major Crowson, penitentiary guard, in a prison escape.

Hamilton has boasted he never would die in the chair.

Teachers Refuse Increase in Pay

Phillipsburg, Kan., June 14 (AP)—Last year salaries of Phillipsburg teachers were reduced. The school board decided to raise the tax levy sufficiently to give the teachers a ten per cent increase.

But Superintendent William McMullen, after talking it over with the teachers, notified the board no salary hike is desired.

Ragged Coat Gives Clue to Lowell Slayer of Two

OFFICER TURNER ATTORNEY FOISY LIEUTENANT CONNORS

Balked at every corner, Lowell and State police are pinning their hopes for locating the mystery slayer of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Caouette, of Lowell, on a ragged coat found near the house in which the slain couple made their home. Motorcycle Officer Louis Turner, Assistant District Attorney Paul Foisy and Lieutenant Martin Connors, are shown as they examined the ragged coat at the death scene. Strike in Spain Adds to Turmoil

Madrid, June 14 (AP)—A spreading general construction strike added today to the serious situation faced by the Spanish Government, as it combatted a movement for secession in the State of Catalonia. A strike declared at Asturias was reported to be growing.

Authorities at Seville ordered citizens to refrain from going to terraces or roofs of houses, as Socialists and Communists threatened a general revolutionary strike. They explained soldiers might be forced "to answer the attack" from housetops.

Even Locks Fail Bristol Sheriff in Row

New Bedford, June 13—Its pretty tough for a sheriff, accustomed to the clang and bang of steel doors and locks all day, to find new locks put on the door of his official quarters at the county jail by the county commissioners.

And today Sheriff Patrick H. Dupuis of Bristol county brought his battle with the county commissioners into superior court before Judge John M. Gibbs. His "Big Bertha" today was a bill in equity in which he sought and obtained a temporary injunction against the commissioners from trespassing on his domain on Court street.

The battle which has been waged between the sheriff and the county commissioners for the past year and a half came to a head after Sheriff Dupuis recently refused to turn over the keys to a suite in the county house which he took over in addition to his own 12-room apartment. This, the county commissioners claim, was against their direct orders.

Aerial Blowout Perils U. S. Plane

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 14 (INS)—A tire blowout above the clouds nearly wrecked the army plane in which Second Lieut. C. J. Messer was carrying the mail from Reno to Salt Lake. The flyer heard a loud report and saw that the tire had burst. He radioed ahead to Wendover, Nev., where ambulances and crash equipment were wheeled out in readiness. The ship was landed without accident, but the cowling on one motor was found to have been loosened by the explosion.

TAXICAB DEATH IS MYSTERY

By International News Service

Reno, Nev., June 14—A dramatic suicide and suspected murder—a wild ride in a taxicab 100 miles from Reno to Lovelock, Nevada—and a missing man—offered police a mysterious crime problem today as they sought Dale Booth, 23, taxicab driver, believed to have been killed.

A man police identified as R. S. Wilson, 27, of San Francisco, killed himself by swallowing poison as the taxicab he had taken roared into Lovelock. Wilson employed Booth to drive him to municipal airport where he tried to charter an airplane from Ted Morrill. Morrill refused.

Morrill and Wilson returned to a Reno hotel and Morrill said that he noticed Booth's crumpled body in a seat of the taxicab. While Morrill was in the hotel, Wilson drove away with the taxicab—but Booth's body was not in it when the cab arrived at Lovelock, where Wilson committed suicide.

Army Base Lease Bids Protested

Protests were filed today by shipping interests, stevedore companies and lumber receivers, who contended that bids submitted by two terminal companies at Washington for the new lease of the Boston army base should be refused. The hearing was before the Boston Port Authority at the Customs House.

Officer Sees Suicide

Burlington, Vt., June 14 (AP)—Edward Roberts, 60, of Port Henry, N. Y., died today after inflicting a bullet wound in his head as he strolled through the park. The shooting was witnessed by a police officer.

In New Test

A magnet that failed yesterday to remove a steel splinter from the eye of Charles L. Knight, Jr., of Roxbury, was to be used again today in an effort to remove the particle.

Pair to Stand on Heads In New Road

Maryville, Mo., June 14—George Hartley and Ike Moody are scheduled to stand on their heads at a highway dedication program here soon.

Back in 1921 they laughed at Fred Newlon when he predicted that some day a paved highway would stretch across the county. They said they would stand on their heads if it ever came to pass. The road is being completed.

Fishermen, 'Lost' at Sea, Rejoin Vessel Here

William Clough, 64, of 34 School street, Everett, and Joseph Eustis of Gloucester, who were given up for dead when they became separated from their vessel, the Mary E. O'Hara, while hauling trawls off the Nova Scotia coast, related a dramatic story of being lost for 24-hours in fog, storm and choppy seas without food.

"We rowed and drifted all night. The sea was choppy, caused by the storm and huge waves, at times, threatened to overturn our boat.

"Finally we sighted land. Boy! You cannot imagine what a God-send that was.

"Once on shore we located the office of the American consul who directed us to the returning steamer Yarmouth."

The trawler reached here with her flag at half mast

EYE SPLINTER HOLDS FIRM

If physicians at the Massachusetts eye and ear infirmary are unable today to extract the steel splinter lodged in the eye of Charles L. Knight since last Sunday, it is feared that his right eye will have to be removed in order to save the left one.

The powerful, specially constructed magnet made by the General Electric company will probably be used this morning in a final attempt to save the eye by removing the bit of steel.

But it is feared that this magnet if strong enough to remove the splinter will pull and strain the eye so that the sight will be lost.

'NEW DEAL,' ELY WIN PRAISE OF PLATFORM

Worcester, June 14—Devoted for one-half its length to the sounding of high praise for the Roosevelt and Ely administrations, and unqualified endorsements of Senators Walsh and Coolidge, the platform submitted to the Democratic convention for adoption today called for many drastic reforms.

The platform contains 15 planks and is regarded as one of the most liberal and constructive documents advocated in many years.

It indicts the G. O. P. for the tragic collapse of 1929 and eagerly accepts the gauntlet thrown down, with the national administration as the main issue.

It calls for:

Reduction of light and power rates consistent with the Massachusetts theory of a fair return on capital, honestly and prudently invested.

Improved police protection and training with state aid if necessary, better equipment trained personnel, but preserving full autonomy to local communities in administration.

Adequate and generous compensation to all war veterans for disabilities and generous care of dependents of those who died in service. Lauds Senator Walsh for his untiring work for veteran benefits.

For improvement of harbors and rivers in Massachusetts to stimulate better maritime trade.

Co-operation with Federal government through immediate legislation for the establishment of contributroy unemployment system.

Favors state law forbidding issuance of injunctions in labor disputes without first giving the worker opportunity to be heard.

HITS MILK CONTROL

Endorses re enrollment of all voters in political parties.

For a revised tax system to support essential public services and to lessen the burden of the home owner.

Favors taking the "surplus racket" out of the milk business, and same inspection for out of state cream as is required for cream produced in Massachusetts.

Revision called for in immigration laws to prevent injustices and inhuman separation of families.

For acquisition of state lands to develop a more comprehensive forest park beach system, made necessary by the shorter work day and work week.

For a referendum to voters of Boston Metropolitan transit district on question of public ownership of Elevated Railway system.

Condemns distribution of motion pictures which compels local exhibitors to accept pictures unwholesome, indecent and immoral. Urges immediate legislation to correct abuses.

Denounces lynching as shameful practice and urges co-operation of federal and state governments to eliminate it.

"NEW DEAL" PRAISED

In the preamble of the platform, devoted to the national and state administrations, the language is emphatic, in its enthusiastic approval of the principles and policies of President Roosevelt.

"His unflinching courage in the face of great obstacles, his liberalism, his progressive spirit, his fairness, his judgment and his ardor in protecting rights of the people as a whole, as distinguished from special groups, entitle him to the support of the American people," the platform declares.

"His achievements cannot be sufficiently stated here. It is enough to say that he has preached and has enacted into law the gospel of co-operation and unselfish service.

"In him, the people have found a champion and a friend whose sincerity, deep humanitarianism none can successfully challenge. His brain and courage have brought our country out of the depths of depression to a height when the light of a new day is visible.

"EQUALITY FOR ALL"

"Republicanism offers privilege and favoritism to the select few of vested wealth. Under our great leader, President Roosevelt, democracy accords equal opportunity to all to enjoy the fruits of government, liberty, security and faith in our institutions.

"He has preserved the integrity of our constitution, while finding in it a speedy adaptability to the drastic requirements and needs of the hour. e Wtake this occasion to congratulate him and to emphasize our loyalty to him and to ideals for which he stands."

Governor Ely was lauded for "His splendid and faithful service" to the party.

Packed Galleries Wait Worcester Battle for Nominations

Curley Claims 480 Votes and Victory as Democratic Convention Fight Starts

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

The Auditorium, Worcester, June 14—The Democrats meet. Same scene. Same stage. As the G. O. P. last week. New actors. Tense drama.

* * *

The galleries crowded with eager spectators. They were quite vacant last week. The public like a political fight. Thrilled by its uncertainty.

* * *

A hush of anxiety and suspense settles upon the great audience. As Chairman Maynard of the Democratic State Committee sounds the gavel for order. And calls into session the first Democratic pre-primary convention in history. The band plays. A sweet soprano starts the Star Spangled Banner. The convention is off. With customary tumult.

* * *

Who will be nominated for governor? To take the fight against Bacon. If that question could be answered there would be no need of a convention. The G. O. P. were here 24 hours. This is one can be here 24 days. Unless they break the deadlock for governor.

* * *

Mayor Curley waves his hand in recognition. And pauses to whisper: "I've got 480 delegates. I'll win." Governor Ely and Senator Walsh would not agree to that.

* * *

Judge Emil Fuchs is with the mayor, as usual. Loyal friend. Also Eugene McSweeney. Ever present. Charles H. McGlue manages the convention forces on the floor for Curley. Ex-chairman of the state committee. Knows this game backwards.

* * *

James Connelley moves around. Among inquiring delegates. Said to be the richest man in the convention. And would spend his last dollar. For the pride it would give him. To see his son-in-law, State Treasurer Hurley, the next governor of Massachusetts.

* * *

POSTMASTER FARLEY

Judge Joseph Monahan sits in the Hurley headquarters at the Bancroft hotel a mile away and snaps out orders for the Hurley campaign. Sturdy and powerful. Square-jawed. There'll be no quitting by the state treasurer. If this man has his say.

* * *

Sergeant-Major George Gilbody masters the Hurley campaign from the floor. Did it for General Cole in 1930. Under whom he served as a gallant soldier in the last war. Not this one. Representative Paul Dever is to nominate Hurley. And wouldn't mind a good vote for himself. For Attorney General.

* * *

General Charles H. Cole in person. A delegate. Smiling and gracious man. As are most men who are truly brave. He enters the campaign reluctantly. At the behest of Walsh and Ely. Will hardly raise a hand to help himself. Said to have an affectionate regard for Hurley.

* * *

Rumors of deals. Cole for governor and Hurley for second place. Mayor Curley to be offered a post at Washington. Professor Frank L. Simpson to be made a judge. Don't let these reports delude you. Most anything can be heard in the wild hysteria of a political convention. And most of it not true. I think these men will stick.

* * *

Professor Simpson tells us, privately, his own view. If nominated, he believes he will win handily. Would not have run, and would not now, if he thought his candidacy could in any way embarass his party. Likes all the candidates personally, and will cheerfully support the victor.

* * *

Senator Joe Langone brought up a band for Curley. You hear it at every juncture. "Tammany, Tammany."

* * *

Speaking of senators: Joseph Finnegan aspires to be chairman of the convention as does Robert E. Bigney. An ex-senator. Personal guess. It will be a Robert, alright. Robert Greenwood. Mayor of Fitchburg and son-in-law of Senator Marcus Coolidge.

Joseph W. Bartlett, like Cole, is a delegate. And, like Cole, a candidate for governor. Like the others, would make a good one. Lawyer. Businessman. Head of Douglas shoes. City solicitor of Newton. Ex-chairman civil works. If Ely had his own way about it, he would give the nomination to Bartlett.

* * *

Ely takes himself out of it. For once and for all. Pictures himself leaving the state house next January. To the booming of 17 guns. For his successor. Says he will be very happy. If it is a Democrat. Adds, with force, that he never criticised the President. As an individual. Reserving the right to disagree with some of his theories.

* * *

Postmaster-General Farley gives us a tip. May decide to write his memoirs of the last Presidential election and his intimate experiences with Roosevelt. Alert editors will be interested in this.

* * *

Mrs. Richard M. Russell enters. On the arm of her husband. Mayor of Cambridge. And candidate for governor. An able couple. Who would grace well any event.

* * *

Judge John J. Burns, 'tis said, spent the night at Holy Cross College. On the Hill. At South Worcester. And would be able to reach this auditorium quickly. If called to accept the gubernatorial nomination.

* * *

NEWS TIP: Dr. Overholser will be appointed State Commissioner of Mental Diseases. In the place of Dr. James V. May. Who resigned. And expects to return to his first love. As Superintendent of the Boston State Hospital again.

* * *

Morgan T. Ryan drove up in his own car. State registrar of motor vehicles. Personal views: He shouldn't take the chance. Can't be held accountable for an auto accident, unless driving himself.

* * *

Dan Doherty says "Hello!" Of the old guard. Always a Democrat in Springfield. When they were as scarce there as hen's teeth. And another Dan Doherty, youthful, vigorous, state commander of the American Legion, who would shell them with a big Bertha, if they thought of putting any world court endorsement into the platform.

* * *

Now comes Francis X. Hurley, state auditor, who would like to be attorney-general, and says so frankly.

* * *

Here's a ticket for you: For governor, Charles F. Hurley; for attorney-general, Francis X. Hurley; for lieutenant-governor, Joseph P. Hurley, new mayor of Fall River; for state auditor, Thomas H. Buckley; for secretary of state, John F. Buckley. All of them want it. Not forgetting John P. Buckley. Who would like to be attorney-general. Quite a family affair.

* * *

And now comes Simon Swig. Erstwhile president of the erstwhile Tremont Trust Company. "I'm a convert," he says. "Left the Republican party when they ruined my bank." He wears a button for Mayor Curley. As do many, many others. Jim Roosevelt would be wearing one. If ready to show his deep personal interest in the matter.

HE DROVE 2 OILS TO PITTSBURGH
. . . and made a discovery!

Would you believe you can cut your oil costs squarely in half—and still get better lubrication? Read a typical experience of a Gulf-lube user . . .

"Frankly," says Mr. T. W. Davis, Jr., "when my friends told me of the savings Gulf-lube was effecting for them, I was skeptical.

"But now I'm converted! I had occasion recently to drive, twice to Pittsburgh from Roanoke, Va. On my first trip I used my regular 25c oil—and in just 104 miles a quart was used up.

"The second time I made the trip, I tried Gulf-lube. Believe it or not, I got all the way to Washington, Pa.—226 miles farther—before a quart of Gulf-lube was consumed!"

Stop paying out money for oil every few miles! Switch to Gulf-lube—the oil that went 28½% more miles per quart than 3 other famous 25c oils in AAA tests. It gives more miles—and better lubrication! You'll start saving the minute you drive to a Gulf station and say "Drain my worn oil and re-fill with Gulf-lube!"

© 1934, GULF REFINING CO., PITTSBURGH, PA.

ROANOKE MUNICIPAL BUILDING, at Roanoke, Va. Mr. Davis made two trips from Roanoke over mountainous country to Pittsburgh, comparing his regular 25c oil against Gulf-lube.

CARNEY TO THROW SUPPORT TO CURLEY ON FIRST BALLOT

ACTION BY ERA HEAD STIRS DELEGATES

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Mayor Joseph Hurley of Fall River.

Leo M. Harlow, former state commander of the American Legion, was chosen permanent chairman of the Democratic convention here today over former Senator Robert E. Bigney of South Boston, and Mayor Robert Greenwood of Fitchburg, son-in-law of Senator Coolidge.

The vote was: Harlow 344, Bigney 107, Greenwood 269.

When the result was announced, Greenwood moved that the selection be made unanimous in the interest of a harmonious convention. That motion was seconded by Bigney and was adopted by the convention.

TEST VOTE FAILS

While Harlow was the candidate of the Walsh-Ely group, the test vote failed to show the relative strength of the various candidates as Maurice Tobin of Boston, adherent of former Mayor Curley, was not put in nomination. In the roll-call, many delegates friendly to Curley voted for Greenwood, who had en endorsement of the Hurley-Bartlett candidacies. Bigney was in the contest as an independent candidate.

Harlow was escorted amidst applause to the platform by Bigney and Greenwodo and, in a brief address, expressed his appreciation of the magnanimous spirit displayed by his two opponents.

The rules committee recommended that the majority rule be adopted on the nomination of candidates, rejecting the two-third rule which prevails in Democratic national conventions.

Other rules recommended are that all resolutions made from the floor of the convention be in writing and referred to the resolution committee; that the candidates be nominated for office as they appear on the state ballot, namely, United States senator, governor, lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor and attorney-general; nominating speech limited to 10 minutes and seconding speeches to 5.

MAY LAST WEEKS

A discussion arose as to whether the convention was required by law to end at midnight, Friday, and Chairman Joseph A. Maynard, of the State committee, gave it as his opinion, when appealed to, that if the convention went beyond today, the Supreme Court would uphold the legality of its deliberations.

City Councillor Thomas Green of Charlestown insisted that the delegates be told of this decision, with the remark that the convention might take a week.

Charles F. J. Harrington, member of the School Committee of Watertown, was chosen chairman of the Resolution Committee and William H. Murphy, president of the Middlesex County Democratic League, was named clerk.

Former Attorney-General Jay R. Benton of Belmont, who officiated at the G O P convention one week ago as permanent chairman, addressed the Democratic convention while the credentials of the delegates were being taken up.

"FRIENDLY ENEMY"

Benton was introduced by Chairman Joseph A. Maynard of the Democratic state committee as "a friendly enemy." The Republican leader expressed his appreciation of the honor accorded him and also expressed the hope that the Democrats would nominate a strong ticket for the Republicans to defeat. Benton evoked, by his remarks, a burst of good natured hilarity. Then the band struck up "Happy Days Are Here Again."

The convention faced a fight over the party plank recommendation by the resolutions committee calling for an endorsement of police unification legislation. Mayor Lawrence Qugiley of Chelsea expressed such a plank.

ELY MAN TO WIN

Observers, who made informal canvasses of the delegates, were predicting that the Ely-Walsh combination would put their man over and score the initial victory.

It was noticeable that Mayor Richard M. Russell of Cambridge, one of the gubernatorial candidates aceptable to the Roosevelt administration, was in a much stronger position than at any time during the seven-cornered contest. But for some reason not disclosed, his availability as a second choice to General Charles H. Cole is said to be not acceptable to Walsh.

Privately, many of the leaders agree that Russell would be the ideal candidate to carry the fight to Curley in the September primary.

FAHEY WON'T RUN

John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, said in a statement issued at Washington today that he would not permit his consideration for the Democratic nomination for governor of Massachusetts.

Worcester "Tech" Names Bostonian

Worcester, Mass., June 14 (AP)—Herbert H. Ferris of Newark, N. J., '89, was elected to the board of trustees at the annual meeting of the corporation of Worcester Polytechnic Institute this morning. He fills the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Charles E. Evelith of Schenectady, N. Y.

Dr. Harrison P. Eddy of Boston, Ernest Gladding of Buffalo, N. Y., and George E. Fuller of Worcester were re-elected to the board.

Maxim Gorki Slams Russian Writers

Moscow, June 14 (AP)—Maxim Gorki, dean of Russian writers, today directed a vigorous broadside of criticism against contemporary Soviet literature. Soviet writers "drink too much," and they are given to fulsome praise of each other, the veteran of Russian letters said, in an article published both by the Izvestia and the Pravda.

The criticism came on the eve of a writers' congress here.

Dredging Job Awarded

A contract, calling for the expenditure of $20,000 for the dredging of shoal water in front of piers on Atlantic avenue, was awarded today to the Boy State Dredging and Contracting Department.

DR. CARMODY IN AUDITOR RACE

By FRANK K. REILLY
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Worcester, June 14—Dr. Belle Scott Carmody, of South Boston, this morning entered the lists as a candidate for state auditor.

Dr. Carmody, a delegate from Ward 6, South Boston, is the first woman to appear as an active candidate for state-wide office.

If she succeeds in getting the nomination she will oppose Mrs. Elizabeth W. Pigeon. Mrs. Pigeon, former member of the Boston school committee, was named for the post at the Republican convention last week.

Missing Man Found In Merrimac River

Lawrence, June 14—The body of a man, identified as Achille Auger, 56-year-old mill worker of 297 Lowell street, was found floating in the Merrimac river, in the rear of the Essex County Training School, here, today.

The identification was made by Auger's son, Andre, who had been searching for his father since reporting him missing Saturday evening. Medical Examiner Victor A. Reed and the police are investigating the possibility of foul play.

Worker Electrocuted

Danvers, June 14—Warren F. Sossa, 27, of Essex street, was electrocuted today when he came in contact with a 2300-volt wire while stringing wires in Hobart street.

SLEEPLESS MRS. HOWE WINS HONORS

By PEGGY DOYLE

Worcester, June 14 — Women never were so prominent at a Massachusetts political convention as they were today.

Mrs. Grace Hartley Howe, wife of Colonel Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, was honored by being appointed temporary secretary of the convention.

Up until all hours last night to maintain her amateur standing as one of Washington's best-informed Democrats, Mrs. Howe, to the suggestion of a friend that she should be getting some rest, nonchalantly retored.

"Sleep is the last thing I think of when a Democratic convention is going on."

MIND OF HER OWN

Having the ear of the man who has the President's ear imposes its obligations, particularly when one is a lady, with a mind of her own, and possessed of more than adequate knowledge of what makes the wheels of government go 'round.

Or, so Mrs. Howe has found.

"I would like to answer that," this charming gray-haired woman said, when asked whom she would endorse for Governor, "but I had better not. I'm afraid that my personal endorsement of a candidate might be misinterpreted as that of some one else."

Although the Howes maintain separate domicilse, Mrs. Howe smilingly indicated that there is not the slightest Fanny Hurst intent in the arrangement.

"I continue to make my home in Fall River," she said in her pleasing softly-modulated voice, "but I go to Washington frequently enough so that people will know Mr. Howe has a wife.

"It is easy to see how living in Washington with my husband would only serve to complicate things. In the first place, it is necessary for my husband to live at the White House, because the only opportunities that President Roosevelt has to talk privately with him is at breakfast and bed time. I'd have to have an apartment and as a result would see very little of Mr. Howe."

SINGS FOR CONVENTION

Miss Sheila O'Donovan Rossa of Boston, granddaughter of the great Irish patriot, participated in the opening ceremonies with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Mayor John C. Mahoney of Worcester, who followed her on the program was fulsome in praise of the thoroughly Emily Posted conduct of the convention delegates.

"Never," he said, "have I witnessed such exemplary conduct on the part of a political convention group. It is absolutely plu-perfect."

Probably the only dissenting vote to this eulogy was voiced by Mrs. Dunbar Lockwood of Boxford, a petite and attractive young woman, who was penty wrothy because—

"My delegation won't seat me. You see it's this way. They thought they gave me all the votes I needed—3. Then a ruling was changed and they said I must have 5 votes. But I haven't given up."

Although scheduled to open at 10, it was 11 o'clock before the convention formally opened this morning, a circumstance which caused the observing Western Union man to remark that "It takes the republicans to get up on time."

WHAT'S THE GOOD?

"But what good it done them?" a flippant Western Union messenger boy wanted to know. When a democrat gets up, whatever time of day it is, he gets things done."

Long before the rap of the gavel called the delegates to order, Miss Loretta Bresnahan, selecting agent for the C. C. C. and Mrs. Joseph A. Maynard, wife of the committeeman, were in their places in In Auditorium Hall. Miss Bresnahan, of course, is not a delegate and was just viewing from an unofficial vantage.

Other early feminine arrivals were Mrs. May Ryan and Mrs Theresa Drohan, Brockton delegates, from the Plymouth senatorial district.

GIRL PRISONER FLEES DOCTOR

Bought to Boston for a physical examination, Miss Louise Sharon, 34, serving a sentence at Sherborn Reformatory for Women until 1937, escaped today from Massachusetts Memorial Hospital in East Concord street, South End.

The woman, who had pre-reformatory addresses in Boston, Brookline, East Boston and several other localities, fled after she had been examined by Dr. George Levine.

Dr. Levine and an orderly missed her almost immediately and began a search of athe South End, but failed to glimpse the fugitive. Polive were notified and then hent out a teletype alarm.

On her record at headquarters are included many arrests for larceny and shoplifting against the fugitive, including 17 arrests in 1927 alone.

INDUSTRY PROFITS SPEED BRITAIN ON RECOVERY

"The miracle of British recovery," writes H. R. Knickerbocker, International News Service correspondent, in the fourth article of his series on that subject, "was that prices did not rise when Great Britain went off the gold standard."

Knickerbocker explains why this unusual development really aided greatly in British recovery. Having completed his survey of conditions in the British Isles, Knickerbocker flew to Italy, where he now is covering the momentous forthcoming meeting of Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler.

London, June 14—Britain is still a capitalist country. Profits are the motive power of capitalism. British capitalists are making profits. The motor of British capitalism has begun to turn.

First came the stock exchange upturn. In the recovery sweepstakes security values got away for a long lead. Then came the upturn in business. Finally, the real winning horse, industrial profits, has come to the fore at the corner that determines the race.

For the first time since 1928, it now has proved profitable for business to expand.

TRICK OF PROFITS

They are being rewarded to the tune of $700,000,000 profits earned in 1933, and in the first quarter of this year, $275,000,00 profits, a rate, which if maintained, will give British business a profit of $1,100,000,000 for the year, a most substantial increase over 1933, as 1933 was a slight increase over 1932.

How did British business do the trick? How did recovery get its start?

According to conservative British minds, the classical way a recovery begins in a country which is still run more or less on capitalistic lines is about as follows.

After a period of rocking along on the bottom of the depression, certain businessmen observe that stocks are about exhausted. During every depression, as a rule, prices are falling.

Two primary considerations rule the business man; desire for profit and fear of loss. Factories close, and the more factories close, the fewer are employed. Purchasing power is reduced, still more factories close, and so on, in the vicious circle familiar to all.

SCENTING OF TURN

Now, however, in the ordinary course of capitalist events, there is a limit to the circle, vicious though it is. That limit, crudely put, is supposed to be the time when stocks are exhausted and prices begin to rise.

In Britain, the events outside the normal course of economic affairs were the departure from the gold standard Sept. 21, 1931, and the imposition of a tariff March 1, 1932.

To this extent, but almost solely to this extent may it be said that the government here did something to bring about recovery.

Here came the miracle of British recovery. Prices did not rise.

Sale of more goods at home seemed assured by the tariff wall and the depreciation of the pound. Sale of more goods abroad was hoped for. The pound's slip meant that British goods were one-third cheaper. But other countries, too, went off gold, neutralized most of the British advantage, and besides, retaliated against British tariffs by putting up tariffs of their own.

The hopes for a greatly increased export trade failed to be realized, though Britain kept her level of exports stable.

Results at home were incomparably better. The tariff was at first a flat 10 per cent on practically everything. Later it was raised for various commodities. Depreciation of the pound automatically made most imported goods 30 per cent more expensive.

NEW HOME MARKET

This meant naturally an enormous advantage to the home producer. One after another businessmen cast off their fears and went for their share of the new home market. There were 636 new factories opened in 1932 and 463 in 1933, and 174 factories extended in 1932 and 95 in 1933.

Altogether these new works gave employment to 83,250 hands. A more considerable index of expansion is new capital issues. They totalled $1,400,000,000 in 1933, or one-third more than 1932 and double 1931.

The big expansion, however, came in existing plants. First one industrialist and then another put to work his idle machinery.

The fact that prices had remained stable, meant also that, as employment increased, purchasing power had a chance to grow and not merely to run a race with rising prices.

These are the facts of British recovery, however they may clash with the theory of the necessity of rising prices plus rising wages.

Summarized, the tariff gave the impetus to the return of confidence.

physical make-up, "fearfully and wonderfully made," puts it mildly.

Doctors are just beginning to understand, and incompletely to control, stimulate or retard the action of the strange glands that produce the chemical agents that regulate and control the body.

Lloyd George, now 71 years old, is ill with a severe chill, one of the worst signs as old age comes on.

If he should die the British might realize what they owe him, namely, the fact that King George and not some son of the German Kaiser is sitting on the British throne.

England should build some day to Lloyd George and Clemenceau combined a monument as high as the Eiffel Tower. To those two old men she owes her freedom from Prussian rule.

Our Secretary of State, Mr. Hull, is said to have suggested to England, "If you won't pay us money, why don't you pay in goods?" England is supposed to have replied, "No, we really could not think of that."

A certain English worker, on the dole for a long time, remarked, "I eats well, I sleeps well, and I feels well, but when they talk about work I comes all over of a tremble."

Good old John Bull acts similarly when you talk to him about paying. The President, it is understood, would not accept payment in goods only; part cash would be demanded.

Michael Spisak of New York, aged 58, has a "common law wife," Anna, aged 37, and they had a daughter aged 9. Anna left him, taking the daughter, and went to live with another "common law husband." The baby son in this new household is eight months old. Spisak shot and killed the mother, Anna, and shot her young son in the head. Police who shot and killed him say that, according to their knowledge of human nature, his shooting Anna was easily explained, but shooting the baby is unusual.

Many a householder will carefully avoid killing a spider, saying "a spider in the house means good luck." That is not always so. One man in the Middle West, bitten by a "black widow" spider, had his throat muscles paralyzed, and was in danger of death. In Mississippi a year old child bitten by a black spider last Friday died four days later.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

NURSE DROWNS, TWO SAVED

Woods Hole, June 14—Miss Anna Simpson, 28, New York nurse, was drowned here as a small boat in which she was rowing with two children overturned a few feet from Naushon Island.

The children, the eight and 10-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Colt of New York, for whom she was caring, were saved. Colt is a columnist for a Wall street financial newspaper.

Two older children jumped into the water and rescued the small girls but were unable to save Miss Simpson. Her body was recovered.

'Refined Rodeo' Promoter in Toils for Cruelty

By Associated Press

London, June 14—Trying to run even a "refined rodeo" in England is beset with one trial and tribulation right after another, Tex Austin, American sports promoter, said today.

Austin, backing the appearance in London of a group of cowboys in a rodeo, was summoned to appear in West London police court June 25 to answer a complaint lodged by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that he "permitted an animal to be terrified, to wit, a steer."

"Apparently they think steers were made to be worshipped instead of used," Austin said ruefully.

"So far we have had only four accidents—all of them to cowboys. Three me nhave broken collarbones and another received a broken collarbone and a broken arm. ngEland has a very active society for the prevention of cruelty to nimals but none for the prevention of cruelty to cowboys."

The latest joust arose from an incident in Monday's performance when a steer missed an exit gate, crashed into a fence and rebounded.

"That doesn't hurt a good tough steer," Austin said, "They like it." "They like it."

But it remains to be seen whether a London judge will agree with him.

SOVIETS SEIZE 2 JAP BOATS

By Associated Press

Tokio, June 14—Dispatches from the government fisheries bureau today said Soviet warships two days ago seized two Japanese crab-canning boats 20 miles east of Cape Lopatka, Kamchatka Province, Siberia.

Reasons for the alleged seizures were not given. A Japanese patrol boat was ordered to the scene.

Disputes over fishing grounds in north Pacific waters have caused numerous Russo-Japanese incidents.

MRS. GILLESPIE TO TELL ALL IN ASTOR WAR

By DIXIE TGHE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

New York, June 14—The private romantic (?) etters of young John Jacob Astor to Miss Eileen S. S. Gillespie, his former fiancee, will be released.

Mrs. Lawrence Gillespie, mother bf Eileen, promised the revelation today in a brief teephonic interview with International News Service.

When? Where? How?

Mrs. Gillespie had not yet made up her mind as to the details.

"I am afraid I will have to revea the correspondence," said Mrs. Gillespie. "I do not know just when I will do this."

The threat to make public the Astor-Gillespie Dossier followed the indignant statement of young Astor concerning an announcement by the Gillespie family which accompanied the return of his $170,000 engagement ring by Miss Gillespie.

It also followed the breaking of the engagement by Miss Gillespie and the subsequent new engagement of young Astor to Ellen Tuck French, who was to have been the bridesmaid at Eileen's marriage.

Young Astor termed the contents of the statement "a bluff" and "rot" and denied there was any correspondence or any apology.

He said some other strong things which caused the Gillespie blue blood to boil.

So Mrs. Gillespie today announced her decision to make the secret papers no longer secret.

President Trip Up to Congress

By International News Service

Washington, June 14—It is up to Congress whether President Roosevelt gets a degree from Yale next week, or witnesses hi second son, Franklin, Jr., row for Harvard in the Yale race.

Mr. Roosevelt has been hoping that Congress would adjourn this week so that he might get away. But if Congress continues to sit through next week, it was said at the White House that the President probably will cancel his program of going to New Haven and New London.

Tentative plans have called for the President to leave here next Tuesday, receive his Yale degree on Friday, and then go to New London by water.

Fiancee Yet to Don Ring

Ellen Tuck French, new betrothed of John Jacob Astor, 3d, reveals the sparkler that sealed her engagement to the young heir. But it's not the $170,000 gem that precipitated the open clash between Astor and the parents of Eileen Gillespie, who jilted him. "When will Ellen wear the $170,000 ring" is intriguing society as much as the verbal warfare. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

Red Flag Flaunts on Madison Square

New York, June 14 (INS)—A red flag flew at dawn today over the eternal light in Madison Square—but, not for long.

Policemen and firemen scaled ladders and brought its flying to an end.

LUCKY TEN TO GET TICKETS

Ten lucky Boston Evening American readers will receive a pair of tickets for the "Merry Frinks" opening Friday at the Paramount and Fenway theaters.

Boston Evening American cameramen will snap pictures at the baseball game, night clubs and other events this afternoon and tonight. Photos will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American and the 10 persons, who will be identified by the "Magic Merry Frink Ring" will each receive a pair of tickets.

"The Merry Frinks" will feature a double bill at the theaters, headlined by Aline McMahon, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert and Allen Jenkins. The other feature is "A Modern Hero," starring Richard Barthelmess.

Body Found on Beach

The body of an unidentified man, about 47 years old, was recovered from the water off Carson Beach, South Boston, by the police this afternoon. The man was about 5 feet, 8½ inches tall, wore a blue suit and low black shoes.

MRS. T. P. GLYNN DIES IN TUB

Mrs. Catherine Glynn, 53, of May street, Jamaica Plain, wife of former Chairman Thomas P. Glynn, of the schoolhouse commission, was found dead from a heart attack in a bathtub in her home today.

She was discovered by her daughter, Catherine, who entered the bathroom to find out what was delaying her mother, who had gone to the room some time previously.

Mrs. Glynn is survived by her husband, two sons, Thomas, Jr., and Leo; one daughter, a brother, Timothy A. J. Hayes, director of the police signal service, and five sisters.

Shower Chases Boston to Cover

A sudden downpour of rain shortly after noon today sent thousands in downtown Boston scurrying for shelter to protect new straw hats and summer frocks. A shift in the wind from west to northwest was blamed by weather officials for the brief downpour.

Fair weather tonight and tomorrow with a rise in temperature is forecast.

Deaths Bare 3 'Stamp Men'

Chicago, June 14 (INS)—Police expressed bewilderment, today, over a strange series of coincidences which led them to the belief that all George Emersons must carry rubber stamps in their pockets.

Two men were run down and killed in separate automobile accidents. Each carried a rubber stamp bearing the name "G. Emerson." Relatives appeared to identify each as George Emerson.

Then into the Irving Park police station walked a third George Emerson to deny he was dead. He, too, carried a rubber stamp identical to those of the dead men.

Architect Named for Northeastern

Competition for a design of the proposed building layout of Northeastern University, on its new site, has been won by the firm of Coolidge, Shepley, Bulfinch and Abbot, announced President Frank P. Speare, this morning.

The site of the proposed buildings, embracing an area of 277,607 square feet, is on Huntington avenue, opposite the Boston Opera House, and adjoining the Y. M. C. A.

POMEROY STOCK DEALS BARED

Massachusetts' best known lifer, the late Jesse H. Pomeroy, was a stock market plunger in spite of the fact that he was behind the walls of Charlestown State's prison and Bridgewater from Sept. 6, 1876, until he died on Sept. 29, 1932, it was revealed today.

The disclosure was made by Charles F. Sullivan, Jr., assistant corporation counsel. He is the appraiser of Pomeroy's estate.

His investigation disclosed that Pomeroy owned 265 shares of stock of undetermined value, 15 shares of Eureka Vacuum worth $165 and had $26 in cash.

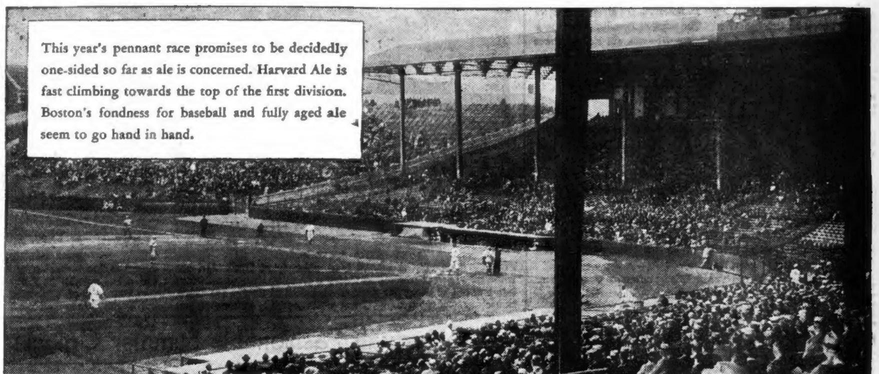
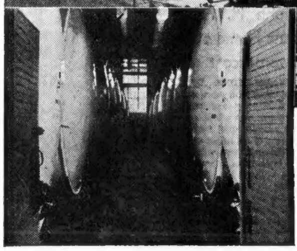
BASEBALL FANS STRIKE OUT "GREEN" ALE

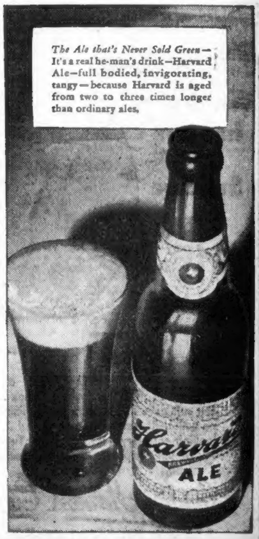


This year's pennant race promises to be decidedly one-sided so far as ale is concerned. Harvard Ale is fast climbing towards the top of the first division. Boston's fondness for baseball and fully aged ale seem to go hand in hand.



An Aging Cellar—Here is a section of one of the many cellars in which Harvard Ale is aged. The Harvard Brewery has the finest aging capacity in New England—with completely separate plants for the brewing of ale and beer.

Harvard ALE
FULLY AGED TASTES BETTER
P. S.—IF YOU LIKE ALE WITH EXTRA BODY—ASK FOR HARVARD DOUBLE ALE



The Ale that's Never Sold Green—It's a real he-man's drink—Harvard Ale—full bodied, invigorating, tangy—because Harvard is aged from two to three times longer than ordinary ales.

"How can I tell green ale from fully aged ale?" asks a young man who grew up during Prohibition days. "Say," exclaims Jimmy, the bartender, "if you were born in New England, you just naturally know. Try a glass of Harvard—then you'll know what fully aged ale tastes like.

Fashionable Summer Colonies Draw Leaders

Mrs John H Fahey Opens Home at Swampscott

THE WARM JUNE DAYS find life moving at a more even tempo and steadily and surely our closeby summer colonies are taking on new life and activity. A seemingly endless list of smart Boston folks and those who are familiar to us from other sections have arrived.

At Little's Point, Swampscott, we find Mrs. John H. Fahey of Boston and Washington quite at home on her estate, The Orchards. Mr. Fahey is a chairman of the Home Loan Board at Washington and will only be able to come to the North Shore for the weekends. Attractive daughter, Eleanor, has a position at Washington and will occasionally be with her mother. Another daughter, Mrs. Franklin D. Rudolph of Barrington, Ill., with her two children will be with Mrs. Fahey for the season.

At Swampscott

BALCURRAIN, SPACIOUS home of the Maurice J. Currans, of Andover, at Phillips Beach in Swampscott, will be opened next week. Their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Falvey, of Chestnut Hill, and their three small children, are already at the Goddard house, next door to Mrs. Curran, on Ocean avenue. Mr. Falvey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Falvey, whose home, White Court, was once the summer White House, have been at Little's Point all winter and have taken an active part in the winter activities.

• • •

THE EDWARD J. ROONEYS, of Winchester, have leased the estate of Mrs. James H. Knowles, Briarwood, on Eastern Point in Gloucester. They are new residents in this section.

• • •

THE MANCHESTER HOME of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Duane off University Lane, was opened on Wednesday. Miss Marion Duane will be with her parents and their son, Mr. Harry B. Duane, Jr., and his family, of Cambridge, will stay with them. A younger son, Robert, will join his parents at the end of the Yale college year.

Miss Eleanor Fahey, daughter of the John H. Faheys of Washington and Boston, will make occasional visits to their summer home at Little's Point, Swampscott. She is at present in Washington. (Scheroll photo.)

Miss Katherine Riley's Engagement Is Announced

MR. AND MRS. F. SANFORD RILEY of Worcester, well known summer residents of Annisquam, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Katherine S. Riley, to Dr. Walter Swan Burrage, and the marriage will take place on Friday, June 22, at four o'clock, at All Saints' Church in Worcester. Plans for the opening of the summer home at Norwood Heights, Annisquam, are still in doubt. Miss Riley is a popular figure on the North Shore.

• • •

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH E. O'CONNELL of Newton are expected shortly at Kenmare, at Manchester-by-the-Sea. Petite daughter Cappy will be welcomed by the very young group.

• • •

Engaged

Women Voters at Luncheon

Mrs. Robert L. DeNormandie, president of the Boston League of Women Voters, will entertain the members of the executive board of the league at luncheon at her home, Pine Knoll, in Lincoln, today. There will be a business meeting, the first of the coming season, at which Mrs. DeNormandie will preside.

Mrs. Henry R. Brigham, newly elected president of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, will be the guest of honor at the luncheon and other guests to whom Mrs. DeNormandie will extend her hospitality are Mrs. Richard Field, Mrs. Mabel Benway, Mrs. Frederick Clark, Mrs. Marion A. Cheek, Dr. M. Luise Diez, Mrs. Walter Hartstone, Miss Ada H. Hersey, Mrs. John Horgan, Mrs. Richard J. Lane, Mrs. G. Elliott May, Mrs. Arthur W. Moors, Dr. Mabel Ordway, Miss Katherine Rand, Mrs. Henry E. Robert, Mrs. Charles F. Slack, Mrs. Edward H. Willey, Mrs. Willard D. Woodbury and Mrs. E. Allison Wright.

Also Mrs. Oscar Lenk, Mrs. Robert J. Culbert, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, Mrs. W. O. B. Little, Mrs. Arthur A. Shurtcliff and Mrs. Carroll R. Staples, each of whom fulfills an important role in the affairs of the league.

Military Note at Hamilton Ceremony

CROSSED SWORDS, full dress uniforms and all the details of a military wedding will mark the marriage on June 27 of Miss Beatrice Ayer Patton, daughter of Major and Mrs. George S. Patton of Washington, D. C., and Green Meadows, South Hamilton, to Lieutenant John Knight Waters of Baltimore, Md.

The wedding will be at St. John's Church in Beverly Farms, which will be the scene this week-end of one of the most brilliant weddings ever solemnized on the North Shore, that of Miss Margaret Stockton and Charles Francis Adams, Jr. Miss Patton's parents were married in St. John's so it is very fitting indeed that her marriage should take place in such familiar surroundings.

Miss Patton has many family connections on the North Shore, including Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer of Hamilton, and Mrs. William Madison Wood of Pride's Crossing.

Miss Ruth Patton will attend her sister as maid of honor and a wedding reception will be held at Green Meadows.

Ovation Given Composers at Pops

By MOSES SMITH

A Pops program of unusually musical, as well as occasional, interest was led by Arthur Fiedler at Symphony Hall last night. The fact that the hall was completely sold out indicates that there is an extensive and persistent public here for symphonic music during the summer.

Two unfamiliar works caused more than a flutter of excitement. One was "Tall City," a symphonic suite by Hans Spialek, played for the first time in Boston. The other was two movements ("Romance" and "Witches Dance") from F. S. Converse's "Scarecrow Sketches," first played, I believe, about a dozen years ago at Jordan Hall in connection with a movie for which the music was written.

Both compositions were heartily applauded by the audience, and both composers were on hand to receive personally the testimonial. Mr. Converse's well-made music stands on its own feet, without the assistance of the movie. Mr. Spialeck's suite is an attempt at a musical characterization of aspects of a typical large, modern city, with the intention, apparently, to personify the city as well as the people in the city. Neither this idea nor the thematic material of the score is strikingly original. The music is however, not intended to be overserious, and the treatment is, on the whole, skillful and arresting. It is almost needless to say that the orchestral dress is colorful and effective, for nowadays composers who can score aptly are as common as pianists with virtuoso technique.

Verona [illegible] proved to be an able pianist in the solo part of the first movement of the F-sharp minor Rachmaninoff piano concerto. Her performance was most musical and technically secure. One ingredient which might have been used in fuller measure though, was sonority.

Mr. Fiedler and his orchestra fared well in a taxing program which included, in addition to the above, such numbers as Rossini's overture, "Barber o' Seville," the Bacchanale from Wagner's "Tannhaeuser," and Paganini's "Moto Perpetuo," the latter played by the entire violin section with extraordinary clarity.

Gardens Will Be Open at Hopedale

THREE gardens in Hopedale will be open to the public tomorrow afternoon from 2 until 6, for a small fee to help the worthy cause of the M. S. P. C. C.

Mrs. Frank J. Dutcher, whose garden is noted for its rhododendrons, laurel and flowering shrubs, will be assisted in receiving visitors to her estate by Mrs. Ruth Dutcher Beal, Mrs. Thomas West, 3d, Miss Amy Harris, Mrs. Winchester Smith, Mrs. Irving E. Hammond, Mrs. Marshall Newhall and Miss Annie Lawless of the Milford committee of the society, who will be at the gate. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Dutcher will open their garden closeby on Adin street and will be assisted by Mrs. William H. Chase.

The third lovely spot to visit during the afternoon will be the quiet, intimate garden of Mr. and Mrs. Dana E. Osgood, where Mrs. E. J. Creighton, Mrs. Victor Collier, Mrs. Lloyd Davis, Mrs. Bristow H. Draper, Jr., Mrs. Hamilton Thayer, Mrs. D. Johnson, Mrs. Alfred Newell, Mrs. George Shepard and Mrs. Wilmarth Wescott will show the visitors the interesting nooks.

The tireless committee which has been supervising these openings includes Mrs. F. DeHart Houston as chairman, Mrs. Edwin S. Webster, Mrs. George Saltonstall West, Mrs. Gaspar G. Bacon, Mrs. George S. Mumford, Mrs. Charles K. Cummings, Mrs. Bernard C. Weld, Mrs. Franklin H. Palmer, Mrs. John F. H[illegible], Mrs. J. Sidney Stone, Mrs. H. H. Richardson and Mrs. Russell Robb.

QUINCY MAYOR ASKS REMOVAL OF HULKS

Mayor Charles A. Ross of Quincy today ordered the Quincy Drydock Company to remove the hulks of two boats on Avalon Beach, Quincy, which have been the cause of injuries to many children playing on the beach.

One of the hulks is a 65-foot boat which has been rotting on the beach for the past two years. The other is the remains of the May Archer, an excursion boat, destroyed by fire.

He also announced that Federal authorities will attempt to raise the Norumbega, 150-foot excursion steamer, which sank in the Town river, when it was destroyed more than a month ago by fire. The boat has been a danger to navigation.

More than 250 crippled and undernourished children left Quincy today in 42 cars and two buses for a day's outing at Lake Pearl, Wrentham, as the guests of the Boston Auto Club.

Each child was presented with a bag of candy by Delcivar King, vice-president of the Granite Trust Company.

Hunt Quincy Boy in Boy Scout Garb

GOLDEN JUBILEE FOR SIX GRADS

With 50 years of crowded life behind them since the day they were graduated from Quincy Grammar School, six men returned to the school today to celebrate their class reunion at a special assembly.

They are the Rev. William B. Whalen, 65, of the Holy Redeemer Church, East Boston; William A. Fitzgerald, registrar of deeds; Charles Fishel, 64, of Winthrop; Major Cornelius J. McGillicudy of Marlboro street in the Back Bay, Spanish-American War surgeon, John A. Keenan, 66, secretary of the Charitable Irish Associations, and O. Allen Blaisdell, 64, of Wollaston.

Captain Tells of 2 Brides in 'Disappearance' Quiz

By Associated Press

Vienna, June 14—The story of Captain Ivan Poderjay, romantic Yugoslavian officer, of brides in New York and London was checked by Vienna police today, seeking to solve the disappearance of Miss Agnes Tufvertson of Detroit.

Captain Poderjay, arrested last night, said he married Miss Tufvertson in New York, December 4, 1933. But, he explained only 11 months before he had married Miss Marguerite Susanne Ferrard of London.

The American bride he related insisted on accompanying him to Europe. This was impossible, Poderjay said, because his first wife waited for him in Southampton.

Then Agnes told him she would take a trip around the world and if he did not hear from her in a month, Poderjay told police, he could "consider her dead." He has not seen her since, he insisted.

(Church records in New York disclosed a Miss Agnes Tufvertson was married last December to Captain Ivan Poderjay in the Little Church Around the Corner.)

Miss Tufvertson's family last heard from her in January when she cabled that she was going to India.

Vienna police are holding Poderjay pending information from New York but dispatches from there said no order for Poderjay's arrest has been issued and that he was wanted here, for questioning as to Miss Tufvertson's whereabouts.

BRENNAN FACES TRIAL, JULY 2

Attorney John J. Brennan, vice-president of the Somerville board of aldermen, will go on trial July 2, after indictments were returned charging him with larceny from an insurance company.

He has pleaded not guilty before Judge Louis S. Cox. Miss Mary G. Cronin, former secretary to Brennan, who had pleaded guilty to a like offense, was a witness before the grand jury, which returned the true bills against Brennan.

Captain Pratt Dies

East Orange, N. J., June 14 (AP)—Capt. Arthur W. Pratt, one of the last of old four-rigger skippers, died today at his home. He was 81.

X-9ERS TO HAVE GALA DAY AT NORUMBEGA

Joy, and still more joy in sight for those happy members of the Secret Agent X-9 Club, the rapidly growing organization of the Boston Evening American youngsters group, who will have a free circus and field day Saturday at Norumbega Park.

Loads of fun are promised all the X-9 members. They will be admitted free on display of membership card and badge. There will be free rides, a treasure hunt and other events to bring joy to the youngsters.

A feature of the day will be the turnout of Roxbury Post, 44, American Legion juvenile band of 75 pieces. The band is comprised of boys and girls who are members of the Agent X-9 club.

ENTERTAINMENT GALORE

Johnny Sullivan, ace Hyde Park accordian player, will supply plenty of melody with his nimble fingers. There also will be many other features of entertainment.

Clowns and Henry McLellan with his high school horse, 'Sparky,' will be seen. In addition a Punch and Judy show, a team of tumblers and pyramid builders from Norfolk House Center, will be headlined in the program.

GALA TREASURE HUNT

Norumbega Park is located in Auburndale on Commonwealth avenue. To get to the park from Boston, take a Lake street car and change at the end of the line for a bus to the park.

Fred Roth and President John J. Curry, of the Waldorf System, will sell ice cream cones, hot dogs, cold drinks and other delicacies at half price.

If it rains Saturday, the entire scheduled events of the day will be held on Sunday. The same arrangements for the affair will hold, if a postponement becomes necessary.

On the the free rides X-9ers may be lucky enough to find some treasure certificates. They entitle you to prize awards. There will be hundreds of these awards, as there were at the Easter Egg hunt at Franklin Park.

PAY CHEATERS FACE JAIL

Employers, who pay their workers less than the wages fixed through a minimum wage scale, are liable to a term in jail, beginning today, under a bill signed by Governor Ely.

The legislation was a piece drafted by the special commission on interstate compacts affecting labor and industry.

No punitive measures were included in the old minimum wage bill passed in 1912, except that the state had the power to publish the employer's name in the event that he failed to keep the letter of the law.

Baby With Rare Heart Dies

Providence, June 14—A baby born with a three-chambered heart and no pulmonary artery, a defect incompatible with life, died in St. Joseph's Hospital after a seemingly miraculous seven-day existence.

Dr. Stanley Freeman, pediatrist at the hospital, reported that the infant thrived for five days, nursing lustily. It was not until the sixth day, when it became necessary to administer oxygen to maintain life, that signs of heart failure became apparent.

The pulmonary artery, through which the blood is pumped to the lungs for purification, was absent.

Except in rare instances, babies having such a condition die at birth, he said.

Ice-breakers for L. I. Sound In Bill

Washington, June 14—Senator Lonergan (D) of Connecticut said he expected the Senate commerce committee to report today or Friday his bill authorizing the construction of two shallow-draft, ice-breaking vessels for the Long Island Sound area.

The senator introduced the measure after the severe weather last winter tied up navigation in the Connecticut river and along Long Island Sound.

One Man Army to Get Major's Rating

Washington, June 14—Sixteen years after the armistice the Senate voted to grant a major's commission to Sergeant Alvin C. York, America's greatest hero of that conflict.

The bill would give York a major's retirement pay. He already has the Congressional Medal of Honor for capturing 132 Germans single handed.

'BED' SAVES MAN IN TRUCK DROP OFF BRIDGE

Luther Rogers, 33, of Leonard street, North Lakeville, was suffering injuries to his head and chest after the truck he was driving crashed down Eliot street hill, Milton, and fell through a railing of a bridge over the Neponset river. A telegraph pole was broken off at its base in the speedy descent.

By a queer twist of fate Rogers avoided being drowned in the river. The truck was loaded with bags of fertilizer and when the truck hung for a few moments over the water's edge, the bags slipped off and formed a bed for the vehicle where the river is 15 feet at that point.

Then the truck slipped down and the driver managed to keep his head out of water until he was rescued.

The mellow ale of olden days was the accepted drink in home and tavern—the hearty, healthful drink of rich and poor alike.

You know that Croft Ale is fully matured

. . . because every brew is tested and analysed by the National Brewers' Academy and Consulting Bureau

B N A N.Y.

Its taste, its mellowness, and its vigorous strength will tell you that Croft Ale is fully matured.

But taste, mellowness and strength is not enough for us. Every brewing of Croft is not only tested several times during the process of brewing, but after each brew is completely matured it is analysed by the National Brewers' Academy and Consulting Bureau of New York.

Croft has become the fastest selling drink in New England because it is a real old-fashioned ale—hearty, mellow, strong and fully matured.

And you can be sure that not a drop of Croft Ale will ever leave our brewery that does not conform in every way to the standard we have set.

Joan Beams at the Stars

Exotic Joan Crawford posed in this wise from a scene in "Sadie McKee," the Vina Delmar story whose filmization has been packing them in at the State, and which comes tomorrow to the Orpheum for a downtown week.

Eyes at the lens

Carole Lombard comes to the Uptown screen tomorrow with Bing Crosby in the frivolous film, "We're Not Dressing."

Mexican Film at Fine Arts

"Thunder Over Mexico," Sergei Eisenstein's sweeping film of the republic below the Rio Grande, returned today to the Fine Arts Theater for a two-days engagement. To Eisenstein, Russian director of "Potemkin," "Ten Days That Shook the World" and other compelling films, types, not stars, have always been important, and so it is in "Thunder Over Mexico."

The much discussed sequence in which the ill-fated peon and his comrades are buried in the earth and trampled to death by their persecutors who charge across them again and again on horseback is one of the most graphic sequences ever shown.

Eisenstein travelled to Mexico at the suggestion of artist Diego Rivera, whose murals at Rockefeller Center caused so much commotion. Upton Sinclair financed the making of the picture.

"Road to Life," the film-story of the "wild boys" of Russia, comes to the Fine Arts on Saturday.

"Black Ivory," Polan Banks' Story of Piracy, Will Be Produced by Warners

By JERRY HOFFMAN
Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons
(Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service, [illegible])

Los Angeles, June 14—It's going to be a great year for the bloody buccaneer. Joining the parade of pirates, comes Pierre Lafitte and his swarthy crew from the docks of New Orleans and the shores of the Mississippi river. George Brent and Ricardo Cortez are to head the cast of "Black Ivory," the story of piracy and slave-running by Poland Banks which the Warners are to make. Which means also that Rick and the Warners have made up, if not kissed.

Meanwhile, "Treasure Island" is completed. Cecil B. De Mille is ready to film the life of Morgan, the pirate, with Henry Wilcoxon as the buccaneer. Sol Lesser tells me he will make "Captain Kidd" and RKO has a Jean Lafitte story in mind.

* * *

The little boys of the country won't be playing gangsters next year. Fewer boudoirs and living rooms, no speakeasies and a lot of fresh air has been prescribed for the movies. Not only will there be pirates but a great number of outdoor heroes. One series will star John Mack Brown in eight fast-moving dramatic stories. A better ideal couldn't be given to young America. The former All-American football idol has all the clean wholesome appeal parents want their youngsters to copy. Irving Briskin will produce the series, the first of which will be "Police Ambulance" by Harold Shumate in which John plays a youthful doctor.

* * *

One of the last silent movies made by John Gilbert in his heyday was "Four Walls." Lucien Hubbard feels the play still has plenty of good picture material and that it will be a swell story for Franchot Tone. Not only Franchot but also Karen Morley who has been away from M-G-M, Mae Clarke and Jack La Rue have meaty roles. This is La Rue's introduction to the M-G-M lot. Paul Sloane has moved into the Culver City studio to direct the story and is working with Bernard Schubert who is adapting anew the play by George Abbott and Dana Burnett.

* * *

There has been a great deal written about Peggy Fears coming to Hollywood in many capacities. Winfield Sheehan seems to think that Peggy's most effective entrance to pictures would be as an actress and to let the producing, directing and writing angles develop later if possible. She will be in Al Rockett's production for Fox, "Lottery Lover," in which Lew Ayres, Pat Patterson and Ned Sparks are to be principals. The musical numbers will be supplied by Jay Gorney and Don Hartman and Hans Schwarz is to direct.

[illegible] the [illegible] horse' of [illegible] off again, on again, [illegible] better? It's on again, Maureen O'Sullivan's trip to Dublin town. This time it is certain. So much so that Loretta Young will be in "Hideout" opposite Robert Montgomery in the role for which Maureen postponed her trip to Ireland for the sixth time. It will be the first of four pictures which the luminous-eyed Loretta is to make for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Snapshots of Hollywood

Joan Marsh has been making nightly appearances at the Miramar without Tommy Lee. She has alternate beaux. One is Roy Randolph, the dancer and the other Pat Sheedy who has an interest in the hotel. Meanwhile, the orchestra's guitar player becomes so confused every time she appears he starts playing it under his chin. I like Lyle Talbot's wire regarding the story a few days ago "Have broken bicycle stop Having new bicycle built for two stop And what of Gail Patrick?"

A Couple of Lines

Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., has asked Paul Robeson, the colored actor and concert star, to join him in England. Robeson will be one of the principals in the elder Doug's next picture. Ann Harding turned agent when she discovered her secretary, Lillian Templeton, was a clever designer. She conveyed her enthusiasm to Winfield Sheehan, who signed Lillian as a designer for the Fox stars.

ROOFTOP TRYST WITH PRINCE CITED IN SUIT

By Universal Service

London, June 14—A romantic midnight tryst on New York's loftiest rooftop—the Empire State building's observation platform—and a torrid love scene staged in a taxi speeding up Fifth avenue.

These were the allegations lodged against Tilly Losch and Prince Serge Obolensky here by Edward F. W. James, the Hungarian dancer's husband, who has sued for divorce naming the Prince co-respondent.

The dark-haired lovely dancer and the prince, once the husband of the former Alice Muriel Astor, sat side by side at their counsel's table, occasionally exchanging a smile or whisper, as James, under the cross-examination of the Prince's attorney, testified to the content of reports from the brace of private detectives he said he had shadowed his wife on three separate occasions.

'L' Extension Bill Given Quick O. K.

A bill calling for an investigation by the Division of Metropolitan Planning to determine the advisability of extending the rapid transit system from Forest Hills to the Dedham line and to Spring street in West Roxbury were reported "ought to pass" today by the Ways and Means committee of the House.

Boy Makes Plea for His Lost Dog

An appeal was made to the Boston Evening American today to assist Bobby Bauer, 8, of 50 Summit avenue, Brookline, in finding his dog, "Spike," who has been missing since Monday evening.

The dog, a German police, was last seen on Summit avenue. He is a brown and black dog and comparatively small for his breed.

JOHNSON GIVES UP STRIKE STRUGGLE

By Associated Press

Washington, June 14—Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, said today "I don't see anything more I can do" in the threatened steel strike.

He made this statement at a press conference while Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill made plans to push through Congress a substitute for the Wagner labor bill.

It provides for appointment of conciliation boards which could be employed in an effort to avert the strike set for Saturday.

"If there were anything I could do I would try it," Johnson said, "but you can't trade with a man who won't trade. I made a suggestion but they would make no concessions."

Johnson explained the strike situation was outside his jurisdiction, since all strikes or threatened strikes had been placed by executive order under the National Labor Board headed by Senator Wagner (D-NY).

Johnson said he had entered the situation only in an effort to help out but that the steel workers had rejected his offer.

"I'm not going to Pittsburgh. Nobody from NRA is going," he added.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers is meeting in Pittsburgh today. Johnson had been invited to explain his proposal for establishment of a mediation board to settle the difficulties.

Despite Republican opposition, the Democratic leaders hoped to get the revised bill through Congress speedily.

Pittsburgh, June 14 (AP)—Behind closed doors 200 delegates of the Steel Workers' Union met today to take a vote on a proposal for a nation-wide steel strike threatened within 48 hours unless the government intervenes with a "satisfactory" peace plan.

Strong sentiment in favor of a walkout of the 100,000 workers claimed by the amalgamated was expressed by several delegates before the convention opened.

GIRL IS HINGHAM LIFE SAVER

Miss Laura Sullivan, an 18-year-old girl graduated from Hingham high school two years ago, today received the appointment as life guard at Hingham bathing beach.

Miss Sullivan, of West street, Hingham, was captain of the field hockey team at the high school, captain of the track team and pitcher on the baseball team. In 1930 she won the New England championship for smashing the record for baseball throwing. Since leaving school she has been captain of a girls' basketball team at Rockland.

Miss Sullivan has passed all examinations of the American Red Cross at the Cabot street pool. She starts work July 1.

Revamp U. S. Constitution, Urges Prof. Elliott

By International News Service

New London, Conn., June 14—The Constitution of the United States must be reformed, but is not to be scrapped, was the message left here today by Professor William Yandell Elliott of Harvard with delegates to the second annual Institute on Public Administration being held by the Connecticut League of Women Voters.

The Supreme Court, Professor Elliott said, in its ruling in the Nebbia milk case, indicated clearly it was prepared to see many old restraints on social legislation abandoned. But that case, he continued, did not touch upon the fundamental failing of our system, which, he said, was its inability to fix political responsibility and its failure to provide unity of power and policy to shape national aims."

He suggested a reorganization of areas somewhat along the lines of the Federal Reserve subdivisions and abandonments of state units. He suggested new executive powers to enable the President to dispense with patronage and urged centralization in the hands of the executive of responsibility of governmental finance.

Further, Professor Elliott said the President should be given constitutional power to dissolve the House of Representatives once in its two-year term of office.

Street Bids Fail For Second Time

City contractors today were pondering ways and means of getting bids for city streets repair work under the $155 mark set by Mayor Mansfield. The extra thought by contractors was brought about by the mayor's rejection of a second set of bids submitted for street work by contractors which he said were far above what the work could be done for by city laborers.

Guardsmen Plan Company Reunion

Irene Castle Turns to Styles to Bring Help to Orphan Pups

Irene Castle, famed beauty, attracted a throng at R. H. White's when she lectured on styles today. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

By PEGGY DOYLE

In matters of fashion, there is an eternal problem. To lead or follow, aye, that is the question. And as for the answer, I talked with her yesterday, the smartest of the smart, Irene Castle McLaughlin.

Miss Castle, as she is best known, is in Boston at the moment on a matter which though commercial is most entertaining and has a philanthropic trend. In a couple of words she is fitting the feminine form for the purpose of feeding 150 friends of hers in her famed "Orphans of the Storm" dog refuge in Lake Forest, Illinois.

THRONG GREETS STAR

Accompanied by Daisy, a fuzzy pup involving eight good breeds and the temperament of a soubrette, Miss Castle supervised a showing of feminine under-fashions at the R. H. White Company and adroitly re-proved her excellent and never diminished flair for showmanship.

The third-floor auditorium was packed with an audience which observed with absorbed interest a parade of beautiful mannequins illustrating the newest feminine fads. Gentlemen were barred and so the well modulated oh's and ah's were not punctuated with staccato wows.

In a word, the show was to demonstrate that restraining garments which formerly won the approval of feminine Hollywood stars at a fabulous price have come within the financial resource of those beauties who may be designated as home girls or the boss' secretary.

On the premise of business before pleasure, it may be said that Miss Castle, in her position as style consultant, has this to say of fashion in general:

INDIVIDUAL STYLES ATTRACT

"A woman who slavishly follows fashions is never smartly gowned. The well-dressed woman does not follow the mode blindly, but she applies to her own requirements such factors of style as she may gratefully accept.

"If she is a bit original, or has a true sense of chic, she may contrive some little departure from the prevailing mode to suit her own individuality. Briefly, every person has some sort of individuality. I don't think that fashions are intended to make use of people. Persons are expected to make use of fashions to their own advantage."

Mrs. McLaughlin is the wife of Major Frederic McLaughlin, head of the McLaughlin Coffee Company of Chicago, and the mother of two beautiful children. Her present commercial activity is based upon the fact that the canine recipients of charity at her noted mid-West refuge, have increased in these times, even as contributions to their support have decreased.

NORMA IS TOLD CHARGES SHE FACES

This Is Life by ROBERT E. ROGERS

With President Scott of Northwestern telling us that most of the American youth will be going to college in the near future, it is likely that the greater part of our population under 20 is headed for a 25th class reunion one of these days. The 25th reunion in these parts is the climax of alumni life, save, perhaps for the 50th—and by that time you are too old to care.

Robert E. Rogers

I propose, therefore, to drop temporarily the consideration of the Good, the Beautiful and the True, and—for the sake of posterity and the youngsters who are growing up—devote a few columns, a la McIntyre, to this curious habit of college graduates, to get together once in 25 years, with their mates and young, to crowd together in the old Yard—called Campus in more barbarous institutions—and pursue elaborate ceremonies in honor of Alma Mater, toward the refreshing of old friendships and the encouragement of business.

At Harvard, indeed, the matter has become a highly organized tradition. Not merely a tradition but a ritual. Just as the scenario for Class Day is handed down almost unchanged from senior class to senior class, so is the ritual for the Twenty-fifth handed down. The chairman of this year was present at last year's doings and he in turn will invite the chairman of 1910 to kibitz this year's game.

High on the seventh floor of the Chamber of Commerce is the permanent office of the Harvard Twenty-fifth. There presides the goddess to whom all these mysteries are crystal clear. Smart, comely and more efficient than any mere man knows how to be, she presides. Her name is Miss Mabelle R. Bratton. She has managed the Twenty-fifth Reunions for the classes of 1901, 1904, '05, '06, '07, '08 and this present '09. As soon as next week has gone into history she will take a vacation and start whipping 1910 into shape. She is the world's authority on Harvard men around the age of 46-48, and of their wives and children to boot. She can tell you off-hand just who married whom and how many children and whether the children are accustomed to having a quiet room or whether they can stand noise.

For Miss Bratton oversees the committee that houses everyone who wants to come back. Already every available room in every building in the Yard is assigned to the returning brethren and their families. There are bachelors' wings in the old revolutionary piles and there are the new pint-size buildings set apart for mothers and small children I shouldn't wonder if there will be a special reservation for all night bridge players and another for the continuous elbow benders.

But the point is no one who returns to Alma Mater for the Twenty-fifth has to spend a cent. For a score of years and more William M. Rand of Lincoln has been raising money. It has been a long chore and it's almost over. For the reunion some $30,000—it used in more flush times to be nearer $50,000—and for the University $100,000, the traditional Harvard class. It has been many years since Charles William Eliot remarked with satisfaction "That clinches the precedent," when he received the news that the third class in succession had kicked through with its contribution. These more recent classes haven't had any too easy a time raising it, but, somehow, the tradition has been kept up.

Another man who will be glad when all this is over is Francis A. Harding of Watertown. For 25 years he has been keeping the records. Keeping a college class together for 25 years is like Lightning Bill Jones's stunt of driving a herd of bees across the continent. The first report back in 1910 listed 754 of us. After 25 years the active list of the class numbers 591. The dead number 105, of whom a score died in active service during the war. Over 50 are hopelessly lost or strayed. Save for the war casualties, I suppose that this represents a normal shrinkage. That it is no smaller than it is we owe to the indefatigable efforts of the permanent secretary, who has issued class books for the first, sixth, tenth and twentieth anniversaries.

* * *

There are at least 50 sons of Harvard and of the class at present studying at the university. One of us, Edmund Sears Kelley of Cambridge, who married a week after graduation and boasted the class baby, is now twice a grandfather, looking hardly a year older than he looked twenty-five years ago. Others are bringing small children to the reunion. One of us is bringing eight. On the whole, it may be said that the old jape about college men not reproducing themselves is no longer as true as it was. Statistics show that men with good educations are taking their responsibilities to the country more seriously than they used.

Two other men are charged with heavy responsibilities next week. Charles Inches of Wenham and Hamilton is head of the executive committee that has been planning for the past six months how best to manage and entertain the nine hundred persons who expect to return—266 men with their families. And Dr. Elliott C. Cutler, chief surgeon of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, is chief marshal for Commencement Day, the job which Franklin D. Roosevelt held at his 25th five years ago. These men, too, will be glad when it all is over.

WIFE SLASHES THROAT, DYING

Mrs. Mary K. Martin of Washington street, Somerville, attempted suicide today, according to police by slashing her throat and trying to leap from a window of her home

Her husband, James J. Martin and their son prevented her from plunging from the window. In the excitement somebody rang a fire alarm, calling apparatus to the scene

Mrs. Martin was taken to Central Hospital. Her condition is serious

Police said she had been in poor health for several years

THOUSANDS TO GRADUATE IN HUB TODAY

Impressive Services Planned at Revere and Roxbury

Impressive ceremonies, attended by thousands of parents and relatives, marked the graduation today of the Revere High school and the Roxbury Memorial High school for girls

A record class of 420 seniors of Revere High school received their diplomas today from Dr. Frank E Rowe, Chairman of the Revere school Board. The seniors clad in cap and gown, marched from Revere City Hall to the Revere Theatre, where the commencement exercises were held.

55 Honor Students

In addition to 53 students who received honors, two received double honors, Louis Sacks, valedictorian of the class and Vita Modelia, who read the class essay Dr. Marion Skirhall and Mayor Andrew Cassasa were the principal speakers.

Roxbury Memorial High school graduated a record number of 670 girls this afternoon during impressive ceremonies at Symphony Hall. More than 3000 parents, reatives and leading educators were in attendance

This afternoon and tonight four other high school graduations will place hundreds of pupils in the ranks of the alumni

School Committeeman Dr. Joseph V. Lyons will present diplomas to 476 members of the Girl's High graduating class this evening, at Tremont Tempe. The exercises will be attended by more than 2000 parents and relatives

SECRECY IN BROOKLINE

Great secrecy surrounds the identity of two boys and a gril, members of the Brookline senior class graduating tonight, who will each receive two prize awards. The girl will receive a scholarship for excellence in athletics and scholarship.

Of the 263 students graduating, 151 are girls and 107 are boys. Rev. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of the Trinity Church, Boston, will give the principal address.

The graduating class of 374 boys meet for the last time as a group in their own hall at the Roxbury Memorial High school for boys before they receive their diplomas from the headmaster tonight

12 OTHER GRADUATIONS

Tomorrow afternoon and evening, 12 other Boston high schools will hold graduation exercises They include Girls' Latin, Boys Latin, Brighton High, Charlestown, Dorchester, East Boston, Commerce, Practical Arts, Hyde Park, Mechanic Arts, and South Boston High.

Lexington High school will graduate 147 students tomorrow evening in Cary Memorial Hall There will be no outside speakers.

The invocation will be given by Rev. Christopher W. Collier, retiring pastor of Hancock Congregational Church, who will also give the annual graduation benediction.

Tests for Federal Jobs to Be Held

Open competitive examinations will be held by the United States Civil Service Commission to fill existing vacancies in the Federal building and the Boston postal district. Applications must be filed by June 29.

Vacancies, for which the examinations will be held, include the posts of junior telephone operator, elevator mechanic's helper, senior elevator operator, elevator conductor and conductor-laborer in the Federal building and the position of rural carrier in the Wellesley Hills postal station

Canadian Sweep Winners Reap Lucky Cash

MR. and MRS. DONALD GORDON

JOHN PRENDERGAST

MAY DAWSON

Registering joy. No wonder, for Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gordon, of Lynn, have just received a check for $25,081.94—as their winnings on Easton the horse that ran second in the Derby, at Epsom Downs, last Wednesday. They held lucky ticket in the Army and Navy Veterans sweep in Canada. At left below is J. P. Prendergast, Malden, who took away $6270.48 as fourth prize—having a ticket on Tiberius. On the right is May Dawson, of 289 Granite st., Quincy. She gave her own name as a non-de-plume—using her nephews name—Richard S. Hackelton, of Santa Anne, Cal. The ticket was on Colombo, the third horse and calls for a prize of $12,540.97. (Pictures by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

CHECKS ON WAY TO SWEEP WINNERS

A representative of the Canadian Sweepstakes, paying off more than $40,000 in cash prizes to winners of the lottery here in a small hotel room, today was on his way to turn over two checks for $18,000 each to two girls in Woodville, N. H

One is a waitress Clara Dodge in an inn of that town. The other is Mary Dodge, a student, who will graduate from a finishing school today. Her father, a physician in Woodville, had requested that her check be held over until she attended her commencement exercises.

In the payments of the $40,000 at the hotel Donald Gordon, an optometrist, of Lynn, with his wife, called for their check of $25,081.94. Gordon said that he was too busy to go on a vacation and asserted that he would place the money in a bank

The most secretive of the winners who called for her check was Mrs Josephine Hackelton. She was not only a winner of $12,540.97, but was the receiver of a check for more than $300 as a commission for selling the ticket to herself.

She revealed that she was an expert penman and that her winnings were not sufficient to allow her retirement She asserted that she must continue working and that she did not wish to be bothered about persons who might want to sell her autos and other "things."

A car inspector for the Boston & Albany railroad also called for his check, $6270.48 and hurried away from photographers on the plea that he was "almost late for his work. He is J. F. Prendergast of Malden

Prosecutor Undecided Whether to Try Her on 3 Indictments

Dedham Jail, June 14—Norma Brighton Millen learned today for the first time just what the State's charges are against her when she was visited by her associate counsel Martley C. Cutter

Cutter came after a conference between District Attorney Dewing and George A Douglas, Norma's chief counsel during which the specifications of the charges were discussed. The conference was held in the district attorney's office.

MILLENS MAY TESTIFY

Murton Millen and possibly Irving, May be called to testify in behalf of the 19-year-old bride, Douglas said today

Norma's trial is expected to last less than 10 days, according to predictions by both Douglas and Dewing

At the conclusion of the conference today, Dewing declared he would put the specifications in writing and mail them to Douglas tomorrow, in compliance with a court order At the same time he will inform Douglas whether he will try Norma on one or all three of the indictments against her.

FACES THREE CHARGES

She is charged with being an accessory after the fact to the murder of Patrolman Forbes A. McLeod, an accessory after the fact to the murder of Patrolman Frank O. Haddock and an accessory after the fact to the robbery of the Needham Trust Co.

The penalty, if she is found guilty of one charge, is a maimum sentence of seven years in Sherborn or a maximum sentence of two and a half years in jail, or a fine of $1,000.

Rites Tomorrow For P. J. Cantwell

Burial will be at Oak Grove cemetery Medford. He is survived by two sons, Bennett A. of West Roxbury and Raymond J of Dorchester, and a daughter, Mrs. Chester J. Powers of West Medford

Angler's 14-Pound Bass Sets Record

Middletown, Conn., June 14—Edward Fitzpatrick caught the "big one that got away."

It was a 14-pound striped bass, said to be one of the largest caught in years in this section of the country and it took Fitzpatrick 55 minutes to land his catch Fitzpatrick hurried to Middletown and had the fish weighed on the scales at the store of Mayor Frederick Bielefield

Mackey, Injured in Fire, Improved

Attending physicians at Carney Hospital, today, announced that the condition of Jeremiah Mackey, brother of Dr. Charles H. Mackey, was improved. He suffered serious burns, yesterday, when fire swept the doctor's home in East Broadway, South Boston

Dr. Mackey's mother, sister and a maid, were overcome by smoke. Dr. Mackey is a member of the school board.

O. O. McIntyre NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, June 14—Hell's Kitchen, roaring slum section of the upper West Side, still has its corner gang dust-ups. I passed through it the other day when two young huskies were toughening their talents. Bare knuckles were the weapons. The winner was a ringer for Gena Tunney. The loser lost three teeth.

Summer's scalding glare keeps tempers taut in the tenements. The slightest variation in life may incite fisticuffs. If the fish-monger's yell is too loud he must fly for his life. And a young sport flashing forth in a new hand-me-down may inspire a neighborhood fury and a moused eye.

While Hell's Kitchen spawns many chronic toughs, it also produces material for bench, bar and movies. Georgie Raft, for instance, who is the current idol. Most of the bad 'uns begin criminal careers as bundle snatchers. They gang up on delivery wagons, filching the loads. And graduate into dock walloping.

Warm evenings bring Hell's Kitchen to the sidewalks, stoops and fire escapes. Around the fire houses the kiddies, in loin clothes, are generously hosed. Each corner has its quota of lounging, shirt-sleeved youths who are so vigorously pugnacious that cops patrol in pairs.

Laurence Schwab tells me the ex-choir boy, Joe Penner, exploiting the same foolishness that made him such a sensation on the radio, met critical indifference in the ill-fated Schwab show, "East Wind." Percy Hammond reported he could discover no gayety in Penner's complaisant exertions. The erudite J. Brooks Atkinson thought that, while Penner could wiggle his scalp, one of nature's most lavish gifts, he was hardly funny enough. John Anderson thought the red-headed comic might have proved an amusing interlude if he had been as funny as someone must have, in an absent-minded moment, thought he could be. And so it went to the last critic and the producers, after three weeks, charged off $115,000. All of which proves nothing save a comedian may be a scream on the air and a scram before the footlights.

HUGH ASTOUNDS MADGE WITH THE THEORY THAT AVIS ARLEN'S "POVERTY" STORY IS JUST PART OF A NEW SCHEME

CHAPTER 43

HUGH GAVE me a quick, startled [illegible] the [illegible] just [illegible] eas[illegible] and I [illegible] ex[illegible]

"Mother G[illegible] me to go to B[illegible] tard f[illegible] ing to the fa[illegible] I suggested [illegible] I would go on [illegible] look at a hat [illegible] that I prob[illegible] the afternoon [illegible] Mrs. Ticer [illegible] for Pa[illegible] Avis Arlen. I [illegible] me to do both [illegible] course."

[illegible] touched.

"I [illegible] at the good [illegible]" he said [illegible] your husband? Didn't you say that you were going to ask Mrs. Underwood [illegible]" His voice [illegible] off [illegible]

"To tell Dicky that I was going to Patch[illegible]" I finished [illegible] chance I was far from fee[illegible] "Yes, I did [illegible] I had not counted upon my mother-in-law's [illegible] at the farm house [illegible] regard of her [illegible] there will be what Mrs. Ticer [illegible] tructions. Dicky in all probability will not miss me, and I can explain everything to him after I get back."

DICKY WON'T MISS HER!

"Will not miss you!" Hugh's voice was as horrified as if I had told him Dicky had just murdered his mother. But I ignored the [illegible] and answered with casual lightness.

"He and Harry wouldn't heed Gabriel's trumpet today, they're so engrossed in their electrical effects. They're just like small boys with a new electric railway, but I imagine they are going to work out something beautiful for the wedding decorations."

"I'm sure they are," Hugh said, and distinct relief showed through the commonplace words. "I'll just see that my car is brought around so that we shall be ready to start when Mrs. Ticer comes."

I hesitated, then spoke rapidly, furious at myself because I felt as if I were doing something underhanded, but impelled to the words by the thought of Mother Graham's possible watching for my car to pass the farm house. It would be like her to satisfy herself that I was obeying her commands promptly.

"I think it would be better to take my car," I said. "I am sure neither of us cares particularly for comment, and I think we shall minimize [illegible] if I take Mrs. Ticer home, saying that I have an errand at Bridgehampton for my mother-in-law, and you casually offer to go along in case of tire trouble, or something like that."

"— CAUGHT STEALING JAM!"

My fury at myself was augmented as I felt my cheeks burning under Hugh's look, which, to my surprise, held amusement instead of the subconscious censure which I feared would be his at any touch of duplicity in me.

"You look exactly like a little girl caught [illegible]" he said with a chuckle. "After all, you are not doing anything for which you need to blush ever so faintly. But, as we have to wait for Mrs. Ticer, suppose you tell me what distressed you [illegible] much just now when you finished talking with Mr. Veritzen. Of course," he amended hastily, "don't unless you wish."

With his unfailing tact he was sparing my confusion by changing the subject. I caught at his cue gratefully.

HUGH'S THEORY OF AVIS' YARN

"I suppose," I said slowly, "my imagination is working overtime as Dicky [illegible] but I could not help feeling that Mr. Veritzen meant something special when he said I would be glad to know he was on the trail of the missing letter."

"No doubt you are right," Hugh said, "but I do not see why you should be concerned. Of course it is Avis Arlen that he suspects, and she richly deserves suspicion. There is nothing that you can possibly do about it, so why wear yourself out worrying?"

"I know you are right," I said dully, "but I simply can't help feeling afraid for the girl. If her mother has lost her money this job of hers is probably a necessity, and if she should lose it—"

"She in all probability couldn't get another in any office in the country," Hugh said grimly. "I never have seen a girl who struck me as being so absolutely inefficient as Miss Avis Arlen. But I do not think you have to worry. Do you believe in hunches?" he asked abruptly.

"Yes, I do," I said emphatically. "What is your—"

"That Miss Arlen is not near so poverty-stricken as she pretends to be," he said quietly.

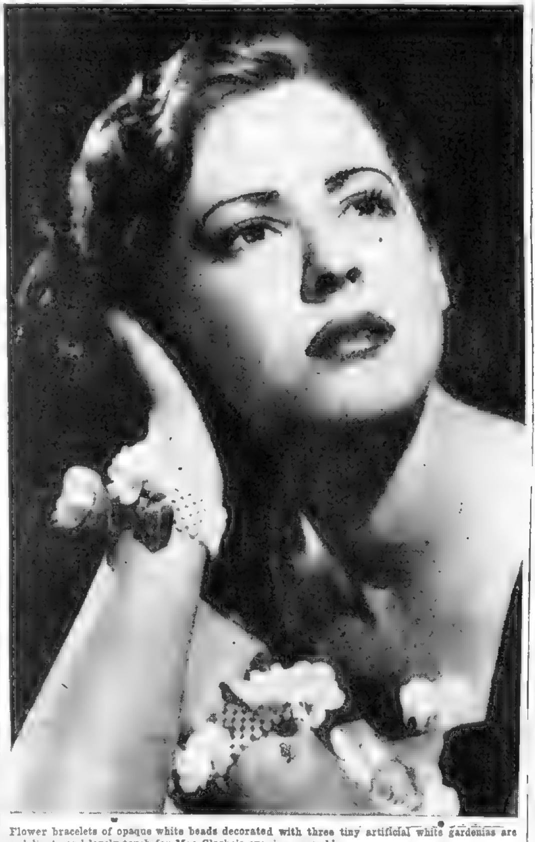
Gardenias Lend Fragile Beauty to Evening Ensemble



Flower bracelets of opaque white beads decorated with three tiny artificial white gardenias are a delicate and lovely touch for Mae Clarke's evening ensemble.

By

Mae Clarke

EVENING accessories have become so decorative that often they form the only accent for the severely plain formal gown. I prefer evening gowns that rely on cut and lovely fabric for their distinction, and then like to vary the ensemble by using entirely different accessories.

There is a new springlike touch in these "flower bracelets" which I wear with a black frock cut with the new square front decolletage.

The wide band of the bracelets is of opaque white beads with three tiny white gardenias posed just above the hand. The flowers are so perfect, even to the typical glossy leaves, that it gives the illusion of wearing fresh flowers, and, of course, is much more practical.

is doubly smart for this season.

Sometimes I wear one large fresh gardenia posed at the bodice

Wearing the bracelets in pairs of my frock, to create one accessory ensemble.

Again, I omit the flower, leaving the frock entirely without ornament, and wear a small gardenia in my hair in just the size as those used on the bracelets.

Fate of Hand Often Rests on One Card Choice

By Josephine Culbertson

It is sometimes difficult to convince a Contract Bridge player that often the entire fate of a hand may rest upon the card played to a particular trick. The play of one card may block a suit hopelessly and thus result in defeat, while the play of another card will permit a triumphant fulfillment of the contract. It cannot be too strongly or too often emphasized that every Bridge player, before playing a card from either Dummy or his own hand, should make a [illegible] to change at a moment [illegible] as to the manner in which he plans to play his hand and as to the cards played to any particular trick. Had the player of the South and below remembered the importance of the choice of a card, instead of being defeated two tricks at a game contract he would have made that contract [illegible] The hand was:

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

North: ♠ A 10 7 ♡ A Q 7 6 2 ♢ A 4 ♣ K J 9
West: ♠ 9 6 5 3 2 ♡ K 9 5 4 3 ♢ 8 3 ♣ 8
East: ♠ K 8 4 ♡ J 10 8 ♢ K Q 7 ♣ Q 7 6 3
South: ♠ Q J ♡ — ♢ J 10 9 6 5 2 ♣ A 10 5 4 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♢	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
5 ♣	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's bid of three hearts was a slight overbid. Undoubtedly he [illegible] playing the hand at [illegible] contract in notrump and did not wish to risk the possibility of a pass. South, with his two-suiter, even though weak in top-card tricks, necessarily continued the bidding and North's Raise to five clubs, after the bid of four clubs, was perfectly sound. South's Redouble after East doubled was based, of course, entirely on his distributional values.

West chose as his Opening lead a spade, which was won in Dummy with the Ace. The Ace of hearts was led, and the Declarer's last spade discarded. Next, the Ace of diamonds was laid down, followed by a small diamond, which East won. He then returned a heart, which South ruffed. South led another diamond and ruffed in Dummy, but at this point he made the fatal mistake of ruffing with the nine instead of the Jack. Despite East's Double he did not make allowances for a possible holding of four trumps in the East hand. He next played the King and Jack of clubs, and when West failed to follow, he was forced to shorten himself in trumps to return to his own hand. As a result, he was set two tricks.

Had the third diamond been ruffed with the Jack, South could have overtaken the nine of clubs with the Ten, drawn another round of trumps, and then conceded a trump trick to the Queen, thus fulfilling his contract.

Tomorrow's Hand

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

North: ♠ Q 9 5 ♡ 9 7 3 ♢ A 6 ♣ K 10 9 5 4
West: ♠ 7 4 ♡ Q 5 2 ♢ Q 10 8 2 ♣ 8 6 3 2
East: ♠ A 6 2 ♡ K 10 8 4 ♢ J 9 5 3 ♣ A 7
South: ♠ K J 10 8 3 ♡ A J 6 ♢ K 7 4 ♣ Q J

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Satin Is Sleek for Evening

FOR SOPHISTICATES who loathe ruffles and furbelows, sleek satin evening gowns fit the bill as a summer evening fashion. Cut along fitted, clinging lines, these summer satins appear in glacier pastels, such as an icy blue, white or green. These shining sheath-like gowns need but little adornment—but short capes, fastened with a jeweled clasp, velvet halter straps or a square-cut decolletage emphasize their regal appearance. Silver kid sandals add a gleaming note to the ensemble.

Crisp Pastry With Tart Fruit

By Martha Lee

WITH THE BERRY and fruit season here again we can't serve too many delicious pies and tarts using these healthful foods. Just concoct a delicious pastry. Our pet recipe is given again

PIE CRUST

2¼ cups pastry flour
1 tsp. salt
¾ cup shortening
8 tbsps. cold water (about)

Sift together flour and salt. Cut in the shortening until evenly blended (to about the consistency of a coarse cornmeal). Add the water, gradually, mixing it in with as much flour as it will take up. Shape into a ball, working in all the loose edges, divide into two parts. This makes enough pastry for one large two-crust pie, or two one-crust pies, or twelve tart shells.

BAKED PIE SHELL

Roll the pastry ⅛-inch thick a little larger than the pie plate. Fit the pastry into the pie plate gently, taking care that all air is excluded. Cut the pastry ½-inch round the edge of the pie plate, turn under the edge all the way around and raise this double fold so that it stands up with the cut side against the rim of the plate. Place the tip of the right index finger against the inner edge of the fold of the pastry and place the tips of the thumb and index finger of the left hand on either side and against the other edge of the fold. Pinch and press down firmly with the finger of the left hand. Continue this process around the rim. Prick the pastry well with the fork so that steam may escape. Bake in a hot oven, 450 deg. F., for about 10 minutes.

RASPBERRY CREAM PIE

Use previously baked pie shell for this pie. Have ready 1-3 cup sugar, ¼ tsp. salt, 3 tbsps. cornstarch, 2 cups scalded milk, 2 eggs, 1 tsp. vanilla, 2 cups ripe red raspberries, 1 cup cream, whipped. Mix the sugar, salt and cornstarch together. Pour scalded milk slowly over this mixture. Cook stirring constantly until very thick. Remove from the stove and stir in the eggs beaten slightly. When thoroughly blended, return to the heat and cook for one or two minutes longer. When partially cool, add vanilla and pour into the baked pie shell. Spread with a thick layer of crushed raspberries and cover top with whipped cream.

FRESH CHERRY PIE

4 cups cherries, steamed and stoned
1 cup sugar
2 tbsps. flour

Mix sugar and flour together, then mix with the cherries. Place in a pie dish lined with unbaked pie crust, cover with top, bake in a hot oven, 400 deg. F., for about 25 minutes.

CHERRY CUSTARD PIE

1 tbsp. fine dry bread crumbs
2 cups cherries
1-4 tsp. cinnamon
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1 egg
¾ cup scalded milk
1 cup sugar

Line a pie dish with pastry, sprinkle the bottom with finely ground bread crumbs. Put in the cherries and sprinkle them with cinnamon and half of the sugar. Blend the rest of the sugar with the cornstarch. To this mixture, add the beaten egg and hot milk. Pour over the cherries. Bake in a hot oven, 425 deg. F., for about 10 minutes. Then reduce the heat to a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., and bake for 30 to 40 minutes until the custard is set.

Seating Guests

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly settle this argument?

A says if you are giving a dinner party for more than four, the host keeps his place at the table but the hostess gives up her seat and sits at the right of the guest of honor.

B says the hostess keeps her accustomed seat and the guest of honor, if a gentleman, sits at the left of the hostess, and if a lady at the right of the host, regardless of how many are at the table.

Who is correct?

KATHRINE

A is not at all correct, and B is only partly so.

The man guest of honor sits at the right of the hostess, and on her left sits the man given the second place of honor. The woman guest of honor sits at the right of the host, and on his left the woman given the second place of honor.

To Keep Firm Contour of Youth

Q—Would you please tell me what I can do to keep my face from sagging. I am 40 years old and I have noticed my face is beginning to sag on each side of my chin.

I. P. D., Roxbury.

Answer—To correct a sagging contour, first cleanse face and neck with cream. Then apply a good nourishing cream, or an astringent cream or muscle tightener along the contour from chin to ears. Then slap briskly with backs of hands until the preparation is completely absorbed. Tie up the chin in a bandage wrung from cold water and drenched with astringent lotion and relax for a while. Use lots of cold water on face and neck to firm the flesh. Pat in an astringent.

Early Gray Hair

I am 20 years old and I have lots of gray hairs. I would like your advice as to what dye I can use to fix them up. I am ashamed to go places because people are always staring at me and making comments—F. S. T., Newton.

I feel that you are too self-conscious about your hair. It is hardly possible that people would make remarks at it. Gray hair on very young people is not at all unusual.

I suggest that you take the best care of your health and hair as this will do more than anything else to retard grayness. And don't worry too much about it. One of the most beautiful women I know is less than thirty years old and her hair is snowy white. It is an asset to her—not a hindrance.

I wish my wife had a temper. If she did, she'd be much easier to live with.

As it is, I never know where I stand with her. She goes around with a permanent I'm-terribly-hurt-but-I-forgive-you expression until she has me nervous that I'm afraid to call my soul my own. Only this morning, I explained to her that my brother's wife's cousin, whom I used to spark in the dear, dead days, is in town and has asked me to have dinner with her at her little apartment. Now this girl—Kitty must be all of 40 by now—has been recently widowed and she wants some advice about her business affairs. When her father died—that was when we were going together—I helped her with her financial arrangements, and because they turned out rather well she has implicit faith in my judgment. I've explained all this to my wife but she still insists that there is a romantic interest there. Of course, Kitty is an attractive girl, pleasant to be with, in fact she has much more [illegible] than a [illegible] And anyway we are always just pals. Galaxy of New Waterproof Aids Includes Lotion, Cream and Rouge

POSED BY CLARA LOU SHERIDAN

By Juliet Shelby

LETS LEAD OFF with waterproof cosmetics, because here is where things are really happening this summer. Whether you are a landlubber or no, you'll be going nautical with the rest of the world even to wearing anchors in your hair and seashells on your toes.

It's all because fashion has turned her spotlight from the golf course and tennis court to the rocking-chair fleet. Cosmetics deserve watching, too—and you couldn't do better than string along with a new waterproof lotion that will stay with you even in a boiling surf.

If you want to add new interest and excitement to your beach ensemble—or maybe nautical is a better word, since everyone is now a sailor—this lotion will do it. It's of the liquid powder variety and comes in two shades, the universally becoming peach-bloom and rachel.

It is so misty-fine, so perfect in tone that it will give your skin the illusion of sunken transparency. And it [illegible] —not even if you stay in the sea all day. A waterproof rouge that is truly indelible and great for cheeks and lips when swimming is making its debut along with the powder.

These two dramatic cosmetics are being introduced by one of the most famous beauty experts in the world. She has the distinction of being one of the first beauty specialists to create powders for different types of skin.

Hence, this liquid powder lotion mentioned above is for oily skins only. But if you happen to have a dry skin, here is good news for you. She has a new foundation cream that is actually waterproof. It is so exquisite that it really requires no powder at all. But if you feel that a [illegible] coating is necessary, even for the seashore, then by all means use some. Like the liquid foundation it is so adhesive that it will cling for hours in the water. It is both flattering and faithful and that is all a foundation cream is supposed to be.

If you are interested in learning where these waterproof cosmetics may be purchased telephone to Juliet Shelby, Liberty 4300. If you prefer writing for this information send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Shelby, Boston Evening American, Boston.

GIRL IN THE FAMILY :-: A Choice Between Marriage for Love or Loyalty :-: By Beatrice Burton

Susan Informs Wallace That the Engagement Is All Over; He Demands Reason

CHAPTER XXIV

In the three weeks she had known Allen he had changed everything in Susan's life, giving point and meaning to everything she did. Even these days of dullness and hard work were bringing her closer to the time when she could marry him and settle down to the real business of life, and the joy of it . . . "Marry and settle down."

She dressed herself with a sort of [illegible] interest now, knowing that Allen's eyes would rest on the whiteness of her organdy collar and cuffs, the little [illegible] of dove colored silk that matched her eyes, [illegible] that a hundred strokes of the brush had given to her hair.

On Wednesday night Allen stayed downtown for his law classes, but on Thursday night when Susan was getting dinner she heard him come in. She had the kitchen door open so that she could listen for him, and when she heard the sound of his key turning in the lock she went softly down the rear hall to the side door.

The electric light that hung there above the steps had burned out a few days before and she stood waiting for him in half darkness. As he came up the steps she put out her hands and laid them on the rough cloth shoulders of his coat. "Dearest." The little word came easily and naturally to her as if she had been saying it to Allen for years. She had never been shy with him as she always had been with Wallace, even after she became engaged to him.

HONESTY OF LOVE

"Susan . . . Susan!" He took her in his arms and Susan leaned back in them tilting her face for his kiss.

"Susan, just think some night I'll be coming home this way to our house, and you'll be waiting for me—" Then his arms slackened and he drew away from her, listening. A door closed somewhere in the front part of the house and footsteps came down the hall. Slow, heavy, shuffling footsteps. Uncle Worthy in his house slippers.

Allen glanced toward the door that led to the front hall. The footsteps came very close, then stopped and the door of Uncle Worthy's study opened and closed.

Susan breathed a long sigh of relief. "Saved!" she whispered and let out a little laugh that was hardly more than a breath.

Allen shook his head. "I can't say that I care so much for this hole-and-corner stuff," he said [illegible]. "The sooner they know about you and me the better pleased I'll be."

"What do you mean?" Susan's eyes were large and questioning in the dimness of the cold little entry way.

"I mean this—that the last thing in the world that two people ought to be underhanded about is their love," he said, opening the door that led to the front hall. "If they have to sneak and lie about it—" He snapped his fingers as if he wanted to show her just how worthless that sort of love was in his opinion and went up the front stairs to his own room.

Back in the glare of the kitchen Susan thought over what he had said as she turned the [illegible] in their sizzling pan and turned down the gas under the coffee pot. . . . He was right . . . [illegible] It ought to be honest and [illegible].

The door from the [illegible] Uncle Worthy [illegible] "[illegible] I heard you [illegible] here, Susan?"

She [illegible] "[illegible] kitchen for at least an hour," she said. It was the truth and yet it was not the truth. She knew that she ought to say, "I was [illegible] talking to Mr. [illegible] Uncle Worthy."

GOING TO PLAY SAFE

And she hated herself for not saying it. But how, she asked herself as he drew his head back from the doorway like a turtle retreating into its shell, could she tell the whole truth to Uncle Worthy?

* * *

Just before dinner a telegram came from Wallace. It had been sent from a town less than a hundred miles away and it announced that he would be home that night and would telephone her from the station as soon as his train got in. Susan, in the role of housemaid, answered the doorbell when the messenger boy brought it and she said nothing about it to anyone in the family.

But she took it with her when she slipped out of the house after dinner to meet Allen, who was waiting for her in the doorway of the Shoe Fixery on the corner, just out of sight of the house. They read it by the light of the arc light, their heads close together. It was roofs on the other side of the street. was almost deserted. A block away the footsteps of a solitary pedestrian rang like iron in the frozen stillness and the stars were unusually large and bright above the roofs on the side of the street.

"If you're going to have to see Steffen tonight you'd better not stay here, talking, very long," Allen said when he had read the telegram and handed it back to Susan. His voice was sharp with the kind of sarcasm that is the result of jealousy. "You'd better go and get dressed for him."

"He may not want to come out tonight," Susan answered. Her voice was like a gentle hand, reaching out to soothe him. "He only said that he was going to call me up—and, Allen, I wish you wouldn't be jealous and hard like this. You don't have to be. I'm never going to see him again, or think of him, after I get things straightened out with him. But I am sorry for him because this is going to humiliate him—"

"But, sorry or not, you're going to tell him exactly how things are, aren't you?" In the shadow of the doorway he put his hand under her chin, tilting her face so that he could look directly down into it. "The sooner you get it over with the better it will be for everyone concerned, Susan. It isn't fair to him or to yourself or to me not to tell him right away."

WITH ANGRY ARDOR

He left her after a few minutes, his whole attitude that of a man who is leaving the woman he loves to an uninteresting rival knowing that presently she will return to him. His face was almost sullen, and when he kissed Susan good-night he did it with a sort of angry ardor, as if it made him bad tempered to know how much he cared about her when she was not yet free from Wallace.

"If you don't go through with this, you needn't ever try to explain it to me, Susan." That was his parting remark.

* * *

The train that brought Wallace back from the south was late because of a heavy down-state snowfall and he did not telephone her until half past eleven that night.

"It's too late for me to come out, sweetheart," he said, to her great relief. "I'd drive past to see you for just a second, but it would be after midnight by the time I got there and I won't get too much sleep, as it is. Hard day ahead of me tomorrow, after all this loafing, too."

At 12 the next day Susan left a luncheon of cold salmon and potato salad for her aunts and Uncle Worthy set out on the table, and went down to the bank to see him.

She had telephoned him to say that she was coming and he was waiting for her, with a white carnation in the lapel of his coat.

But Wallace smiled down at her as if she were the most beautiful human being in the world, and the grip of his fingers hurt. "Susan, I've got to kiss you," he said with a glance over his shoulder at an elderly man who sat at the desk next to his. "I wish old Barton"—he nodded in the man's direction—"would chase himself around the block for a minute or two so I could do it."

Allen would have kissed her if all the bankers in the Fourth Federal Reserve District had been there to see him do it, Susan reflected, if she were openly engaged to him as she still was to Wallace. But she was glad that Wallace did not try to.

"Why not go out and have lunch with me after all?" he asked. "I could leave [illegible] half past twelve. I should [illegible]."

Susan shook her head [illegible] and [illegible] so that she had to swallow hard two or three times before she could answer. "Thanks, but I don't care for lunch, Wallace. I came down here to see you because I have a [illegible] to make to you."

ENGAGEMENT OVER

"Yes?" Wallace dropped one arm over the back of his swivel chair and smiled at her calmly. "And what is this dreadful confession?" His smile implied that whatever it was it couldn't be so very bad or so very important. He was very certain of her, and his certainty showed in his attitude.

"It is awfully dreadful, Wallace." Susan put her elbows on the desk and leaned closer to him so that the elderly man could not hear what she was going to say.

Something in the gesture, something in her face must have suddenly convinced Wallace that she really did have something important to say to him. The smile slowly left his eyes and the questioning look deepened in them.

"Our engagement can't go on!" She brought the words out in a rush. "It's all over!"

Wallace sat back in his chair as if she had reached out and slapped him across his face. He stared at her as if she were a total stranger who had brought him some shocking piece of news.

"But how?" he asked finally. "How not go on?"

Susan stared down at her clasped hands. "This is the hardest thing I've ever had to do, Wallace. To explain this to you, I mean. But I do want to be honest with you. When I told you I'd marry you I fully intended to do it. I was sure I loved you. But I'd never been in love before, and I didn't know what it was like."

"Ah!" Wallace's smile came back into his face, the kind of smile that is as bitter as a look of extreme dislike. "I see. You've found out since then what it is like to be in love. Is that it?"

"I'm afraid it is."

She had not meant to tell him that. She had intended simply to tell him that she did not care for him enough to marry him, and then to get away from him as soon as possible. She saw now that it was not going to be easy to carry out that program.

Wallace got out of his chair. "Let's go somewhere and talk this over," he said, "in private. I'm afraid I don't quite get the hang of what you're trying to say."

He got his overcoat and his rubbers and his hat, and side by side they crossed the white marble floor of the bank and out into the cold sunshine of South Main street.

Amateur 'Aspect to Heavyweight Fight: Baer in Frisky Humor ↕ Sharkey Points to Primo's Chin: Wise Men Save Their Money

By AUSTEN LAKE

THERE IS A bewildered pucker on the brow of the challenger at tonight's battle between the interesting invalids. Up to the moment there has been no price set on Max Baer's head, otherwise known as Adelbert's addlepate, and the skirmish line of deputy sheriffs, process servers and judgment wranglers have not settled on his doorstep as of old, when he was being sued by divers disappointed damsels like Bee Starr, the flying trapeze lady, Shirley LaBelle, unattached, and Olive Beck, the twinkle-toe waitress.

But Primo-the-primitive's affairs are running smoothly, and Miss Amelia Tersini, also a waitress in London's Soho region, has fastened a legal courtplaster to cover $15,000 worth of flivvered emotion.

Austen Lake

* * *

WHEN BAER CAME to New York originally as a brawny lad, and an indentured butcher's apprentice, he called on the sport authors clad in a shiny top hat, a morning coat and a set of cream-colored spats.

Today he wore a lounging costume, a shirt of blue-ribbed silk and a horsey cap with an English roll. The whole was set off with his best cinema grin.

* * *

FOR THE BENEFIT of the news hangers on, he gave an impromptu rehearsal of what he expected to say into the microphone after tonight's fight.

"Hello Ma." he chirped into an imaginary Mike. "Not a scratch on me. The big gobbler put up a dandy little scrap for a clumsy swipe."

It was not funny but the press lads laughed obligingly.

* * *

IT IS APPARENT from Baer's true-to-life actions that he was not acting in the movie, "The Prize Fighter and the Lady," but being just his normal, effervescent self. He says he is going to wear the bathrobe with which he draped his figure in the screen scene, which had "Steve Morgan," his play name, sewed on the back.

This brings up a nice, technical point for the New York commission, which frowns on ring nonsense as an affront to the dignity of the noble sport, and requires every fighter to operate under his legal handle.

* * *

ONE RECALLS the savage ferocity with which Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey approached the last hours before a championship fight, glowering and sulking by themselves and refusing to see any but their intimate associates.

Carnera, leaner through his face than usual under his coat of gravy brown, is in a twittery state of nerves, irritable and waspish. Which is a state of mind approved by the veteran ring followers, who are all puzzled about Baer's buoyancy. Even Dempsey, who is normally affable, is wearing a frown and talking snappishly.

* * *

JACK SHARKEY, who was clubbed into a coma by Carnera and who privately wants to see the Italian given a good hiding, said:

"Primo's height is a tremendous factor. When you have to reach that high for a man's chin, the force of your blow and the timing is spent before it lands.

"Max is a head puncher and a wild swinger at that. Carnera is pretty much a defensive type of fighter who is careful to keep his enormous paws in front of his chin. He can take it about the body, with all that cushion of muscle. If he doesn't get rattled and lose his head, he ought to keep Baer away from the jaw."

* * *

BAER IS AS unorthodox about his training diet as he is about his ring routine, and is apt to eat anything that his appetite craves. Once in his early days he hired a dietician to draw up a food schedule.

When the schedule was ready, Max disliked the green stuffs and acid vegetables. So he hired the dietician to eat his own fare, while he, Maxie, viewed the results "in vili corpore,' so to speak.

"This guy picked the food," said Max, "Now let him eat it."

Which recallst he experiment that Jim Rice, the big English rowing coach who once tutored Columbia, worked out years ago. Jim hired out to a man who had some peculiar fancies about food. So, together, day after day, the two rowed many miles, Jim eating what he liked and the man adhering to his rigid diet.

As Rice relates, the test came to naught. Because one day the man went home and died, while at the last report Jim was hale and hearty, eating, as usual, anything that came his way.

All-Star Staff Covers Fight for American

Tonight's the night when ring history may be made under the glaring lights at the Garden Bowl in Long Island City, when Primo Carnera defends his title against Max Baer.

Even though you are not at the fight, you can be a real ringside spectator through the picture to be drawn of the battle by an all-star staff of Boston American contributors.

JACK CONWAY, nationally known fight authority, will give the detailed story of the battle.

AUSTEN LAKE, brilliant columnist, will describe the highlights and human interest angles of the scene.

DAMON RUNYON, one of the greatest sports commentators of the day, will give his impressions exclusively for this paper.

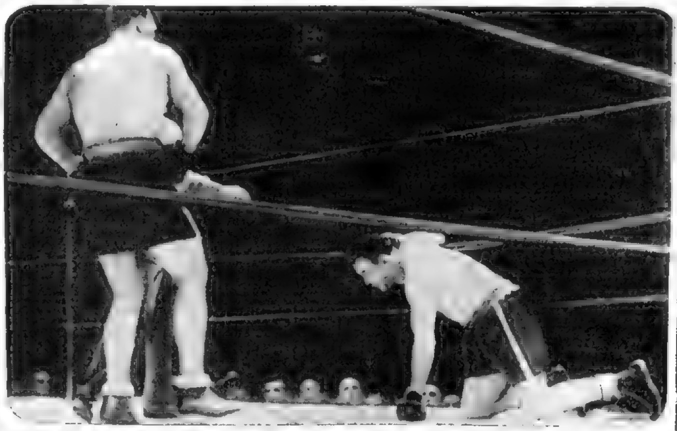
PRIMO CARNERA and MAX BAER, the combatants, will write their own accounts of the fight, for American readers.

BILL CORUM, noted sports columnist; BENNY LEONARD, former lightweight champion; GENE FOWLER, famous novelist, and BUGS BAER, world-wide known humorist, will also write exclusively for this paper.

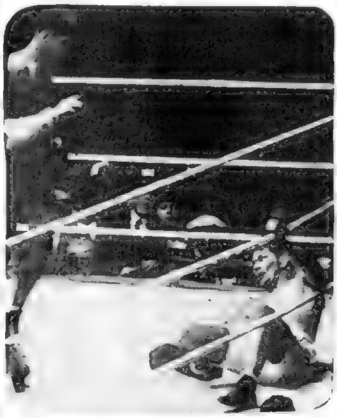
A staff of photographers will be stationed around the Bowl for the best pictures of the struggle.

Don't fail to get your copy of the American with all details of the battle. Stories of the fight with first pictures will be on the street early Friday morning.

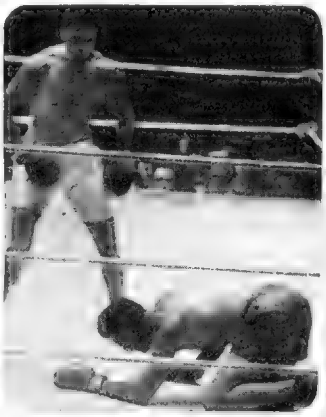
Turning Back the Leaves of the Heavyweight Album



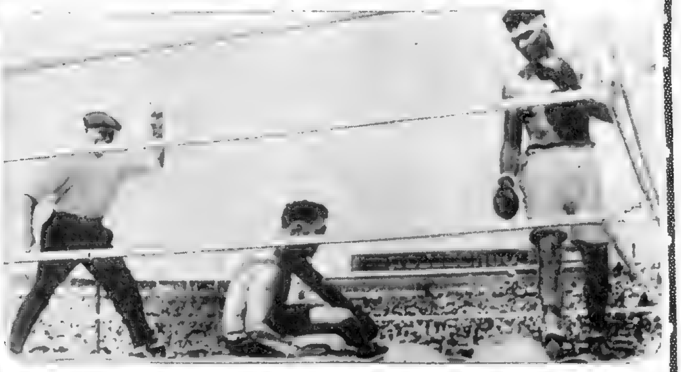
1933—The giant figure of Primo Carnera looms large and ominously over the heavyweight horizon as he knocks out Jack Sharkey at the Garden Bowl to win the championship. He defends the title in the same ring tonight.



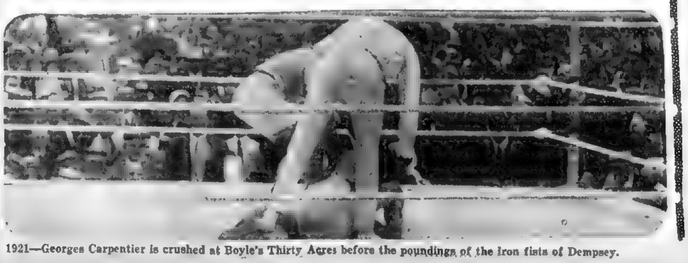
1927—The famous long count in Chicago with Gene Tunney down and Dempsey still hovering over the champion.



1923—Luis Firpo, the so-called Wild Bull of the Pampas, almost out from Jack Dempsey's right.



1919——A lithe, panther-like Dempsey becomes king of the heavyweights by stopping Jess Willard at Toledo.



1921—Georges Carpentier is crushed at Boyle's Thirty Acres before the poundings of the Iron fists of Dempsey.

with a heavy demand for good locations.

Carnera still rules favorite in the betting at odds of 10 to 8, but only a few wagers have been made.

Many bets have been [illegible] off on account of [illegible] regarding the match. The big betters, the so-called smart money—are fearful of [illegible] stories of tax trailing [illegible] money has been bet [illegible] than on any [illegible] in years.

DEMPSEY GETS BAER

Hoffman revealed to me this morning that if Baer wins the New York Garden only has a [illegible] day option on his services for another title bout. This means that the Garden would have to send Baer, if he becomes champion, against Steve Hamas or Walter Neusel in September unless he wishes to extend the contract.

Jack Dempsey will have all rights to Baer's services once he is clear of his Garden contract.

WEIGHT FAVORS PRIMO

Broadway favors Carnera on account of his superior condition and huge size. It is also felt that the Carnera management knows its way around town and will not get the worst of the breaks tonight.

Sentiment is with Baer. The average man on the street would like to see the colorful Californian win. Carnera is so huge it is natural for the average run of fans to be rooting against him to win.

Jack Sharkey was never popular in New York, but yet the night he defended his title against Carnera the huge gathering was rooting for him to win.

Sharkey looked so small in comparison to Carnera it was natural that the sympathies of the crowd would be with him. Baer, six feet two and a half inches tall and weighing 208 or so pounds, is a better match physically for Carnera than Sharkey was.

I look for a hard, rough fight. The first four or five rounds should be particularly rough.

ROUGH FIGHT EXPECTED

Baer will be sent in there tonight to try everything. In his training bouts, he used his head and elbows. This was part of the plan to get him prepared to rough things with Primo.

Carnera has been warned that Baer will come sweeping from his corner and that he will let his punches pick their own shots. He won't care a great deal if a few of them do land low.

Under the rules of the New York [illegible] Commission a boxer mere[illegible] [illegible] in which no [illegible] a low punch. If he can do enough damage with low punches, he can weaken his opponent and make him easier to hit with a [illegible] to the jaw.

[illegible] says he will give Baer [illegible] kind of medicine he hands out. If Max hits low Carnera will [illegible] punches are foul ter[illegible].

MORGAN IN CORNER

Carnera will have to fight without the services of Bill Duffy, his American manager, who is in jail under an income tax term. All efforts to get Federal Judge Bonde to release Duffy so he could second Carnera tonight failed. Carnera made a personal appeal to the judge but it was not successful.

[illegible] Morgan, one of the old [illegible] of managers, will take Duffy's place in Carnera's corner. Morgan is [illegible] with the boxing commission and he is expected to get an even break for Primo in the [illegible] of the officials.

Arthur Donovan is likely to referee. He refereed the Schmeling-Baer and Sharkey-Carnera bouts last year. He is a competent, fearless official.

MILK FUND TO GAIN

Interest in the fight has picked up during the past two days. It now looks as if the gate receipts will run close to $400,000. The choice $25 ringside seats are all sold, while the $11.50 seats are going fast.

Ten thousand seats at $2.20 each were placed on sale today, and they were in heavy demand.

The milk fund will receive 10 per cent off the top. Carnera will [illegible] per cent of the balance, while Baer will draw 20 per cent. Jack Dempsey will cut in for 7½ per cent of Baer's end.

59 Knockouts on Record of 'Da Preem'

Primo Carnera, world's heavyweight champion, launched his fistic career on Sept. 12, 1928, and five years later won the heavyweight title by knocking out Jack Sharkey of Boston in the sixth round. Primo Arrives in Oakland

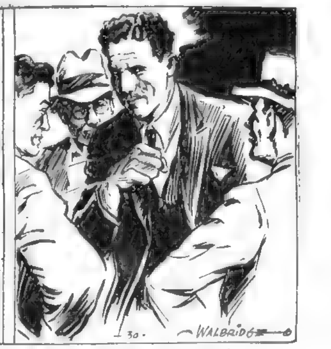
Carnera Playfully Dropped His Guard

Primo and Max Posed for Pictures



"I'll Knock Him Out," Max Said

In the good year 1930, Primo Carnera had sold out Madison Square Garden for his American debut with Big Boy Peterson of New Orleans. Primo, the giant, was an instant hit, and Leon See, the Frenchman, was doing as well with his big man as Barnum did with his Cardiff giant and other freaks. All critics considered Carnera a freak, nothing better, but the promoters, far and near, fell all over themselves to bill him as their next attraction. Promoters Parente and Klatt of Oakland negotiated with See to bring Carnera to the coast for a fight with Leon (Bombo) Chevalier, a trial-horse Negro heavyweight from San Francisco. One fine day in April the Carnera circus pitched its tents in Oakland.

Training quarters were opened at the Arcadia dancing pavilion. For 25 cents a peek one was entitled to see Primo dance lightly against his sparring partners. Primo was a Fancy Dan, all right, and he started the crowd cheering as he playfully dropped his guard and let his sparmates belt him in the stomach. Da Preem always ended these workouts with a right-hand uppercut to signal the fun was over. Everybody was impressed by Primo's lightness of foot, his clever work with the mittens.

Max Baer was a daily "scout" at training quarters. A cameraman asked Carnera to pose for a picture with Max. Carnera readily assented. They squared off, Primo in his gym togs, Max in his street attire. Asked for an opinion after this personal size-up of Carnera, Max modestly replied:

"If he ever gets into the ring with me I'll knock the big bum out."

He gets his chance tonight.

GARDINER, STAR HAWKS GOALIE, IS DEAD

By Associated Press.

Chicago, June 14—Charles "Chuck" Gardiner, called the greatest goal tender hockey has ever known, is dead—a crushing blow to the championship aspirations of the Chicago Blackhawks, of which he was the captain.

The [illegible] Scotchman died unexpectedly last night in Winnipeg, his home town, the victim of a tumor of the brain. He had been ill only since Sunday. The seriousness of his condition did not become known until yesterday when he was rushed to a hospital. He was 29.

Gardiner's [illegible] everywhere [illegible]. A model young man in private life, who neither drank nor smoked, Gardiner was an inspiration to the entire Blackhawk team, which swept to victory in winning the Stanley Cup championship this year.

Twice in the last three years he was awarded the George Veznie trophy as the National Hockey League's leading goalie. Nearly every all-star team of the last seven years listed him.

Gardiner was a native of Edinburgh, Scotland. He is survived by his widow and [illegible] Bobby.

MAT RESULTS

Manchester, N. H.—Arthur Elynn awarded decision over Fred Bruno when latter went berserk. After a community brawl Bruno was finally pinned by a gendarme and rushed to his dressing room under guard. Some fun.

Worcester—Kurt Pojello, New York, defeated Frank Coleman, Chicago, best two in three falls. Pojello won first in 38.16 with double elbow lock, back fall and body press. Coleman won second in 1.16, with top body scissors and double wristlock; Pojello won third in 8.22, with head chancery.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—Swede Hanson, Birmingham, Mich., took two out of three falls from Mike London, Oakland, Calif.

Reading, Pa.—Everett Marshall, Colorado, threw George Hagen, Brooklyn, with an arm pull and body press in 15 minutes.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—Swede Hanson, Birmingham, Mich., defeated Mike London, 168, Oakland, Calif., two out of three falls.

Quebec—Joe Savoldi, 20[illegible], Three Oaks, Mich., defeated George Jenkins, 21[illegible], Quebec, two out of three falls.

Dave Wilson Picks Four Winners

Dave Wilson, Boston Evening American horse expert, had another banner day yesterday. Davey picked four winners at Aqueduct, topping the list with Distraction in the first race that paid 7 to 1. Changeling in the third, Spanish Way in the fourth and Outbound in the sixth were the choice of New England's foremost authority on running horses.

Dave is anxiously awaiting the opening at Rockingham where his close contact with horsemen, jockeys and knowledge of past performances of the bangtails will be of utmost importance to players.

COLLEGE YACHT RACING STARTS AT MARION

By E. B. Schriftgeisser

Harvard was considered the favorite today as the races for the intercollegiate yachting championship began at Beverly Yacht Club in Marion. The Crimson was represented by Frank S. Dolard Jr., assistant football manager and former North Shore title winner, and Buddy Fullerton, who won the schoolboy championship a year ago.

Previous winners of the intercollegiate yachting championship were Princeton in 1930, Yale in 1931, Harvard in 1932 and Dartmouth last year. Jack Odell, commodore of the Dartmouth Yacht Club and winner of the title [illegible] R. N. Y. [illegible] is another [illegible] again this year.

Of the six colleges at present belonging to the Intercollegiate Y. R. A. [illegible] Brown, Lehigh, Tech, California, Virginia and Wisconsin [illegible] sought membership. This weekend will be a busy one for those yachtsmen whose business allows them to observe the holiday on Monday. After the opening regatta of the Squantum Yacht Club on Sunday, which counts for the interclub championship, the Boston harbor fleets will kedge across the channel to Wollaston Yacht Club for another open event on Monday, Bunker Hill Day.

The new North Shore Junior Y. R. A. of which Len Fowle, Jr. is temporary president, is to hold an organization meeting on July 2, to which all North Shore clubs will be invited. Races for the Curtis Cup, championship trophy for North Shore junior sailing, will start July 2[illegible].

Frank P. Munro, chairman of the [illegible] race committee, announces that hereafter yachts taking part in the club's races need not observe black [illegible] buoy No. 3 in entering or leaving the harbor, but they must still observe No. 1.

Albie Booth Quits Semi-Pro Ranks

New Haven, Conn., June 14 (INS)—Albie Booth, mighty Yale football hero of diminutive stature, today had announced he will retire from semi-pro athletics, devote his time to his private business, that of professional promoter for an ice cream company, and maintain his only connection with sports by assisting Mal Stevens in coaching the NYU football team.

"ALL OR NONE" ATTITUDE OF MIDDIES

By Associated Press

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 14—Charles (Buck) Walsh, navy coach, has adopted an "all or none" attitude toward the intercollegiate rowing association regatta Saturday and if it works out right it may make the midshipmen a real threat to the western supremacy.

"We didn't come here to place third or fourth, we came to win," Walsh said in explaining why he shook up his varsity eight yesterday. "The fellows didn't go so well in the last two miles of the time trial."

Walsh dropped Cy Austin from No. [illegible] to the jayvee eight, but brought him back for a final paddle of the day, but the other substitutions stood. Bill Coffin, a 172-pound [illegible] 157 pound C. A. Backe, at bow and T. A. McMahon came up from the junior eight to take J. S. Graves No. 4 oar.

Cornell's varsity looked like another [illegible] for Washington and California, as it did three miles in 14.47, but the junior varsity suffered a setback when Ross Kitchen, bow, who had been idle for two days because of an infected [illegible] for his home in West Virginia, making a permanent change in the seating necessary.

DE GLANE SEES GEORGE VICTOR

Barring [illegible] mishaps Ed Don George [illegible] could continue to [illegible] heavyweight wrestlers tomorrow night when he [illegible] with Ernie Dusek, rough [illegible] from the West. This is the opinion of Henry DeGlane, the popular Frenchman, who has met and lost to both in recent months.

DeGlane, here to clash with Casey Kazanjian in the semi-final tomorrow night was asked his opinion yesterday and he cast his vote for George after pondering the matter for several minutes.

"George, as far as ability and wrestling science go," he finally said. "But watch Dusek. He's liable to connect at any time with one of those punches he throws from nowhere. It should be a wild bout."

The top preliminary is the finest Promoter Paul Bowser has ever arranged, with Hans Steinke, German strong man, facing three top notch men in an hour bout. One after the other, he says, he will throw Joe Malcewicz, Nick Lutze and Everett Marshall.

What the Stars Did

By Associated Press.

Lefty Gomez, Yankees—Held Browns to six hits for tenth victory of season.

Majority of Writers Pick Baer Over Primo

By International News Service

New York, June 14—Boxing writers favor Max Baer, Livermore larruper, to lift the heavyweight championship from the massive brow of Primo Carnera when the pair meet tonight in the Garden Bowl.

Here's the way the writers call it:

DAN PARKER, Daily Mirror sports editor—"Baer will win, I like the man with the punch."

ED FRAYNE, N. Y. American Sports Editor:—"Carnera is my choice, possibly by a knockout. He's too big and strong and too hard to hurt. And it is hard to beat a man who is hard to hurt."

MARK KELLY, Los Angeles Examiner:—"Baer to win. He's a puncher and can take a punch. He's never been off his feet in his life."

DAVIS J. WALSH, International News Service Sports Editor:—"A week ago, Carnera. Today, who knows? I don't."

PAUL GALLICO, N. Y. Daily News:—"Baer."

SID ZIFF, Los Angeles Herald and Express Sports Editor:—"I'm picking Baer, but it's just in the hope he reverts to form. No man ever looked worse in training and by rights he couldn't be picked to beat a 10-year-old child. But we know what he has done in the past and rather suspect that he'll grow serious when the crucial moment arrives."

HYPE IGOE, N. Y. Evening Journal:—"Baer."

BILL CORUM, N. Y. Evening Journal:—Baer.

BILL FARNSWORTH, N. Y. Evening Journal sports editor:—Carnera.

BURRIS JENKINS, JR., N. Y. Evening Journal: Carnera.

GRANTLAND RICE, North American Newspaper Alliance sports columnist:—"I favor Baer."

JOE WILLIAMS, N. Y. World-Telegram sports editor:—"Carnera is my choice."

DAMON RUNYON, Universal Service:—No choice.

DON SKENE, N. Y. Herald-Tribune:—"I pick Baer."

JAMES DAWSON, New York Times:—"Carnera."

GEORGE DALEY, New York Herald Tribune:—"Baer."

CURLEY GRIEVE, San Francisco Examiner:—"Baer."

HARRY SMITH, San Francisco Chronicle:—"Baer."

Good Bye, Jumbo

Jumbo Jim Elliot, heavyweight southpaw recently acquired by the Braves, has been released to the Atlanta club of the Southern Association.

Elliot first came up in 1927, with Brooklyn. In 1930 he won 10 games and lost seven. That was his best year under the big top.

He was traded to the Phils in 1931 and won 19 and lost 11. In 1932 he won 11 and lost 10. Since then he has been working only spasmodically. He pitched one good ball game for the Braves while he was here, but on every other occasion he was shellacked merrily.

NEPONSET NINE PLAYS RAYMOND

By Bob Ahearn

Three fast games are carded for the Boston Park League tonight. In the feature, Dick Casey's Neponset entry stacks up against the Raymond Club at Garvey Field. Lefty McKeag of Braintree will be on the mound for Neponset, as Charlie O'Hara, scheduled to hurl, is graduating from B. C. H.

Charlestown meets Joe Marsh at Barry, and Hennigans play the Tow Boaters at Jefferson in other scheduled contests.

Craddock Park, Malden, will be the scene of the feature attraction in the Boston Twi League tonight, with the Rosebuds playing host to Ed Cartullo's Arlington nine.

Other tilts see Waltham playing a return encounter at Lowell, Mayor Hagan Club at Newton, and Cambridge Red Sox at Woburn.

Jimmy Murphy, former Villanova player, has been signed by Manager Joe Marcotte to play in the outfield for the Lowell C. M. A. C. club.

First National Stores meet Hall All-Stars at Trum Playground, Somerville, in the only Suburban Twi game scheduled for the evening. Johnny McNamara, playing shortstop for the Fi-Na-St outfit, is leading the club in hitting.

Leaders in the Hub League of the park department, the St. Lazarus nine of Orient Heights, stack up against the Globe outfit at Noyes Park tonight. Included in the lineup of the Lazarus Club are Herb Regan, Harvard freshman; Jerome Sacco, St. John's Prep; Hank Chiarini, Dean Academy and Dick English, formerly of Boston English.

Coaching the club is "Zu-Zu" Sarto, former captain of Mercersburg Academy nine.

[illegible] Marsh "T" nine advanced a notch in the Retail Store League standing by defeating Houghton's 9 to 2, at South Stadium. Yankovitz, on the mound for the winners, allowed but four hits.

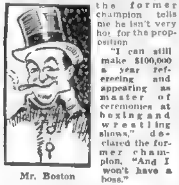
Mr. Boston Says:

Dempsey Still Cool Toward N. Y. Garden Matchmaking Offer

By JACK CONWAY



Mr. Boston

New York, June 14—The Garden is still dickering with Jack Dempsey to become its matchmaker, but the former champion tells me he isn't very hot for the proposition.

"I can still make $100,000 a year refereeing and appearing as master of ceremonies at boxing and wrestling shows," declared the former champion. "And I won't have a boss."

* * *

THE GARDEN directors would like to sign Dempsey so as to retain their monopoly on the heavyweight division. They feel that Dempsey can keep the winner of tonight's bout in line.

* * *

PRIMO CARNERA will be free of his contract with the Garden after tonight's bout. So will Baer if he loses but if he wins he must fight once more for the Garden.

* * *

JACK SHARKEY, accompanied by Mrs. Sharkey, is here for the bout. And is still picking Carnera to win.

* * *

MARK KELLY, Pat Frayne, Tommy Laird, Curley Grieve and other Californian sports writers here for the bout have cast a solid vote for Baer to win.

* * *

JOE WOODMAN, who used to manage Sam Langford, is picking Carnera to grab the Duke.

* * *

TOM McARDLE, former Garden matchmaker, originally was a Baer man, but has switched to Carnera, as he feels the latter is in better condition.

* * *

EDDIE CURLEY, former boxer, is in town for the bout. And is still trying to pick the winner.

* * *

MIKE JACOBS hasn't found it difficult to get $200 for a pair of tickets within the first ten rows. Even tickets in the 27th row are selling at a premium.

* * *

THE SALE on the $11.50 tickets picked up when the fans found it was necessary to pay tops to get choice ringside locations.

* * *

THE GARDEN management made a wise move when it placed 10,000 tickets on sale at $2.20. The original low price was $3.45, which is too much money for the average run of fans to pay.

* * *

I WAS standing outside of the Garden when an ambulance from a local hospital arrived on an emergency call which was supposed to have been sent in from the Garden. Nobody was sick. Some jokester who has read about Baer and Carnera both being sick and what not probably thought he would have some amusement at the expnse of Garden officials.

JIMMY JOHNSTON realizes he may be out as Garden matchmaker after this bout, but he continues to carry on. And is making plans for Maxie Rosenbloom's defense of his world light heavyweight championship against Enzo Fiermonte at the Garden Bowl next month.

'CONFIDENT MY TITLE IS SAFE,' SAYS CHAMP

By Primo Carnera

New York City, June 14—As I left my camp this morning for my battle tonight at the Madison Square Garden Bowl with Max Baer I was more confident than ever that I would defeat the Californian. I feel that my championship title is safe.

My confidence of victory is due chiefly to the long and faithful period of training. Aside from this confidence, I am fired by a determination to win, even more so than when I won the title from Jack Sharkey.

I have been accused of bearing animosity against my opponent. Some have even gone so far as to say I hate Max. The truth is I bear no animosity against anyone but I certainly don't like the things Baer has said about me. His frequent jibes about my inability have hurt. When he says I am a fake champion and don't know how to fight I am determined to show him I can fight.

Yes, I am much more interested in whipping Baer than I was in winning the title last year from Sharkey. I knew then that I would take the crown from Jack, but right now what I want to do is to take the conceit out of Baer who says I don't know how to box and can't punch hard. Max will find out that there is real power behind my blows.

Many have asked me in what round I will knock out Baer. To me this is a silly question. One never knows until he gets into the ring just what kind of a battle he will wage, and if he did he would be foolish to tell about it.

The way I will fight will depend on what kind of a fight Max wages in the first few rounds. Candidly I will be cautious until I feel him out. I don't intend to rush in and take chances on his wild swings.

Baer may cross the experts and try to outbox me as Tommy Loughran did at Miami. Americano Max may try to stall the pace for more than two minutes of each round and finish with one of those twenty-second flash attacks. Some boxers steal decisions with such flashes.

I have had to watch that often in the past—those last second rallies that sometimes fool referees and judges—and I do not think Baer will get away with much if he tries it.

ThorpContinues to ShowImprovement

Port Chester, N. Y., June 14 (INS)—Slight improvement in the condition of Ed Thorp, nationally-known football referee, who suffered a stroke at the Winged Foot Country Club last Saturday, was reportd today at the United hospital here.

Dr. Healey, attending physician, said Thorp's pulse was stronger and he was able to talk to his wife and his brother, Tom, at intervals.

Reel Fight That Becomes Real Tonight in Garden Bowl

BAER SEES HARD BATTLE AND K. O. VICTORY

By Max Baer

New York City, June 14—I predict a real longshoreman's brawl when Primo Carnera and myself meet here tonight for his world heavyweight championship.

He's a big, rough, fouling fighter. Da Preem never fought a fight that he didn't continually foul his opponent. They tell me I won't. Every time he fouls me I'll foul him right back. I may even foul him twice in return. That can result in only one thing—a good old-fashioned brawl that once made dock and pier scraps ripsnorting.

Carnera has lots of cute tricks. He uses the rabbit punch all the time. He beats down on his opponent's neck with his fists from the first to the last rounds.

PPreem doesn't [illegible] sharp blows. He uses [illegible] wrists and cuffs more frequently than clouts. And [illegible]. He stepped on Tommy Loughran's feet during their bout in Florida last winter. I have a [illegible] corn that must be protected. If [illegible] puts his 270 pounds of beef on that tender toe, I'll pull a surprise [illegible].

In a free-for-all fight, I've never had much trouble. I can hold my own, that's certain. If the New York [illegible] that the referee [illegible] down in the press row and let the fighters do their own refereeing, it would be okay with me.

I had such a fight with Paulino Uzcudun at Reno. [illegible] rounds of it, Jack Dempsey himself refereed and laid down the rules.

"If he butts you with his head," Jack told the genial Basque before the fight, "you butt him right back. If he hits you low, crack him low."

[illegible] the title means more than mere fame. It means a fortune—millions of real money! Ancil Hoffman, my manager, has enough radio, stage, movie and night club offers piled up to keep me [illegible] for two years.

I'm going to try to make it a short bout, to fight every round as if it were the last round. I've trained with that idea in mind.

SOX OFFICIALS DENY GROVE IS GOING TO A'S

By Dave Egan

Your envoy does not wish to sadden the day, but in the interests of historical accuracy, he must record the fact that the "Lefty" Grove who is now trying to pitch for the Red Sox is not the same person who toiled so skilfully for Connie Mack.

Grove took it squarely upon the chin whiskers again yesterday, and, though he stumbled through until the ninth after relieving Johnny Welch in the fourth, he can get little nourishment out of his third victory of the season.

Detroit bats played a rat-tat-tat against Grove's choosy offerings, and there was high carnival when they ker-blammed him out of the box with one out in the ninth, after manufacturing 13 hits in 4 2-3 innings.

JUST A HOLLOW SHELL

His fast ball was straight as a small-town rector. His curve was a puny thing that usually broke in the dirt or went wide of the plate. He had nothing out there except a glamorous reputation and the motions of a fellow who once could pitch.

There have been rumors that, under a private agreement between Tom Yawkey and Connie Mack, Grove could be returned to the Athletics and the $125,000 purchase price refunded before June 15, but this is denied around and about the Fenway pastures.

This spring Yawkey had his doubts about the ability of Grove to succeed in Boston after he had developed the first sore arm of his career. At that time he said to the hard-working newspapermen covering the training camp:

"I wouldn't return him to Connie Mack if his left arm dropped off. He was sold to us in good faith and he was bought in good faith."

KLINE A'S BEST BET

Big Bob Kline and Rabbit Warstler, who were part of the bargain which brough Grove, Bishop and Walberg to Boston, have been doing marvellous things under the kindly guidance of Connie. Kline is the leading Athletic pitcher and Warstler is glittering at short and second.

Meanwhile, Grove is an all-American bust. Max Bishop is squatting on the bench. And Rube Walberg is nursing an injured hand.

So, for better or for worse, Grove is with us for the season.

Store Tourney Tomorrow

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

South Shore to Be Scene of Play

By Bill Grimes

The 15th annual Retail Trade Board tournament will be staged tomorrow afternoon at the South Shore Country Club, West Hingham. As usual, the main event will be the fight for the A. J. Frost Cup, but there will be gross and net prizes for each division and, of course, a booby prize.

Wm. Filene Sons' & Co. and Shepard Stores have won two legs on the Frost Cup, while the C. F. Hovey Co. and Gilchrist's own one leg. A year ago, Filene's appeared to have retained the famous store championship trophy but Harvey W. Schaschke, Gilchrist, came in with a net 67 to turn the tide in favor of his store and also keep the Frost Cup in circulation.

A year ago at Weston, Jack McCarthy, Filene's, Frank Vorenberg, Gilchrist, and Art Huguley, Slattery, tied with 84's for low gross in Class A. H. W. Schaschke, Gilchrist topped the field in Class A and J. V. Day, Smith Patterson was low man in Class C.

Joe Goodman has been the most consistent winner in Retail Store Trade tournaments. Until last year, he had captured the booby prize annually, but a severe lightning storm, which forced him to quit, broke Joe's string at Weston. A. C. Cleveland, Jay's, will defend Goodman's old title tomorrow at South Shore.

With Brae Burn, Winchester and Charles River still very much in the running for the title the ninth and final Boston Four-Ball League matches next Tuesday at Weston will be the most important of the entire season. Only three points separate the first three teams. Brae Burn acts as the home team. Charles River plays The Country Club, and Winchester takes on Wellesley.

FRANKHOUSE HANGS UP 9TH VICTORY

St. Louis, Mo., June 14—It will be up to Ben Cantwell to hold the Cardinals in tow today when the Braves oppose the Red Birds in the third and semi-final game of the series.

Tex Carleton, the lean right hander who gained a 2-1 decision over Ed Brandt on the Cards' last visit to the Hub, has been announced by Manager Frankie Frisch as today's Cardinal twirler.

Manager Bill McKechnie expressed satisfaction over the shift he made in his line-up which sent Pinky Whitney from third to second and moved Marty McManus from second to third.

All the more remarkable was Frankhouse's pitching when it was pointed out that Freddie, in gaining his ninth victory of the season remained the only Boston pitcher to gain a decision over the Cards, who can show victories for their five other 1934 altercations with the Braves.

LUTZE DEFEATS SASHA AT ARENA

Nick Lutze defeated Sasha in the main bout of Alex MacLean's mat show at the Arena, winning the first and third falls.

Nick took the first in 23:27 with a reverse double arm back fall. The Cossack took the second in 13:45 with an inside crotch body lift and slam. Nick took the third in 7:50 with a backdrop.

In the semi-final, George Myerson and Freddy Moran were knocked out simultaneously, but Myerson happened to land on top and was declared the winner while still unconscious.

Al Pierotti pinned Harry Lewis in 7.08 with top body press; Bob Russell threw Nick Scotis in 15:56 with a back fall; John Spellman threw Frank Light in 10:20 with a series of flying tackles topped off with a cross body hold; Jack Costa defeated Phil Allen in 7:06 with airplane whirl and slam; Odello Marchioni and Les Ryan, Frank Doyle and Frank Perry drew.

THE FAST BALL

Few pitchers in the history of major leagues ball have the natural speed of Lefty Grove of the Red Sox, when his arm is right. Lefty, like most great speed pitchers, is tall and rangy and makes the most of his height. Legs, body, arms, wrists and fingers go into the making of the fast pitch, and not the least of these is the final snap that the wrist and fingers impart to the ball's flight. A good fast ball will have a slight rise as it nears the plate, called its "hop" and causing the batters to hit underneath and pop it into the air.

Bulls on the market are in disagreement as to the most likely temporary stopping on the upside. Some seem to think that the area between 98-100 represented an intermediate barrier to a further advance. Others say that the list is capable of making the 101-103 zone before experiencing much of a setback. Our interest in the matter is purely academic. Wherever the halting place is it is not far ahead. Purchases, accordingly, might wait on the reaction in the belief upside profit opportunities from current levels are not particularly enticing.

I. C. C. Orders Probe of Passenger Fares

Washington, June 14 The I.C.C. has ordered a general investigation of passenger fares and Pullman surcharges on passengers in sleeping and parlor cars. The matter will be assigned for hearing [illegible] places to be hereafter fixed.

In initiating the inquiry the Commission specifically mentioned that nothing in its order shall be interpreted as approving or disapproving any experiments with reduced fares or surcharges which have been or may be undertaken pending decision in this proceeding.

The order pointed out that the respective levels of passenger fares maintained by the various railroads in the several rate territories vary to such degree that questions have arisen as to their lawfulness.

Water Works Has Output Increase

Output of electric energy of the electric properties of American Water Works & Electric Co. for the week ending June 9, 1934, totaled 35,014,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 5 per cent over the output of 33,480,000 kilowatt hours for the corresponding period of 1933.

CHART ANGLE OF MARKET IS DISCUSSED

Wall St. Not 100 P. C. Bullish; Sentiment Now Hopeful

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

New York, June 14—The general position of the stock market, from a chart standpoint, is one of having broken out of a trading range on the topside, and then run into resistance at the 100 level (Dow Jones). Here it has stuck for several days.

Wall Street is not 100 per cent bullish, but the predominant sentiment is one of hopefulness and increasing confidence that the market will do better. Let us examine the forces at work.

1 As to the underlying conditions, probably the most important is the prospect of increased government spending. This has at least three aspects: (a) As counteracting the reaction in business, (b) as stimulating business this fall, (c) as leading to further public debt and thus to inflation. Looked at in any one of these ways it is considered "bullish" marketwise.

No careful student has ceased to consider inflation as a factor in the market. In fact, so many of the more farsighters have made provisions against the thing that I am inclined to think that the average investor is in the attitude of really wanting a little of it.

In this connection, we should note the continued piling up of demand deposits and the huge "excess reserves" in the banks. The effectiveness of all this "credit" is limited by the fact that it is artificial and due to government borrowing and spending, but it is hard to see how it can help but "break loose" some day.

The silver bill is about to be passed.

2 As to more immediate factors pertaining to business, one notes first the growing probability that no general strike will be called. There may be sporadic walkouts, but nothing more. Probably the administration will now ask and get emergency powers to deal with strikes, in lieu of the Wagner bill.

There are apparently well-founded reports that "mortgage money" is loosening up. This, together with the little spurt in the building trades.

Some response to automobile price cuts appears to have occurred. A fair volume of locomotive and freight car business has recently been booked by Baldwin and Pullman, respectively.

We may add that securities financing prospects have picked up following the amendment of the securities act, and the new Stock Exchange regulation act is being accepted by Wall Street in good spirit.

Sharp Change in Municipal Loan Rates Is Studied

With most Massachusetts cities and towns of good credit standing now able to borrow for temporary periods at less than ½ of 1 per cent, it is almost incredible that less than two and one-half years ago, or in early 1932, the same municipalities were paying 5½ per cent to 6 per cent, with not a few localities quite unable to secure funds at any price.

As realization came to investors that municipal costs were rising and that tax collections were failing behind previous years, a tight squeeze developed in the market for city and town notes a full year before the general hysteria closed all banks.

In later months, as the depression record of Massachusetts municipalities proved good with respect to payment of principal and interest, and as credit reservoirs became choked with funds seeking temporary investment, demand for good municipal paper so increased that rates have been forced down to the lowest level on record.

A few days ago Springfield borrowed money for five months at .29 per cent, a rate never previously known in this state. The nearby state of Rhode Island secured two-months' money at .11 per cent. This situation in the municipal market is related to that in governments, where certificates up to nine months maturity afford no yield, or minus yields.

There are sharp contrasts in rates at which Massachusetts municipalities have borrowed in the past two months, and those at which the same cities and towns borrowed in early 1932. As against its recent .29 per cent, Springfield had to pay 5.40 per cent for eight months' money at the earlier period. Three highly regarded municipalities show the following abrupt changes in rates paid: Beverly, .43 per cent recently as against 5.87 per cent; Brookline, .49 per cent against 5.60 per cent, and Milton, .39 per cent against 5.75 per cent.

Boston succeeded in securing its latest temporary loan at 1.24 per cent, whereas in early 1932 it had to pay 5.75 per cent. The two counties of Norfolk and Essex recently borrowed at .40 per cent and .42 per cent, respectively, whereas at the height of the earlier stringency both had to pay 6 per cent. Of interest, although both cities are outside Massachusetts, Newport recently paid .41 per cent against its 1932 peak rate of 6¼ per cent, and New York just borrowed at the record low of .75 per cent, while in early 1932 it was paying 5¼ per cent.

Auto Financing in Month Higher

Washington, June 14—Both wholesale and retail financing of automobiles showed further increases in April, accordin gto the Department of Commerce.

April wholesale financing reached a dollar volume of $120,992,738 against $102,775,967 in March and $40,840,508 in April last year.

Retail financing $87,923,187, against $69,202,632 in March and

"SOCIAL" PLAN IS APPLAUDED BY YOUTH

Many Eager to Have Government Aid in Financing

By B. C. FORBES

That many people would like to have the government take care of them—by maintaining them when unemployed, by paying them old-age pensions, by financing homes for them, etc., etc. is revealed by the response to the vastly comprehensive plan President Roosevelt has vaguely outlined.

B. C. Forbes

Whereas men of affairs, accustomed to dealing with realities, have doubts as to how the cost could be met and some adult citizens are dubious as to the effect the proposed all-embracing paternalism would have upon the development of sturdy self-reliance among the younger generation letters received by this column from folks in modest circumstances are enthusiastically for the idea.

The best communication from a (presumably young) man of this class is worthy of consideration since it reflects what unquestionably are widely held sentiments.

"My dear sir, the President does not wish to do away with self-reliance, or self-discipline. Like any decent human, he wants to make it possible for people to attain security, but he is realistic enough to admit that under the system you like so well they have not got it, nor can any considerable number of them ever get it. The figures on the number of old people who are dependent on relatives and public charity are too well known to need repetition.

"Your entire reasoning is based on the theory that the average man need only show himself willing to work, to plan, to discipline himself, to deny himself today's pleasures for tomorrow's contingencies, and he must win out in life's struggle.

"No, Mr. Forbes, the government under President Roosevelt has realized that what Stuart Chase calls 'the economy of abundance' is here and getting more so all of the time.

"The government is only giving shape and direction to the national understanding. The people have slumbered but now they are awakening. No longer can any great number be blinded by dragging the red herrings of thrift, self-denial, and the other homely virtues, so-called, across the trail. These qualities were virtues in the prairie wilderness, when capital had not been developed. Today the emphasis is on getting goods into the hands of the consumer, which means literally everybody."

President Roosevelt's proposed "social" scheme constitutes the most momentous proposal now before the American people. Instead of coming under the head of the New Deal, it can appropriately be called the New Deal.

Some ideal are attainable; others are found unattainable in this work-a-day world.

Scoffing at "thrift, self-denial and other so-called virtues" may help to bring a new deal of a kind, but will it last? Old-fogies will doubt it.

GERMAN BONDS MOVE LOWER

New York, June 14 (INS)—Renewed selling of German obligations in response to the declaration of a 6-month moratorium on all cash transfers out of the Reich, featured today's bond trading.

The Young oan 5½s sod down 1¼ points to 36 and the Dawes loan 7s reacted fractionally to 53, both new lows for the year.

Other German liens reacted moderately.

The rest of the bond list both domestic and foreign was not affected by the German news. Argentine liens continued to move to new highs and currently ae selling at their best level in three years.

STOCK PRICES ARE LOWER AT CLOSING

New York, June 14—Stocks were a trifle nervous today in the face of a possible steel strike, the German moratorium on foreign debts and further heaviness of grains.

The majority of traders found side-line seats quite comfortable and transactions were few and far between. There were several noticeable declines, due to special situation, but prices, as a whole were rather narrow. The oils and some of the utilities were resistant. The lack of any sizeable liquidation, under the circumstances, was encouraging to proponents of the advance.

Wheat dropped more than a cent a bushel and the other cereals recorded lesser recessions. Realizing on news of additional rains in the drought districts appeared. Cotton and rubber dropped, but silver was fairly steady.

With the exception of another relapse in German issues, bonds did little. U. S. Government securities again displayed a firm tone. The dollar held about even in foreign exchange dealings, although the Reichmark was heavy.

Announcement from the steel worker's convention at Pittsburgh that there would be no strike vote today, and indications that the walk-out decision might be further delayed pending final Congressional action on the President's four-point peace program, renewed hopes in the financial district that settlement of the controversy may be near at hand.

The effect of the German moratorium on American markets was considered problematical. Some foreign observers believed the present situation has been largely discounted here. Most banking quarters were studying carefully the prospects of Germany devaluating the mark.

Should the Reich reverse its present attitude against devaluation, it was conceded that other foreign currencies would be adversely affected and that America might be finally forced to again boost the price of gold as a defensive measure.

Stocks were moderately lower in the first hour of trading with trading at a slow pace. Losses ranged from fractions to a point or more. Auburn was a soft spot, slipping back 3 points. American Telephone, selling exdividend was down slightly more than a point. Liquid Carbonic was down a point.

Losses of a point or so appeared in such issues as Corn Products, Devoe & Reynolds, People's Gas and Proctor & Gamble. Montgomery Ward was down a major fraction. National Supply lost a major fraction. Celanese was down around a point.

Sales to 11 a. m. approximated 140,000 shares.

The price structure improved in the second hour and many of the early losses were cancelled. Consolidated Gas, along with some others, replaced its early decline by a small net gain. Trading continued quiet into the noon hour.

Moderate recessions were recorded by American Commercial Alcohol, Continental Can, Freeport Texas, Johns Manville, New Haven, Schenley Distillers, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Wright Aero. U. S. Steel was down fractionally and the preferred was off a point.

Sales to noon approximated 260,000 shares.

Third hour prices were only slightly above the lows made earlier in the session. Auburn extended its loss to more than 3 points. General Asphalt was down more than a point. Norfolk & Western dropped 2 points. Westinghouse Air Brake showed a loss of more than a point.

Continental Can reduced its loss to a fraction. Point or more losses were recorded by Pullman, Freeport Texas, Eastman Kodak, American Telephone and American Can. National Cash Register was down around a point.

Sales to 1 p. m. approximated 330,000 shares.

In the fourth hour shares of Auburn Automobile lost more than 3 points. At the same time slightly higher prices were recorded by Standard Oil of California, Socony-Vacuum, Great Western Sugar, American Sugar, American Commercial Alcohol, Consolidated Gas, North American and du Pont.

American Telephone, ex-dividend, yielded a point, as did American Can, and issues of U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Loew's, Stanard Brands, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, Case, N. Y. Central, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Schenley, U. S. Smelting and American Smelting were unchanged to fractionally lower.

Sales to 2 p. m. approximated 420,000 shares.

Bank Clearings in Week Higher

New York, June 14 (AP)—Bank clearings at leading centers last week aggregated $4,604,705,000 against $4,449,327,000 in the same period last year, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. The volume was $431,954,000 below that of the first week in June.

At New York City, clearing showed a loss of 1.4 per cent against the 1933 total, while the total for all outside centers was higher by 15.6 per cent.

STARRETT CO. LOSS $188,436

By Associated Press

New York, June 14—Thompson-Starrett Co., Inc., reports for the fiscal year ended April 26 net loss of $188,436 after taxes and depreciation, but exclusive of a net writeoff of $100,000 in respect of participation in mortgage and a loss of $32,320 on the sale of marketable securities covered by reserves previously provided out of surplus.

For the year ended April 27, 1933, the company reported a profit of $10,556 after ordinary charges and depreciation, but before writeoffs and reserves charged against surplus account.

Providence Rail Orders Dividend

Providence & Worcester Railroad Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share, out of rental received from the New Haven Railroad, payable June 30 to stock of record June 18.

Dillon, Read to Deal in Securities

Dillon, Read & Co. announced today that it will continue to do a general securities business and that after June 15 it will relinquish its private banking business to meet the requirements of the banking act of 1933.

The firm has advised its clients that it will not accept or hold deposits after that date, and that it will only hold funds for customers in accordance with the act, temporarily while awaiting investment.

Dillon, Read & Co. will continue to act as agent for governments and for corporations in paying bonds and coupons, as permitted under the law.

Carloadings Show Seasonal Rise

New York, June 14—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended June 9, to be published Friday by American Railway Association, are likely to show a rise of about seasonal proportions to approximately 625,000 cars. This would be an increase of 8 per cent over the 578,541 reported for the preceding seven days, which included the Decoration Day holiday. Over the past 15 years average increase for the June 9 period over the immediately preceding week has been 8.1 per cent.

Although the carriers to report for the June 9 week generally show increases over the preceding week, comparisons with a year ago are, on the whole, not as favorable as in the seven days ended June 2, due to the fact that a year ago at this time traffic was showing an unusually sharp increase.

DOLLAR STEADY IN EUROPE

By Associated Press

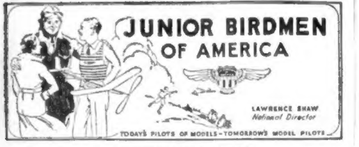
The dollar was steady in foreign exchange markets today. Trading was featured by another dip in the German mark in response to the declaration of a complete moratorium on Reich debts for six months.

The dollar was easier in London at 5.05 to the pound, compared with 5.04 on Wednesday. In New York sterling held unchanged at $5.05.

The price of gold in London declined 5 pence to 1137 shillings 8½ pence a fine ounce (equivalent to $34.75). Bars valued at about $6,307,810 changed hands, reportedly for shipment to New York.

The dollar lost a centime in Paris, closing at the equivalent of 6.61 cents to the franc, compared with 6.60½ cents on Wednesday. The franc remained at 6.60¾ cents in New York.

German marks fell off .17 of a cent in New York to 38.03 cents. Foreign exchange circles held to the belief that the moratorium only postponed the date of official devaluation.



JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA
LAWRENCE SHAW
National Director
TODAY'S PILOTS OF MODELS—TOMORROW'S MODEL PILOTS

By LIEUTENANT L. F. ROSS
Boston Wing Commander

Medals for the winners, Junior Birdmen, will be one of the features of the first annual official New England Model Plane Derby to be held in the Playstead of Franklin Park on Saturday, July 7.

Efforts will be made to have this derby, the first flying competition for Junior Birdmen just as interesting and successful as was the New England Air Festival at the Municipal airport last Saturday.

And the rewards to be given the victors will again prove that the Junior Birdmen organization is carrying out its promise to provide really handsome prizes in all its contests.

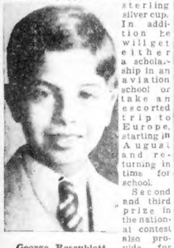
Frances Meyerhoff

There are three events in July derby and six medals will be awarded to the three winners of Group "A" and the three winners of Group "B," who compile the most points under the system of judging the competition.

Gold medals will be given to the first place winners of Group "A" and Group "B," silver medals to the second place winners of each group and bronze medals to the third place winners of each group. Certificates of proficiency will be given to the fourth and fifth place winners of each group. The medals will all be of the same design, size and shape.

The New England girl, boy or youth who compiles the most points will be named Boston wing model plane champion and will receive a miniature wing championship trophy. This winner will be sent to Washingon, D. C., to compete for the national title on Saturday, July 28. All of his expenses will be paid, including rail fare, meals, hotel and sight-seeing.

The winner of the national title will receive the William Randolph Hearst trophy, a beautiful solid sterling silver cup. In addition he will get either a scholarship in an aviation school or take an escorted trip to Europe, starting in August and returning in time for school.



George Rosenblatt

Second and third prize in the national contest also provide for scholarships in an aviation school.

You will agree that these awards are worth striving for, especially since you will find it so easy to construct your model entries and there is no cost to you in connection with the competition. Girls will find it as easy as boys to build the models under the course of instruction we are printing in this column.

Send now for your free book of rules and for your entry blank. Then fill out the entry blank and mail it to us as soon as possible. Don't delay sending in your entry blank. You may lose or misplace it, and if you send it to our headquarters, 100 Summer street, we can file it safely away.

Entries are already beginning to pour in. These include the entries of: Vincent Berberan, 17, of 38 Colby road, North Quincy; Leslie C. Woodman, 16, of 41 Dartmouth street, Everett; Edward Connelly, 15, of 80 Tremont street, Marlboro; Dante Floccheri, 17, of 9 Buckman street, Everett; Samuel Greenwald, 10, of 41 McLean street, Boston; Louis Marcucelli, 17, of 140 Rhode Island avenue, Pawtucket, and Anthony Marcucelli, 19, of 140 Rhode Island avenue, Pawtucket.

Virtually all of them have entered each of the three events. More of the entries will be named from time to time.

Essay Trophy Race Proves Popular

There is going to be lots of competition for those two beautiful, bronze trophies to be awarded to the winner of Group "A" and Group "B" in the essay contest on the Junior Birdmen Field Day. Lots of letters have been received. If you haven't mailed yours, do it now. Don't delay. Remember the contest closes tomorrow and all entries received with a postmark after Friday midnight, will be rejected. So be sure and get your entry in on time. The trophies, donated by the New England Aircraft School, are on display at our office. They will be inscribed with the names of the winners.

The Junior Birdmen, whose pictures are printed today are: Frances Meyerhoff, 18, of 84 Parkway, Chelsea, and George Rosenblatt, 10, of 19 Melvin street, Brighton.

Questions and Answers Box

Louis Pavia, 85 Green street, Boston—Those Junior Birdmen who lose their wings, get new ones by sending in another 10-cent piece. We also issue new membership cards. We regret that your mother won't let you build model planes at home. If you have an older friend who builds models or is interested in aviation perhaps he can persuade your mother that making model planes will help your education and provide you with an interesting hobby. We hope you will call at our headquarters sometime.

Lacy Morrow, Naval Hospital, Chelsea—Eight is the least number with which a squadron can be formed. Your members need not live on the reservation so that, with the members you already have, you should have little difficulty in enlisting the remainder. Good luck to you.

Helen L. Whetmore, Fair View ave., Middletown, R. I.—No, it is not necessary to form or be a member of a squadron in order to enjoy the activities and take part in the contess of he Junior Birdmen. The squadron plan is simply a way in which members can meet together and conduct their own activities in addition to those outlined in this column. If you find seven other children in your neighborhood or at your school who want to form a squadron with you, it also gives you the chance to wear the "commander" or "captain" bar attached to your wings. We are glad to find you are so air-minded and hope this column continues to please you.

Air Dictionary List Number 19

Members are constantly clamoring for more and more air dictionary terms. Here is List Number 19, and still going strong:—

Ceiling-Height Indicator—A device that measures the actual flying ceiling, from the ground, by an illuminated spot on the ceiling produced by a ceiling projector. (See ceiling projector).

Ceiling Projector—A projector light that throws an illumination on the under side of a cloud for the purpose of determining the height of that part of the cloud above the indicator, which represents the ceiling.

Cell (Gas)—A bag in an airship containing the aerostatic gas for buoyancy.

Cellule—The entire structure of the wings and wing trussing of a plane one one side of the fuselage, or between the fuselages where there are more than one.

Center (Of Drift)—A point around which the resistance is said to be evenly distributed when aerfoil is in motion. Also known as center of resistance.

Center (Of Gravity)—The point about which the weight of a plane is evenly distributed. The craft would balance evenly all around if suspended from this point by a cable or rope.

Center (Of Resistance)—Same as center of drift.

Center (Of Pressure)—The point about which the pull of the propeller is distributed.

Center Section—A wing is often built in three sections, the right wing, left wing and a small section which holds the two together. This is the center section. In the case of continuous wing, or left and right wing joined together without a center section, the limits of the center section are arbitrarily defined by the location of points of attachment to the cabane struts or fuselage.

Chandelle—An abrupt climbing turn to approximately a stall in which the momentum of the plane is used to obtain a higher rate of climb than would be possible in an accelerated rate of speed. The purpose of this maneuver is to gain altitude at the same time that the direction of flight is changed.

In our next list we will include the various types of chord measurements which so often confuse the model builder, as well as the designer of real aircraft. Watch for list number 20 in Saturday's column. Until then——

Happy Landings!

Blind Man, 66, Given Life

Plymouth, June 14—Manuel Barros, 66, of Carver, pleaded guilty in superior court here to the murder in the second degree of Mrs. Gladys Banks, 39, of Boston, was sentenced to life imprisonment in state prison.

The body of Mrs. Banks was found in the cellar of a hut owned by Barros in Carver on Nov. 25, 1933, brutally murdered, following a party in which police said Barros and Jack Gonsalves of Bridgeport, Conn., took part.

Gonsalves now is an inmate of the state insane hospital in Taunton. Barros, nearly blind, had been a town charge for some time.

MARGARET SULLAVAN TO BE HEARD ON AIR TONIGHT

Star Is Guest With Rudy Vallee

By N. F. T.

They've done some quick switching down New York way today, with last minute replacements necessary during the Rudy Vallee hour (WEEI) come 8 o'clock tonight. At this time yesterday, in fact until late last night, the plan was to introduce Richard Barthelmess, dapper and diminitive star of the films. Now it develops that instead, we will hear from Margaret Sullavan, likewise of the movie realm. Sharing guest honors will be one Olin Dutra. If that name isn't instantly familiar, be advised he is the proficient player of prairie pocket billiards who won the United States Open Golf Championship last Saturday.

Miss Sullavan is one of the current shining star crop and has lately annexed exceptional praise on every hand as a result of her performance in the production, "Little Man, What Now?" Just what happened in connection with the original Richard Barthelmess arrangement isn't made known by the broadcasters. Other artists to be on hand helping Rudy round out his hurriedly altered airing are: Cross and Dunn, two rapidly rising comedy songsters; the veterans, Willie and Eugene Howard, and a pair of promising darky personalities, named Duke Campbell and Eddie Green.

BEST OF BANJOISTS

That weekly "Showboat" staging has sort of taken to the guest artist idea of late. Tonight brings Eddie Peabody, certainly ace-high among banjo players of the country, helping Cap'n Henry and his colorful crew hold forth with their sixty minute "mike" production. Also a WEEI attraction, due at 9 P. M.

* * *

Much of the music wafted through wireless channels today and tonight is designed to honor the "Flag Day" observance that comes annually with June 14. Fred Waring for example (WNAC) features the George M. Cohan classic "You're a Grand Old Flag" when the 9:30 "Pennsylvanians" program comes across. Lots of good old time and amplified oratory on the way, too. Nothing inspires speechmaking like the Stars and Stripes.

* * *

Fabien Sevitsky is conducting the first in a series of five People's Symphony Orchestra concerts this evening (WNAC) with 85 pieces in the group. All of which consumes the 10 to 10:30 half hour, originating in the Copley-Plaza ballroom.

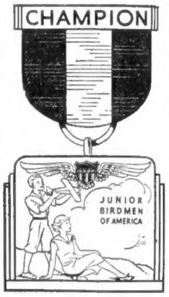
HUB HIGHLIGHTS

That chap calling himself "Bobby Banks" during the WEEI studio free-for-all singing fest, is in reality Harold Fellowes, boss of the selling staff there . . . Local studio solons are starting to check up on loose pronunciation among announcers. Verily they may, since some glaring errors in evidence recently. Not long ago this was the basis of rigid watchfulness. Moreover, if not carefully guarded from time to time it can easily show up to a station's disadvantage . . . Alice Blue, Joe Dunn nad Benny McLaughlin at present pulling fan mail aplenty behind WHDH walls with their harmony trio turns . . .

Model Derby Medal



These medals, two of gold, two of silver and two of bronze, will be awarded to the three winners of Group "A" and three winners of Group "B" in each of the three events of the First Annual Official New England Model Plane Derby for Junior Birdmen at Franklin Park, Saturday, July 7.

CLICQUOT SHIPS 22,000 CASES

One of the largest single shipments in the company's history, a special train of 40 cars carrying 22,000 crates of Chicquot Club ginger ale, left the Chicquot Club plant at Millis, today, for the Philadelphia markets. The shipment was in the popular quart bottle, introduced less than six weeks ago in New England, and now being rapidly adopted throughout the country.

As the shipment headed for Philadelphia, over the New Haven Railroad lines, President H. Earle Kimball, stated that there has been a marked improvement in the company's business, and that production has been speeded up, new bottling equipment purchased, and additional men employed to supply the demand for the new quart bottle.

You Hear Him on the Radio

FRED WARING

Fred Waring . . . The home town boy . . . Who in success did not forget the lads back in Tyrone, Pa . . . And brought them to the big city . . . To be successful too . . . With the Pennsylvanians . . . A name band . . . For whose services bookers come to blows.

Very ironically . . . When Fred was in Penn State College and wanted to join the Glee Club . . . He got a frost . . . But he formed his own orchestra . . . And singing group . . . And now is the topnotcher . . . Where the guys who froze him are nobodies.

Fred went into music . . . Seriously . . . When a Boy Scout in Tyrone . . . 20 years ago . . . With brother, Tom, Fred Buck and "Poley" McClintock . . . And they bleated and thumped all over town . . . At chowder parties, lawn fetes, cornerstone layings . . . Or anything . . . Winning the title, "The Scrap Iron Quartet."

After graduation at Penn State . . . Fred took his own group on the road . . . Calling them the Pennsylvanians . . . As a gesture against the lads who turned him down . . . And he brought the home town boys to the city . . .

They first appeared as feature . . . In the 'New Yorkers" . . . And in "Hello Yourself . . . And have never since been idle . . . Except for much-needed rest . . . Although that does not go for Fred . . . Who never rests . . . And sometimes does 16 hours a day . . . Remaining up until dawn on some special arrangement.

Fred runs to families . . . Starting with his family of home town boys . . . Then his family affair with his brother and himself . . . Then the Ryan family from Kansas City, Babs Ryan and her two brothers, who sing . . . And also Priscilla and Rosemary Lane.

Tomorrow's Radio Personality Portrait will be that of Rosa Ponselle, the Meriden music maker.

Colonel Sherman, Publisher, Dead

Newport, R. I. June 14—Colonel Edwin A. Sherman, owner and publisher of the Newport Daily News, was dead here following an operation at a local hospital.

Col. Sherman was born here, June 16, 1879, and graduated from Harvard University in 1901. He purchased the Daily News in 1918 and was a veteran figure in Republican circles of Rhode Island.

News of the Port of Boston

By WILLIAM F. MAGUIRE

After an uneventful passage from ports in the Belgian Congo and the gold and ivory coast of West Africa, Steamer Padnsay, in command of Captain F. C. Seay, came to her berth at pier 2, East Boston today.

On board, was one passenger.

* * *

Captain Jackson of the Steamer Glen White, which left here yesterday for Norfolk, reported by wireless today that he sighted a tree, 40-feet long with branches, near Nashawenaga Buoy, Vineyard Sound.

The Hydrographic office, Custom House, broadcasted a warning to mariners to be on the lookout and Coast Guard headquarters will send out one of its patrol boats to remove the dangerous obstruction.

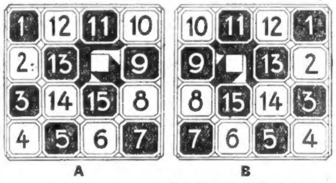
Try Your Hand at Imps

Numbers 1 to 15 in Rotation Around Edge



Answer to yesterday's problem: A, impossible; B, possible.

One week of the Imps in Boston today and the little puzzles have been taken by thousands into the bosoms of Greater Bostonians.

But there are still other thousands to be given out free by the Boston Evening American, therefore if you haven't got your Imp yet you should risk your peace of mind and get yours before it is too late.

Imp is a game more fascinating than cross-word puzzles when they were the rage—and the Boston Evening American with one hand held up to ward off blows, offers you the Imps free.

All you need do to get one of these diabolical things is ask your newsboy or your newsdealer. If he hasn't one at the time, merely send a self-addressed and stamped envelope to the Chief Imp, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston, and one will be mailed to you.

Or, if you wish, you may call at the Circulation Department of the Boston Evening American—same address—and you will be given an Imp free.

The Imps in this free distribution by the Evening American are cardboard puzzles, but if you wish one in colored metal, with the numbers fixed into the puzzle on a sliding device they are on sale in various department and other stores in Greater Boston.

St. Mary's City Ready for Fete

St. Mary's City, Md., June 14 (INS)—After a year's preparation this quaint little city is ready for tomorrow, when the three hundredth anniversary of the arrival of Lord Baltimore's colonists will be celebrated.

For two days, on the land once covered by the homes of the first settlers of the state, and on the waters where they cruised in their odd ships, there will be a continual round of gala events, including pageantry, oratory and exhibitions of battered relics.

HUSBAND AND WIFE

Mr. Wesley Pugsley, 217 Harvard St., Brookline, Mass., says: "I had been troubled with intestinal and heart trouble causing gas colonic distention, pain and soreness. I spoke to my wife about it and she told me to go to Dr. Walsh. She said that Dr. Walsh had done so much for her when she had suffered from Liver and Gall Bladder trouble two years ago and she thought he would do as much for me. I took her advice and Dr. Walsh succeeded in my case as he did in my wife's. I make this statement hoping that it will benefit others who suffer as I did. Signed, Wesley E. Pugsley.

Speeding Up in Courts Is Need of the Day

THREE young men—the Millens and Faber—were convicted by a jury of the desperate bank robbery at Needham and of the brutal murder of the policeman there.

There had been a confession in the case. The basic facts of the crime were not in dispute. The only question raised was whether the young men were mentally responsible for the crime; whether they knew the difference between right and wrong.

Yet this case dragged along for eight weeks. There was a long procession of evidence. There was a constant parade of psychiatrists, alienists and other alleged experts. Judge Brown exhibited a patience which was virtuous.

And when it was all over, when the spectacle was completed after two months of almost inexhaustible exploration, the jury decided in four hours that the young men were guilty.

There is not a layman who can be held accountable for the protraction of this case. If the wheels of justice grind slowly, it is because they are clogged by the legal impediments that have been thrown into the machinery by the law-makers and some lawyers.

EVERY one of the many thousands of cases in this particular court had to stand behind this trial, and wait.

Everybody knows that the courts are jammed to suffocation. It has been established that the cases now on the docket cannot be reached for trial on the average within five years.

And everybody knows, despite this terrific jam, that new cases are being filed treble the number that now can be disposed of and that the Legislature has not manifested any progressive ambition to extricate or relieve the enormous congestion.

President Emeritus Lowell of Harvard said, for the committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, that justice does not exist in this State, but a travesty on justice. It is not justice to allow cases to be dragged along for years without settlement.

Witnesses disappear or die.

Even the litigants pass on to an eternal judgment without the knowledge of their guilt or innocence on this sphere.

There are some very obvious remedies that can be helpful to people in their distress, caused by the delay of justice.

Special courts could be set up for the adjustment of tort cases arising out of automobile accidents.

Lower court judges could be authorized to dispose of cases involving minor amounts and minor transactions.

All judges should be put upon full-time salary, forbidden to try cases in their own courts and made to sit regularly and permanently until the present congestion is relieved.

The fact is there are many obvious improvements that could be made to secure speedy justice.

The only wonder is that the Legislature does not adopt some of them and put them into operation.

Display Old Glory

THIS is Flag Day. Show your colors.

Old Glory, in its present and only design, was adopted 157 years ago as the official banner of the United States of America.

Red, white and blue, denoting strength, firmness and purity; an alternating red and white stripe, thirteen of them, denoting the original thirteen Colonies which proclaimed freedom and ratified the new American Constitution for America; one star, now forty-eight of them, for each proud Commonwealth admitted to the Union of States.

When Betsy Ross conceived this flag, so the legend tells, a rainbow came into the sky and cast its beautiful reflection upon the table where she was industriously at work. It was to be the peace after the storm. The war in which our ancestors then were engaged triumphed in the creation of a free country and a government of liberty.

Since that fateful day, and under this banner, America has become the most powerful Nation on earth. Our material standards are the highest ever known. We have had and maintained, since the collapse of India, the richest domestic market of all time. We are fortunately situated, capable of defending ourselves from attack if we install adequate defense.

In this, we can build to our own choosing, accepting the dictates of no foreign Nation unless we foolishly involve ourselves in pacts with them.

The sun is breaking through the clouds of our domestic travail now as it did in the day of Betsy Ross. The rainbow, we hope, reflects the near-future of general prosperity.

Old Glory represents a triumphant country in the past 157 years.

If we remain Americans, true to our ideals, loyal to our heritage, faithful to our history, we shall continue in that success, and derive pride and happiness from it.

Old Glory represents a country of which we can be proud. Let it wave gloriously in the breeze today and every day. Show your colors.

Helpful for Boston

Mayor Mansfield has now been authorized by the Legislature to restore the pay cuts to the city employes of Boston.

This is timely, sensible legislation. The Boston Evening American believes so because this newspaper urged its adoption by the Legislature.

Otherwise, the city employes would have been in a helpless situation, unable to have any of their salary restored, even if improved economic conditions made it possible, advisable or necessary.

Mayor Mansfield has his problems, of course.

Taxes and city expenses are high.

The budget has to be fitted to current income.

But the signs are better.

When and if the improvement is apparent in the city treasury, it is to be hoped that Mayor Mansfield will not defer the restoration to the city employes a day longer than is possible.

Much abuse has been heaped upon public employes. They are described as having "soft jobs," a regular paymaster and the benefits of permanent employment, vacations and sick-leave.

This does not tell all the story, however. It does not tell that most people are faithful to their employment, whether it be in public or private field.

Nor does it tell that for many years, in the time of high prosperity, the wages and salaries of the public employes remained stationary, while the wages in private industry went skyrocketing.

OUR BANNER FLYING
A RHYME for FLAG DAY
By EDWIN MARKHAM

LOOSEN the banner, fling her high,
A meteor in every sky,
Till to all nations she shall tell
The dream of Independence Bell—
That men do not begin to be
Till they are fetterless and free—
Men ever fetterless, yet bound
In comrade love the whole world round—
Men free to unfold their inward might,
Free for the onward march to light,
Free for the new world's coming birth,
Free to build paradise on earth!

FLING out the flag, a sacred thing,
And let the starry ripples sing.
She is the daring one whose dream
Is Time's imperishable theme.
Her shadow must—wherever it falls—
Shatter the chains, shake down the walls.
She is a victory unfurled
On all the winds and waves of the world.
She is a quickening, and the hope
Of all the lands that grieve and grope—
On every continent and sea
The dream of freedom yet to be.

Listen, World! -:- -:- By Elsie Robinson

THEY HAVE DOORS BUT THEY WON'T USE THEM!

"You said," she writes, "that there's 'always a door, somewhere' for unhappy lives, and sooner or later they'll find it. Do you really believe that—for everybody?"

Elsie Robinson

Yes, I really believe it. But remember, I also said:

"We seldom find that door where we expected; often do not recognize it."

Also, I might add, even when we do find it, we refuse to use it!

There's Ethel, for instance. Ethel outwardly is that interesting creature we call "a typical American wife." Smart, handsome, healthy, capable, twenty-seven . . . married five years, the mother of a lovely little girl, the wife of a devoted young man, mistress of a charming house.

Ethel would seem to be sitting pretty. But instead, she's restless and rebellious . . . feels that her life is being tragically frustrated by domestic duties.

Like most of us, Ethel is looking for "a door." When she was a youngster she was given to exciting day dreams—pictured herself playing thrilling roles—craved excitement, danger.

Now, she's even more hungry for drama. But she can't find it in the conventional routine of life. She loves her husband and children, is proud of her pretty home.

"But that isn't enough!" cries Ethel. "I don't want to spend my life just being another wife or mother. I want to do something different . . . something worth while."

She has decided that two things would be worth while . . . to write a book or go into the movies. Obviously, the movies are out of the question. But she can and does write. For three years she has written and written—and written. Only to pile one maddening rejection upon another. She's sure she knows the reason.

"If only I could give all my time to it," she moans. "I just know I have talent . . . but how can anyone get anything done with a family to look after? If I could just go away for a year! But Fred thinks I'm crazy when I suggest it."

So, day after day, year after year, Ethel seeks frantically—but vainly—for a door into that real writer does. But she has a larger, more colorful life. While all the time, as the dullest of us can see, there are dozens of doors right at hand.

Obviously, she hasn't literary talent. If she had, she could write successfully in any corner, under any condition—as every genuine desire for drama and adventure.

And she could find these daily in books, art, amateur theatricals, interior decoration, social service work. She could even find them in that housework she despises . . . in the vanishing sewing and cooking crafts . . . in entertaining interesting people.

There's Ethel's "door"—all the doors she has the ability to use—but she'll neither see it nor accept it.

Common story, isn't it? You've seen scores of Ethels. Girls who refuse to be good stenographers because they can't be great dancers. Boys who won't accept a waiter's job because it might interfere with their being Paul Whitemans some day.

IF THEY CAN'T BE WHAT THEY WANT, THEY WON'T BE WHAT THEY CAN. THEY HAVE DOORS BUT THEY WON'T USE THEM.

That's true of all of us. There's a way out for every life, no matter how handicapped it may be. There's a door which will open into larger, livelier experience. But we don't or won't see it. Why?

Partly because our eyes are looking for common doors which will fit our size. We're looking for Triumphal Arches and Brass Bands.

And, secondly, we won't open the doors which lie before us because we're lazy and cowardly. We like to dream and whine, talk about our shackled lives. We like to talk and boast about what we'd do if we had our chance.

But when it comes to doing it we don't want to pay the price. There's always some hard labor which we detest, some risk we fear, some change or adjustment we can take. And so—

We stay on the wrong side of the door—and enjoy our martyrdom!

Marry-Go-Round
By Helen Rowland

The American man is a hardy perennial. Nothing can kill him—not even the thing he does to himself. Like the good old honeysuckle vine, he comes up blooming every year.

He loads his insides down with beans, pie and pickles in New England and with hot breads and fried foods in the South. In New York, he lets the foreign chefs pour villainous hot melted butter over everything he eats, except his coffee and ice cream; and he blithely consumes half a dozen rich hors d'oeuvres, before starting in on the lobster and terrapin.

Helen Rowland

But, what ho! Then he takes a soda-mint and awakes in the morning ready for his hot waffles.

For over a dozen years, he has been drinking everything poisonous, from denatured alcohol to artificial champagne, shellac and swamp whiskey. Yet his beautiful castiron stomach continues to act like a stomach.

He rushes around like a maniac in a high-powered car, cuts corners, slips past lights; and unless he gets into a flirtation with a truck or steam engine, he lives to tell the judge "it wasn't so."

He walks around a golf course for hours, bareheaded in the blazing sun of an August day and still manages to retain sufficient reason to brag about his stroke or invent a good alibi.

He knows that the stock market crash wrecked the lives, fortunes and nervous systems of half the world; yet he is still ready to hang up his shirt every time the ticker jiggles up a few points.

He knows that the World War killed off the flower of our youth and practically ruined the whole wide world; yet he goes right on listening to talk about "war" and manufacturing munitions. The only trouble being that he can't think of anything to FIGHT about—YET.

He is aware that a mercenary, determined woman can haul him into court, sue him for heart balm (and perhaps collect,) wreck his reputation and make him look foolish. Yet he continues to write those "Baby-doll" letters, and is careless about choosing the kind of women he plays around with as he is about what the barkeep puts in his cocktails.

He keeps on rushing into marriage as though it were a revolving door and sliding out of it again as easily as a snake sheds its skin. Yet nothing ever quenches his optimism and enthusiasm until he finds himself in the alimony jail.

In short, in spite of bullets, racketeers, kidnapers, rich food, bad drinks, fast cars, patent medicines, gold diggers and no judgment about love or women, he manages to survive, to thrive and to enjoy life!

No wonder so many wives shoot their husbands.

Human Side of the News; Flair for Publicity
By Edwin C. Hill

There are ladies and gentlemen of this day and age with a curious flair for staying in the news. They have, in some instances, a special genius for publicity. Others who do not deliberately seek personal publicity have what the sporting writers call "color."

Of such is the contract bridge master, Ely Culbertson, the tall, slim wizard of contract analysis who has made a large fortune out of the world's major fad, which has engaged the interest of the civilized world.

For the cards of contract drop on tables from San Francisco to Singapore and from New York to Nagasaki. He bestrides the bridge world like a colossus. His books are perennially among the "best sellers." And yet all his fortune and all his fame came from one of the most amazing strokes of sheer luck that ever lifted a man from despair into the heights of eager ambition.

AMAZING CHAP

I suppose that there will be arguments until Gabriel blows his golden trumpet over this question of whether or not luck plays a decisive part in the lives of men who beat the game magnificently. Everybody is entitled to his opinion. Mine is that luck counts, for I have seen it doing its magnic.

Take this amazing chap, Ely Culbertson, the contract bridge master, so prominently in the human side of the news. He is convinced, from his own experience, that luck is the most important element of life. He proves it by his story, which he told to me only a little while ago, and a striking example it is.

"After the Bolshevists seized control of Russia," this American-Russian told me, "my family lost every dollar they had in the world. I landed in Paris with just one hundred francs in my pocket, about ten dollars at that time, in nineteen-nineteen. I was up against it for fair, with no way to turn, because I had never been taught how to earn a living and had to spend my life gratifying expesive and luxurious tastes. The only opening I saw was to join the anti-Bolshevist army as a soldier of fortune.

"While I was turning that over in my mind, I strolled one evening along the Rue de Voiney, sorrowfully thinking of my miserable 100 francs. As I strolled along, I approached a gambling club I had known in more prosperous days, and without thinking one way or another what I was about, I walked in, went to a roulette table and put 20 francs on the red. Just as the croupier spun the wheel the man at my side trod hard on my toe, coming down with all his weight, and he was a big chap.

"I turned around, expecting some word of apology, but he completely ignored me. That was a little too much. My temper, never angelic, flared up, and I told him he was, as the French, a species of pig. Then he told me a few things and I smacked him. He came back with a punch and we went at it hot and heavy, fighting all the way into an adjoining room. We must have swatted each other half an hour before the spirit of combat wore off and honor was settled.

GRABS UP ROLL

"When I made my way back to my seat at the roulette table I saw instantly that the people all around it were boiling with excitement. I looked down, and there in front of me was a stack of French money of noble proportions. A jack rabbit would have had to take a running start to hurdle it.

"At that moment the croupier raised an angry voice. 'Whose money is this?' he demanded. 'This bet can go no further!' And all of a sudden the blessed realization descended upon me that the big stack of notes was mine, all hine. And believe me, I grabbed it up in a hurry and made for the street.

"When I counted the roll it came to twenty thousand, four hundred and eighty francs, or a bit more than $2000 dollars. Red had come up nine straight times, doubling my stake each time. And the hunch came to me then and there to go to America, my father's home, and seek my fortune—and go I did.

"And I have thought a thousand times how different by life would surely have been if I hadn't chanced to take that walk along the Rue de Voinay, and been moved to step into the gambling club and toss that twenty francs on the red. The chances are a hundred to one that I would have joined the anti-Reds and died of lead poisoning, or else perished from starvation and disease in a Soviet prison. Do you wonder, my friend, that I believe in luck?"

Indians to Get New Deal Under Roosevelt Plan
By James T. Williams, Jr.

If the Indians of the United States get a new deal from this Congress they will have President Roosevelt to thank.

Passage by the Senate of the Wheeler-Howard bill, which provides a new deal for the Indians, was chiefly due to the President's vigorous leadership in its support. If it passes the House before adjournment and is not lost in conference, the Indians will also have the President to thank for rescuing them from further exploitation at the hands of pork barrel politicians and other sinister forces.

AMENDMENTS ACCEPTED

This much discussed measure will not become a law in the form that it was submitted to Congress. It has been amended at both ends of the Capitol by the exclusion of those sections which caused the most bitter disagreement among the friends and near-friends of the Indians.

Most legislation, however, is the result of compromise, and the President has wisely accepted amendments to his Indian bill in order that its main provisions might be enacted into law. As he said in his appeal to Congress in behalf of this measure:

"The Wheeler-Howard bill embodies the basic and broad principles of the administration for anew standard of dealing between the federal government and its Indian wards.

"It is, in the main, a measure of justice that is long overdue.

"We can and should, without furthur delay, extend to the Indians the fundamental rights of political liberty and local self-government and the opportunities of education and economic assistance that they require in order to attain a wholesome American life. This is but the obligation of honor of a powerful nation toward a people living among us and dependant upon our protection.

LAND ALLOTMENT ABOLISHED

"Certainly the continuance of autocratic rule, by a federal despotism, over the lives of more than 200,000 citizens of this nation is incompatible with American ideals of liberty. It also is destructive of the character and self-respect of a great race."

This humane and progressive measure, as it passed the Senate, abolishes the allotment of Indian lands. It extends indefinitely the period in which the government may hold in trust and free from taxation the lands which rightfully belong to the Indians.

It restores to the Indians their misnamed "surplus lands," which have been thrown open for homestead entry, and prohibits the sale of Indian lands to white men.

As the President's Indian commissioner, Mr. Collier, has truly said:

"These are things which all true friends of the Indians enthusiastically endorse."

But this legislative proposal would do even more for the Indians. It provides an appropriation of ten million dollars to be used as a revolving fund from which loans can be made to the Indians for promoting their economic development.

It provides also two hundred and fifty thousand dollars for Indian education, and more important still it requires that any Indians who meet the qualifications for positions in the Indian bureau must be given preference in all appointments to that service.

Thus between the educational opportunity, which will be opened up if this measure becomes a law, and the mandatory preference for Indians who can qualify, the Indians themselves will gradually take over all the work of the Indian bureau.

UP TO DEMOCRATS

Under this proposed legislation, the Indians will be permitted to organize corporations for carrying on business activities and developing their natural resources. Tribes will be permitted to organize for their common welfare. The natural resources of Indian reservations will be developed for the benefit of the Indians.

It will be a disgrace to the Democratic leadership of the Congress if this legislation fails of final enactment before adjournment. It is in no sense partisan. The only opposition to it comes from the enemies of the Indians and from those dull-witted members of Congress to whom "the obligation of honor of a powerful nation" is without meaning.

Stars and Stripes

When Horace Greely urged young men to "go West and grow up with the country," he wasn't thinking of what a drought could do to a young man trying to grow up.

Henry P. Fletcher, new chairman of the Republican National committee, says he is ready to roll up his shirt sleeves and go to work. But Jim Farley, the Democratic National chairman, hints that won't be necessary, as he expects to take Mr. Fletcher's shirt off him.

Virginia has discovered it has no law to punish a drunken driver in that state. You've go to walk straight if you want to go to jail.

A noted movie actor is going to retire from the screen temporarily because his wife is going to have a baby. We fail to see why he has to do the retiring.
